Entry Requirements - Academic

Successful completion of senior high school with the required grades. Students can find more country specific entry requirements at the following web site: http://www.international.qut.edu.au/apply/index.jsp

Entry Requirements - English language

Queensland Senior English (Low Achievement) or IELTS 5.5 with no sub-score less than 5.0 or TOEFL iBT Overall score of 69 (at least 18 in writing and reading and 17 or more in listening and speaking) or TOEFL 525 (paper) or TOEFL 193 (CBT) or equivalent, or successful completion of the EAP program. (N.B. Students should also check visa requirements).

Description

The University Diploma in Creative Industries, which has intakes for international students in February, June and October, is equivalent to the first year of the Bachelor of Mass Communication and a range of Creative Industries degrees (see list below). In this program, students study six faculty units as well as two units of Communication which have been designed to support their other units. Student who successfully complete the University Diploma in Creative Industries earn full academic credit for eight units, and articulate to the second year of their chosen degree, except for Bachelor of Fine Art (Film and Television) for which one semester credit only is awarded. Small lectures and tutorials, additional workshops and the support of Language and Welfare Advisers provide an excellent learning environment.

Course Completion

Students must obtain at least a grade of 4 (Pass) in all units

Progression

Requirements for a guaranteed place in the following QUT Bachelor degrees:

i) have an IELTS score of 6.5 or its equivalent
ii) fulfil the Diploma course requirements, and
iii) Gain a Grade Point Average (GPA) for particular courses, as indicated below:

Students must study BSD126 Marketing if they are wanting to choose either the Public Relations or Advertising major in the IF27 Bachelor of Mass Communication program

Students who successfully complete the University Diploma of Creative Industries and meet the respective faculty requirements will receive up to one year's advanced standing and be guaranteed a place in one of the available bachelor programs from the Creative Industries Faculty.

Students who achieve a grade point average of at least 4.0 (on a 7-point scale), will recieve 96 credit points (two semesters) of credit (advanced standing), with four semesters to complete:

- Bachelor of Mass Communication
- Bachelor of Creative Industries
- Bachelor of Media and Communication

Students who achieve a grade point average of at least 4.5 (on a 7-point scale), will recieve 96 credit points (two semesters) of credit (advanced standing), with four semesters to complete:

- Bachelor of Entertainment Industries
- Bachelor of Journalism
- Bachelor of Fine Arts (Creative and Professional Writing)
- Bachelor of Fine Arts (Film, TV and New Media Production)
- Bachelor of Fine Arts (Interactive and Visual Design) – starting in February
- Bachelor of Fine Arts (Drama)

Students who achieve a grade point average of at least 4.5 (on a 7-point scale), will recieve 96 credit points (two semesters) of credit (advanced standing), with five semesters to complete:

- Bachelor of Fine Arts (Interactive and Visual Design) – starting in July

Students who achieve a grade point average of at least 4.5 (on a 7-point scale), will recieve 96 credit points (two semesters) of advanced standing for six semesters to complete:

• Bachelor of Fine Arts (Animation)

Extension English Sessions

For first-semester students, these sessions take place during weeks two to eight. Other QUTIC students in University Entry Programs may join the sessions, if their timetable permits. The aims of Extension English are to improve the student's English language proficiency in speaking, listening and overall writing ability in a relaxed environment.

In addition to developing these language skills, students have the opportunity to discuss cultural issues and ask questions about studying at university.

Overview

Design is the focus of this course; these studies are supported by studies in architectural technology, history and culture of architecture, ethical and legislative frameworks, and the study of architecture in practice.

Second majors and minors

You will be able to select from two 4 unit approved minors or one 8 unit approved second major to enhance and broaden your knowledge in a related field or area of interest. Please refer to the rules at the following location before making your selection: http://www.student.qut.edu.au/about/faculties-institutes-and-divisions/faculties/built-environment-and-engineering/second-majors-and-minors .

ARCHITECTURAL STUDIES Second Major and Minor Options

Second Major:
A 2nd major from anywhere in QUT.

