

Page 2

“QUT published its first Blueprint in 2004...”

- See QUT’s Digital Collection: https://digitalcollections.qut.edu.au/view/sub-collections/2218/QUT\_Publications\_-\_Blueprint.html

Page 4

“...concurrent QUT and Aboriginal history is only around 170 years old.”

QUT’s oldest antecedent institution, the Brisbane School of Arts and Sciences was inaugurated and began running in 1849.

- Kyle, N., et al. A Class of Its Own: A History of Queensland University of Technology. Alexandria, NSW: Hale & Iremonger in association with QUT, 1999, p27.

Page 5

“Prior to colonisation, the Brisbane area...”

- Kerkhove, R. Aboriginal Camp Sites of Greater Brisbane: An Historical Guide. Boolarong Press, 2015, cited in Kerkhove, R. ‘Aboriginal Camps as Urban Foundations? Evidence from Southern Queensland.’ Aboriginal History Journal, vol. 42, 2018, p149.

“The community hosted ceremonies...”

- Petrie, C. Tom Petrie’s Reminiscences of Early Queensland. Hawthorn: Lloyd O’Neill, 1904, p161.

“Brisbane Aboriginal people had defined systems...”

- Steele, J. G. Aboriginal Pathways in Southeast Queensland and the Richmond River. UQ Press, 1984, pp124-132.

“Bora rings existed in a number of places...”

- Aboriginal Pathways in Southeast Queensland and the Richmond River, pp124-132.

“A British penal colony was established in 1825...”

- Fitzgerald, R. A History of Queensland: From The Dreaming to 1915. St Lucia: UQ Press, 1986, pp74-75, 89-90.

“In November 1849, the inaugural Brisbane School of Arts and Sciences lecture...”

- A Class of Its Own, p27.

“The School of Arts ran classes...”

- A Class of Its Own, pp27-28.

“In 1882 it created Brisbane Technical College...”

- A Class of Its Own, pp29-30, 35.

“Renamed the Central Technical College, it moved to Gardens Point in 1915.”

- A Class of Its Own, p49.

“Colonisation was cataclysmic for the Turrbal and Yugara people...”

- Aboriginal Camp Sites of Greater Brisbane, p93.

Page 6

“Aboriginal resistance to colonisation continued...”

- Aboriginal Camp Sites of Greater Brisbane, pp80-93.

“The Aboriginal community in Brisbane was reduced to about six camps.”

- ‘Aboriginal Camps as Urban Foundations?’, p149.

“A camp near the Kelvin Grove campus known as ‘Barrambin’...”

- ‘Aboriginal Camps as Urban Foundations?’, p154;
Tom Petrie’s Reminiscences of Early Queensland, pp27, 88, 143, 316.

“Despite dispossession of their land...”

- Lothian, K. ‘Moving Blackwards: Black Power and the Aboriginal Embassy.’ Macfarlane I., & Hannah, M. Transgressions: Critical Australian Indigenous Histories. ANU Press, 2007, 19-34, p21.

“A number of teacher training colleges opened during the early twentieth century...” including (references are to A Class of Its Own):

- Brisbane Kindergarten Training College (BKTC) in 1911, pp84-85
- Queensland Teachers’ Training College (QTTC) in 1914, pp65-66

“Many staff contributed tuppence per day...”

- A Class of Its Own, p75.

“A series of mergers ultimately formed the Brisbane College of Advanced Education...” These were (references are to A Class of Its Own):

- QTTC moved to Kelvin Grove in 1942, p80.
- QTTC was renamed Kelvin Grove Teachers’ College (KGTC) in 1961, p222.
- Kedron Park Teachers’ College (KPTC) opened in 1961, p81.
- Mt Gravatt Teachers College opened in 1969, p82.
- KGTC became a College of Advanced Education in 1975, p128.
- Mt Gravatt Teachers College became the Mount Gravatt College of Advanced Education (MtGCAE) in 1975, p128.
- KGTC, KPTC and MtGCAE merged to become the Brisbane College of Advanced Education in 1982, p138.

“In 1965 Central Technical College became the Queensland Institute of Technology (QIT)...”

- A Class of Its Own, pp63, 111-118.

“...expanding beyond the six original departments of chemistry, engineering, general studies, business studies, architecture and building.”

- A Class of Its Own, p105.

“The College of Nursing (Queensland) joined in 1978...”

- A Class of Its Own, p116.

Page 7

“In 1991, QUT established an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander student support unit...”

- See ‘Oodgeroo Unit’: <https://www.qut.edu.au/about/oodgeroo>.

“In 2008 QUT established the Indigenous Studies Research Network...”

- See ‘Indigenous Studies Research Network’: <http://www.isrn.qut.edu.au/>.

“Between 1998 and 2015, the Turrbal and Yugara people lodged native title claims...”

- ‘Native Title Determination Details: QCD2015/001 - Yugara/Yugarapul People and Turrbal People. (2015, March 16)’:
http://www.nntt.gov.au/searchRegApps/NativeTitleClaims/Pages/Determination\_details.aspx?NNTT\_FileNo=QCD2015/001

“QIT became QUT on 1 January 1989...”

- A Class of Its Own, pp151, 160.

“QUT was The Australian Good University Guide’s inaugural Australian University of the Year in 1993.”

- A Class of Its Own, p168.

“QUT’s Learning Potential Fund (LPF) was established in 1998....”

- See ‘Learning Potential Fund’: <https://www.qut.edu.au/engage/giving/make-a-real-impact/change-a-life/learning-potential-fund>