Experiential learning for better leading

At QUTeX, experiential learning is front and centre of our executive education offerings, whether it be with management teams from organisations, or in our Executive MBA program.

Our programs are informed by contemporary educational research in adult learning, and the creation of long-term sustainable changes to workplace practices.

The benefits of experiential learning include:

- The ability to immediately apply knowledge
- Provide access to real-time coaching and feedback
- Promotion of teamwork and communication skills
- Development of reflective practice habits
- Receiving immediate results; and
- Having fun!

For executives to get it, they need to feel it.

The key is to create learning activities that help executives internalise the key elements coming out of the research on leadership and executive development – it’s learning through doing.”

- Dr Brett Heyward, QUTeX (pictured)

Creating a Future Ready Workforce with the Australian Army

In 2020 QUTeX became the preferred provider of a professional military education product for the Australian Army.

The Ryan Review (2016) proposed a number of recommendations to ensure that the Army was future-ready. Recognising that size and technology would not be an advantage in future conflict, a strategy was formulated around increasing intellectual and decision-making ability leading to the development of a new professional development initiative, COVE+.

In April 2020 the Graduate School of Business/QUTeX was successful in winning the contract for the first year of development of COVE+.

COVE+ is available at no cost to learners and is targeted at soldiers in the first 15 years of their Army service after which they typically attend military college for their specific military education. All serving Army personnel can choose units of general learning to benefit their professional career as well as their personal life. It is expected that participation in the program will enable participants to tackle a broader range of complex problems through improving critical thinking skills.

The goal is for Australia to be better prepared to outpace, out-maneuuvre, and out-think conventional and unconventional threats, and to create a truly future-ready workforce able to operate in an era of accelerated warfare.

Inspiring Leaders to be Visionaries for Western Downs Regional Council

In 2019, Western Downs Regional Council (WDRC) recognised they needed some help to tackle future-orientated problems. They were looking to upskill their staff in a rapid way, to think more innovatively, and to commence developing a coaching culture for leadership. More than that, they wanted to do something cutting edge and needed to ensure a quality educational experience, and so they chose to partner with QUTeX.

Professor of Practice, Dr Brett Heyward, engaged with WDRC Senior Executives in a number of strategic discussions to identify and explore core business challenges and opportunities, for example, organisational culture, business processes, and work environments.

These discussions informed the program co-design process.

Our QUTeX team then immersed themselves in the Western Downs environment to enable us to really understand the issues they were facing. The education response was then tailored to meet their needs, and delivered in their language.

The program provided the participants, and the organisation, the ability to see new opportunities that were open to them.

The program aimed to bring in an external agent to foster those ideas, the transition in idea generation confirmed our ability to stimulate new ways of working and thinking.

Western Downs now has a highly engaged workforce focused on the issues of tomorrow not just what is coming through the door today.