Minors:
A minor from anywhere in QUT.
Please remember that one minor must be from outside of your course.
(Design students interested in enrolling in the BEE Applications minor, must first consult and obtain approval from the Subject Area Coordinator/Course Coordinator .)

Professional Recognition

DE40 Bachelor of Design (Architectural Studies) has received preliminary assessment from the Architects Accreditation Council of Australia (AACA) and will undergo full-assessment in early 2011.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

Your foundation year sets the groundwork for architecture design and theory units. Five units are common to the design degree or Faculty and these cover design, design history, design and sustainability and digital communications. You undertake two units of introductory core architecture design studios and the first unit dealing with place making.

Year 2

You participate in two design studios covering process of design, dwelling, tectonics and public spaces. Further design units which integrate technology (climate) and history/theory (culture and space) are covered and lecture-based units address history/theory (architecture in the twentieth century) and architectural technology (building construction). You complete the first two units for your second major or first minor.

Year 3

Design studios address course focus areas of digital tools and sustainability. Design units continue, integrating specific knowledge of technology (structure). Additionally there is a collaborative design unit where you work with students in other disciplines of design. Two lecture-based units address history/theory (architecture and the city), and architectural technology (building services). You complete a further two units for your second major or first minor.

Year 4

Core design studios are of an advanced level, addressing the context of buildings in the urban setting, and culminating with a design project that demonstrates the integration of knowledge accumulated through the course. You also complete two common units in design research and professional practice. You complete a further four units of your second major or four units of your second minor.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

In this foundation year you learn about design process, physical and aesthetic function, an introduction to design history and the role of design professions. You undertake five units common to the design school or Faculty covering design, design history, design and sustainability and digital communication. You explore symbolic function, ergonomics and product usability as well as the use of digital media and sustainability.

Year 2

You focus on the key aspects of how products are made, computer-aided industrial design, products systems and the social and cultural issues of design. You will also commence your second major or first minor units.

Year 3

You bring together what you have learnt so far to design realistically detailed products suitable for manufacture. You also learn about working with other professionals and the practical issues of bringing products to the market. Second major or minor units continue.

Year 4

The final year sees you using applied design research to develop truly innovative product solutions. You learn about professional practice and become ready to adopt a leadership role in design. You also conclude your second major or minor studies. You are now ready to make your mark as a professional industrial designer.

Second majors and minors

You will be able to select from two 4 unit approved minors or one 8 unit approved second major to enhance and broaden your knowledge in a related field or area of interest.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

The foundation year includes a diverse range of subjects in order to expose the breadth of design process and theory. Five common units cover design, design history, design and sustainability and digital communication. There are three units specific to the discipline, two concerned with core interior design studios and the other dealing with design technology.

Year 2

You complete two design studios exploring issues of inhabitation in both transitory and permanent residential situations, and discuss these relative to theory and practice of leading designers. This is supported by two units that advance understanding of interior systems and technology, alongside further topics in colour and the environment that engage issues of aesthetic and psychological perceptions of space. There is opportunity to commence second major or first minor units.

Year 3

This year departs from previous years to take a more experimental attitude to design studios. A range of topics allow you to discover differing approaches to the interior. Alongside these studios are lecture-based units addressing interior theory and environments in transition, raising issues such as gendered spaces, interiority and globalisation. A collaborative unit with other design students facilitates interdisciplinary or transdisciplinary studies. You complete two second major or minor units.

Year 4

Two semi-structured research-led design studios allow you to develop a body of work that distinguishes and advances your own design interests. Supporting this area of study are two common design units in design research and professional practice, providing a context for design practice. A further four units of second major or four units of a second minor can also be taken in this year.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

This foundation year sets the groundwork for landscape design and theory units in later years. You undertake five units common to the design degree or Faculty covering design, design history, design and sustainability and digital communication. You also complete two units of core landscape design studios and your first unit dealing with plant studies.

Year 2

Four units for the second major or minors come on stream in your second year. You participate in two key design studios covering place theory, environmental psychology and site planning. Two theory units explore landscape ecology, aspects of physical geography and a preliminary construction unit based on land grading.

Year 3

You complete two units for your second major or minor plus two landscape design studios which extend the scale and complexity of previous studios, including an emphasis on planting design and detailed design resolution. Three construction and practice units reach an advanced level. Lastly, a history and criticism unit focuses on landscape design in the past, with a critical overview of contemporary landscape design trends.

Year 4

You further expand your expertise with two units towards your chosen second major/minors. Four units are devoted to advanced landscape design studios covering a wide range of urban and regional sites and scenarios. Two of these studios contain opportunities for personal design exploration on an agreed topic. You also complete two units in design research and professional practice.

Landscape Architecture Second Major and Minor Options

Second Major:
A 2nd major from anywhere in QUT.

Minors:
A minor from anywhere in QUT.
*Please remember that one minor must be from outside of your course.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.0
writing	6.0
reading	6.0
listening	6.0
overall	6.5

Professional Recognition

Depending on the choice of majors, graduates of the Bachelor of Mass Communication may satisfy the academic requirements for membership of the Advertising Institute of Australia (AIA) and the Society of Business Communicators (SBC).

Course Design

Students commencing the Bachelor of Mass Communication must complete 24 units of equal weighting totalling 288 credit points comprised of a. Business School Core (six Business School core units)
b. Major Core (two majors of six units each) and
c. Unit Options (six units).

Although studies can be tailored to meet a specific career goal or create a wide variety of career choices, there is a set of recommended combinations of majors. Students are not required to take these combinations, however they do represent the more common and logical choices within a mass communication qualification.
The recommended combinations are:
- Advertising and Public Relations
- Public Relations and Journalism
- Public Relations and Media and Communication
- Entertainment and Public Relations
- Entertainment and Media and Communication
- Journalism and Media and Communication.

Important Information for Business Students

QUT Business School rules and procedures are outlined in the Business Undergraduate Guidelines booklet. Other useful information can be found on the Student Services website

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will explore key concepts driving media and communication industries in the global new economy and be introduced to skills in your chosen professional areas of study including public relations, advertising, media and communication, journalism, and entertainment industries. You will apply your knowledge to communication activities and exercises which provide insight into the nature and scope of the industry sectors you will work in.

Year 2

Focusing on your major areas of study, you will undertake activities that enable you to apply your rapidly developing communication skills and knowledge of media industries. You will complete projects using industry-standard equipment and software, gaining experience in a range of tasks you will undertake as part of your professional life. You also begin to broaden your skill and knowledge base by selecting from a range of elective units.

Year 3

This capstone year focuses on the refinement of skills. Working individually and in teams, you will produce a portfolio of work, often for real-world clients, which showcases your project management, communication and creative talents. Work placement opportunities complement these activities and allow you to network with a range of industry leaders.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will establish a base knowledge in communication practices, media research and audience analysis and gain a strong contextual understanding of media and communication industries, products and policies in Australia and internationally. You will develop written, spoken and visual communication skills that are essential to professional employment in the creative industries. Your understanding of the social and cultural impact of emerging media technologies, media regulation and ownership will be advanced through the use of case studies, practical work and independent research.

Year 2

Using abilities developed in your first year you will continue to hone your communication skills and undertake practical activities to explore virtual communities and consumer cultures from global and multicultural perspectives. You will use new technologies and online communication channels to investigate online identities and Web-based hubs, while actively engaging in your own content creation and contributing to a variety of Web productions. Electives increase this course's flexibility and provide options to diversify your professional portfolio. You can expand your focus to other areas that complement or contrast your studies, enhancing your skills and erudition.

Year 3

In your third year you will have further opportunities to practically apply your knowledge and gain industry experience to boost your employability. Working in a team environment with industry professionals you will gain real-world experience through internships, service learning or creative industries projects. You will be a major player in the Brisbane Media Map project and form industry contacts while using your research skills to investigate Australian media outlets and audiences. Your professional skills will continue to be advanced and broadened to include areas of political communication, media management and the development and design of communication resources.

Your BCI core units provide you with well-developed communication and digital media skills, an up-to-date insight into the creative economy, and an appreciation of creative collaboration. Creative Industries Transitions units in your final year will prepare you for your creative career as an entrepreneur, consultant, project manager or creative professional, or give you the hunger for higher degree research.

You will choose a creative industries major and from there you may select a second major to develop a significant depth of knowledge and skill in two discipline areas. Alternatively, you might prefer to develop a wide breadth of knowledge across three or more discipline areas by adding to your chosen creative industries major with two minors and two electives.

Year 1

You will undertake two BCI core units, which provide you with well-developed communication skills and teach you how leading creative industries practitioners exploit their creativity for commercial and artistic gain. Study in your majors and minors commences from your first semester, so you take control of your creative direction from day one.

Year 2

You will continue your studies in your major(s) and/or minor(s) and enhance your career prospects by undertaking further BCI core units in visual communication and project management.

Year 3

You will continue to build your creative skills and knowledge through your majors and/or minors. The Creative Industries Transitions program offers end-of-course units in which you can set yourself up for the creative career you desire. You will undertake at least two units that will allow you to use the skills and knowledge gained during this course and assist your transition out of university. These units comprise:

- an internship program with one of our industry partners
- a creative industries project which can prepare you for work as a freelancer or consultant
- an international study tour, usually to New York, Paris, or another international creative industries city
- an introduction to research unit which will prepare you for higher degree research study (honours, masters, PhD).

Animation

You will gain skills and knowledge in the field of animation, including the history and practices of animation. You will develop practical skills in drawing, motion graphics, 3D graphics and real-time modelling for virtual environments.

Art and Design History

You will build the educational base necessary for a career in the arts professions, such as curatorial work, art criticism and arts administration. Your knowledge may span architecture, design, visual arts, and video art and culture.

Creative and Professional Writing

You will gain adequate skills and knowledge in the areas of creative or professional writing, grounded in a variety of genres, including fiction, creative non-fiction, media writing, and corporate writing and editing. Your critical, analytical and peer-reviewing skills will be enhanced, and you will have an understanding of the social and generic contexts of creative writing.

Dance Studies

You will gain skills in contemporary dance, ballet, other popular genres and choreography, alongside an understanding of the social and historical context of ballet, contemporary dance and popular and world dance. Your critical thinking, analytical and writing skills will be developed. Previously acquired skill is required for you to undertake this major. You must be physically able, fit and have advanced skills in dance technique.

Drama

This major has a twin focus on contemporary performance making and events management. Your performance-making topics will include acting, directing, theatre history, performance theory and practice, alongside planning, producing, promoting and evaluating live events, exhibitions and festivals.

Entertainment Industries

This major will prepare you for work as a producer, creating and managing entertainment projects and organisations. You will gain business, legal and creative skills suitable for work in the entertainment industries, which include television, popular music, major entertainment events, games, radio, entertainment marketing, sports media, theme park or movie industries.

Fashion

This major provides you with knowledge of the industry, to prepare you for potential careers in merchandising, fashion wholesale, fashion and style journalism, and fashion styling. Practical units provide options to focus on drawing for fashion, portfolio development and fashion journalism. You will learn about the history and consumption of fashion, its industry context, and the critical legal issues surrounding its production and distribution.

Film, Television and Screen

You will develop a range of knowledge in the theory and practice of film, television and screen. You will develop storytelling and communication skills, as well as creative, technical and organisational abilities. Your understanding of the industry will be enhanced by studies in the variety of aspects of film and TV production.

Interactive and Visual Design

You will gain skills and knowledge in the domain of interactive and visual design and design for digital screens including the principles, practice and practical use of media technologies. You will progress through to studio-based units, which will situate what you have learned into a production or project-based setting in the areas of web development and interactive multimedia.

Journalism

The journalism major provides skills in a range of journalism writing styles and knowledge of specialist areas of reporting.

Literary Studies

You will gain grounding in a range of works, both literary and popular, ranging from Shakespeare to nineteenth- and twentieth-century literature and culture. You will enhance your skills in critical thinking, writing and analysis, and understand the social and historical context of the works you study.

Media and Communication

The media and communication major provides skills and knowledge to prepare media material for organisations that wish to build and maintain their media profile.

Music

A major in music provides an overview of current issues in music and sound practice and develops a broad understanding of music in social, cultural and economic contexts. It also offers students the opportunity to gain practical skills in music and sound production. The study area is particularly suited to students who wish to combine studies in music with studies in other disciplines, and/or who wish to work within the music industry in administrative, business or organisational roles.

Other major options

Majors are also available through other faculties at QUT, including advertising, entrepreneurship, game design, integrated marketing communication, marketing, online environments and public relations. These majors from other faculties can only be taken in combination with your chosen Creative Industries major. Caboolture students may not be able to access these additional majors at the Caboolture campus.

Minors

You can choose up to two minors from Creative Industries or other areas at QUT. These include:

- advertising, audience and user research, communication for the professions, entrepreneurship, international business, integrated marketing communication, management, marketing, public relations
- animation, game design, information technology, interactive and visual design
- architectural studies; art, design and architecture; art history; collaborative digital design; fashion; interior design studies; visual arts practice
- creative writing, literature, modern and popular literature and culture, professional writing
- dance studies, drama, lighting design, music studies, performance events and festivals, sound design, scenography
- journalism, media and communication, screen studies, television
- Indigenous studies
- entertainment
- a range of foreign languages through the tri-university language alliance.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Acting at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Acting at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty by the 14 October 2011 through the Online Registration Form.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is the 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must submit the following and attend an audition where you will present two monologues of two-and-a-half minutes each.

Academic record

Please bring your Academic Record to your audition.

Photograph

- A clear current head-and-shoulders photograph (no larger than 6cm x 6cm - passport photo size) is required.
- Note: the photograph is compulsory. Applications which do not include photographs cannot be processed.

Resume or Curriculum Vitae

You need to provide a resume or curriculum vitae, consisting of no more than two typewritten A4 pages. This should list any performance experience, workshop attendance or other acting work you may have done in addition to work experience/employment.

It is important that Mature Age entry applicants include details of all work/academic records since leaving school.

Do not send original documents, photocopies only please.

Criteria for Acceptance.

In auditioning and interviewing potential students, QUT looks especially for the following qualities:

- A serious commitment to an acting career in stage, film and television.
- A potential for vital, individualistic, trainable growth.
- Energy, openness of mind, enthusiasm, and a readiness to take risks.
- A body, voice and imaginative/emotional powers promising significant dramatic development.
- A potential for identification with the thought process of their text.
- A sense of humour, a sense of language, a sense of rhythm, and a capacity for sustained concentration.
- A readiness for hard, rigorous work

Know the lines well enough so that nervousness will not paralyse you. Understand that fear and nervousness are part of the acting process. It is the adrenaline that allows you to show your best work.

We encourage you to make bold choices in your interpretation and in your performance.

Do not use audition pieces you have devised or written yourself as those auditioning you want to see how you apply your imagination to another writer's words.

Do not use audition pieces extracted from poems or novels as they are mostly inherently undramatic.

Do bring adequate supplies of food and drink on the day.

We encourage you to read Dean Carey's book, The Actor's Audition Manual, Currency Press. His advice on preparing and performing pieces is invaluable.

Do I have to audition in costume/make-up? No, you don't. Nor do you need to bring props. Instead, we suggest that you:

- Wear footwear and clothing that allow you to move and work easily
- Avoid wearing jewellery that could fall off, get tangled, or become lost or damaged

- Remove any tongue or facial piercing.

Are there any specific audition pieces for me to prepare?

Download the Acting Audition Pieces

These pieces are not compulsory. If you decide to present pieces not on the list, please choose monologues not more than three minutes in length and ensure the two pieces you choose contrast.

Am I required to present Shakespeare as my second audition piece?

Certainly you can use Shakespeare as one of your pieces if you wish. However, it is not mandatory; just make sure your two audition pieces contrast.

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:
- Complete the Online Registration Form and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee);
- Attend an audition or submit a video/DVD of your work; and
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

When and where are the Brisbane auditions?

All applicants are required to attend a first audition at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus. If you are successful, you will receive a call-back for a first recall. Successful applicants from the first recall will then be required to attend the final recall. You will be notified of recall arrangements at your first audition.

Below is a list of dates for the process, plus requirements for each audition:
- First Audition - during week commencing Monday November 21 to 25 November 2011
  Prepare two audition pieces of your own selection.
- First Recall (if selected) - Tuesday November 29 or Wednesday November 30 2011 Perform same audition pieces.
- Final Recall (if selected) - Friday December 2 2011

Remember that in addition to registering for an audition, you must also apply to QTAC.

Will QUT be holding auditions outside Brisbane?
Auditions will also be held at the following locations:
- Sydney Friday 11 and Saturday 12 November 2011

>I am unable to attend any of the audition locations. Is it possible for me to submit a video/ DVD of my work?

Yes, you can for the initial audition. If successful, you will be expected to attend the recall dates in November/December. Please ensure your video/DVD reaches us by Friday 14 October 2011. Information on where to send your video/DVD is part of the online registration procedure.

When making your video / DVD, you should use the following format:
- Include a brief description of who you are, where you are from and your expectations and goals for a career in acting.
- It would also be useful to explain why you're choosing QUT for your course of study.
- Then perform two contrasting monologues that are something you see yourself being cast in for theatre or film and television. Make sure one monologue is shot in medium close up and one is full body.

How do I know if I am required to attend a recall?

The process will be explained to you at the time of your first audition.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for an audition is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The audition process is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas
- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Which Acting courses require additional entry application?

KK34 - Bachelor of Fine Arts (Acting)

What is the closing date for additional entry applications to Acting courses at QUT Creative Industries?

There are no closing dates for international applicants. We encourage you to apply as soon as you decide on the course you wish to study, to help you with visa requirements.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must submit the following with your application and either attend an audition or submit a VCR or DVD where you will present two monologues of two-and-a-half minutes each.
- Academic transcript from secondary and/or tertiary institutions
- Photograph - A clear current head-and-shoulders photograph (no larger than 6cm x 6cm - passport photo size) is required. This should be attached to your QUT application form

It is important that Mature Age entry applicants include details of all work/academic records since leaving school.

Do not send original documents, photocopies only please.

What qualities are QUT Creative Industries looking for?

We expect well-prepared work. We do not expect highly polished work. Assume you will need at least two weeks preparation time for each audition piece.

Work to make us listen and feel something for you:

- How does this piece affect you?
- What emotions does the character go through?
- What does your character want?
- What are the circumstances?
- What is the character doing physically?

Know the lines well enough so that nervousness will not paralyse you. Understand that fear and nervousness are part of the acting process. It is the adrenaline that allows you to show your best work.

We encourage you to make bold choices in your interpretation and in your performance.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

The first-year acting studio is the basis for your future career. You will also study voice, singing, improvisation, Alexander, combat, and movement. You will learn the foundations of organic (or method) acting which is based on a fierce commitment to emotional honesty.

Year 2

This is your development year. You will continue to refine your talent through acting studio and rehearsals, and continue your studies in voice, movement and combat. Your acting studio work is designed to address the whole artist: to bring your voice, mind, body and emotions together through a range of role and performance opportunities. You will undertake film shoots, contemporary and classical stage productions, stand-up comedy, clowning and Shakespeare. You will study complementary areas through your electives, e.g. theatre and film history.

Year 3

This is your professional year which comprises performance for both stage and screen in a variety of venues. Typically, this includes a theatre season of three plays and two film shoots. Your professional development and readiness for the industry are anchored to the real world by your connection with professional directors and management agents. You will identify relevant issues relating to your planned career and learn how to position yourself effectively for entry into an international industry. QUT Acting Showcase (also known as Industry Day) in Brisbane and in Sydney will show your stage and film work to employers, management agents, casting agents and directors.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will focus on developing your eye for visual communication and on extending representation into motion graphics. You will gain a solid grounding in the history and practices of animation as a foundation to build your own creative practice. The first year will allow you to get settled in the medium of animation.

Year 2

Building on the knowledge and skills you gained in the first year, you will settle into the animation studios, where you will begin an intensive investigation into workflow, studio communication, and responses to briefs. You will study character development, conceptual design and animation layout principles and techniques. You will learn and use techniques in 3D computer graphics, modelling, shading, real-time development, UV texturing and matte painting, as you respond to assessment and develop animated elements to support your ideas. Through the processes of critical analysis, you will be encouraged to evaluate your own work, interrogate the way you present your ideas visually and will refine it as you progress towards your vocational goal.

Year 3

You will consolidate your work by extending your understanding of the workflows of an animation studio. You will extend your knowledge of production management, and your skills in 3D computer animation, real-time computer graphics, and virtual environments. Your final year is about consolidating your eye for detail, your responsiveness to problems, your ability to research and develop ideas, in order to deliver an animated work to professional standard. You will produce a substantial work, which will be showcased to industry professionals in a public exhibition. The final year also gives you an opportunity to specialise through project work or preparation for honours or postgraduate research.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will be introduced to creative writing practice and develop critical and analytical skills in reading and writing a variety of forms including fiction and poetry. Learning from lecturers and tutors with industry experience, you will both write and analyse short stories, creative non-fiction and youth writing.

Year 2

Building on the practical skills and conceptual background acquired in first-year units, you will study script writing, stylistics and poetics as well as corporate writing and how the classic and most popular novels were written. You will undertake electives in areas of interest, allowing you to tailor this course to take advantage of your strengths and vocational interests.

Year 3

You will write a sustained piece of creative work, within the genre of your choice, such as a key section of an original novel. You will be introduced to editing and developing a manuscript for a targeted market, and the real world of the writing and publishing industry, as well as in-depth study of longer fiction and life writing. You can add to your knowledge of creative and literary studies by continuing with electives of your choice.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Dance at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and submit a Dance Registration Form to the Creative Industries Faculty. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Dance at QUT Creative Industries?

- Registration for the 2012 intake will close by the extended closing date of 23 September, 2011. To register for an audition, you must submit a Dance Registration Form.
- You must also apply to QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must submit the following and attend an audition:

- Academic record
- Personal statement Personal statement form is included in the Application Guide
- Photograph A current passport sized photograph ANDA full body shot, facing front in parallel, in leotard / swim suit (no board shorts)
- Physiotherapist's Report. A specialist dance or sports physiotherapist needs to assess various physical elements such as your flexibility range and history of injuries.Physiotherapist report form is provided in the Application Guide

What does the audition consist of?

There are two rounds on your day of audition. All applicants will complete round one. Those applicants successful in moving onto round two will be posted on the notice board during the lunch break.

Round One:

- a ballet class (no pointe work)
- a contemporary dance class
- a jazz class (for course code 429162 only)
- a course talk given by the Head of Dance
- a written interpretative exercise

The written exercise requires no preparation. It is a half hour session that looks at the applicant's interpretative skills and writing skills - e.g. spelling, punctuation, grammar - in response to an image presented on the day.

Round Two:

- a one minute solo in a dance genre of the applicant's choice
- This solo is an opportunity for you to dance in a genre of your own choice that you may feel better demonstrates your performance abilities - e.g. hip hop, adagio, Irish, tap. The solo is one minute long and music (if used) should be on CD. The solo may be choreographed by the applicant or someone else - e.g. teacher, guest choreographer
- a more advanced ballet and contemporary class, which includes pointe work (for course code 421822 only)
- A short impromptu talk from the auditionee on a topic given on the day (for course code 429162 1st preference only.)

What should I wear to my audition?

Ballet class:

- women: pink tights, light coloured leotard and ballet shoes. If you do not own ballet shoes, please bring cotton socks. If you do not own tights and leotard, please wear bike pants and tight, light coloured, fitting t-shirt.
- men: tights and a light-coloured singlet or t-shirt and ballet shoes. If you do not own ballet shoes, please bring cotton socks. If you do not own tights, please wear bike pants and jock strap.

Contemporary class:

- Same as above, but able to work in bare feet when required in this genre.

Solo:

- no costumes or props please. Tights and leotard only.

What do I need to bring on the day?'

Please bring your dance gear and water bottle. If you bring lunch it can be stored in the fridge in the dance corridor. There are no cafes open on campus on weekends.

I have no formal training in classical / contemporary ballet. Can I still audition?

You are assessed on potential, but formal training would benefit applicants. The selection panel looks at you for your movement potential, alignment, sense of musicality, and your degree of confidence. Studying a different technique (e.g. jazz, tap, contemporary) will also help you develop these skills.

What do I have to do in the solo presentation?

The solo presentation is one minute (maximum), which can be improvised or choreographed by yourself or another person, in a style of your choice (e.g. Tap, Irish Dance). The selection panel looks for confidence, appropriate quality and performance integrity.

How do I apply?

There are two steps to an application for Dance at QUT:

1. You must register for an audition by submitting a Dance Registration Form to the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 23 September 2011. This should also include a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment of the $33 service charge. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee
2. You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is the 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The audition process is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC. The first offers for this course will be made in the early round in December 2011.

International Entry requirements

What is the closing date for additional entry applications to Dance at QUT Creative Industries?

There are no closing dates for international applicants. We encourage you to apply as soon as you decide on the course you wish to study, to help you with visa requirements.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must submit the following and attend an audition:

Academic transcript from secondary and/or tertiary institutes

Personal statement

Photograph

- A current passport sized photograph AND
- A full body shot, facing front in parallel, in leotard / swim suit (no board shorts) This should be attached to your QUT application form.

A video or DVD of your audition (see below)

Do I need to attend an audition?

If you are able, international applicants are encouraged to attend auditions as outlined below. You must be available for the entire audition process. You can nominate your preferred date on your application:

When and where are the auditions?

If you choose to attend an audition, you should nominate the venue most suitable to you. Confirmation of dates, time and place of audition, what to wear, what to bring on the day, will be sent out mid September. Please expect to be in attendance from 8am until 6pm on your day of audition.

Course Structure

In order to complete this course, students must complete 192 credit points of specified units and 96 credit points of Complementary Studies made up of either a Performance Events and Festivals Minor, a Second Major, Minors or Unit Options.

Limits of grades of 3

A new policy concerning grades of 3 came into effect from 1 January 2009 (QUT MOPP C/5.2). With effect from this date grades of 3 are no longer considered a conceded or low pass but are classified as a fail grade. Any grades of 3 awarded prior to 1 January 2009 retain the conceded pass status and will be counted for graduation purposes up to the maximum number of grades of 3 permitted for your course. Grades of 3 incurred in units that commence after 1 January 2009 will not count towards your degree. Further information is available on the Student Services website

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

Your first year is strongly practical, with classes, workshops and an end-of-year production. You will investigate different aspects of theatre history, develop performance skills and will learn how to lead drama workshops in theatre, educational and corporate contexts.

Year 2

Your practical skills and conceptual understanding will be extended in the areas of devised performance and theatre in community contexts. You will develop your understanding of the Australian theatre context, its history and plays. Units in event and festival management are also available. You will begin your elective studies, choosing a second major and/or minors and/or a second teaching area (if you are on the teaching pathway) from creative industries or other QUT areas, allowing you to tailor this course to your vocational interests.

Year 3

In your final year there is an emphasis on your development as a collaborative and entrepreneurial theatre artist. Facilitated by specialist staff and industry professionals, you will prepare, create and present your final production. You will acquire leadership skills in directing, apply theoretical lenses to your own creative practice, and be encouraged to undertake internships and project-based work. Those on the teaching pathway will undertake introductory studies in education. You will complete your second major, minors, second teaching area, or electives.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Fashion at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty.

To be considered for a place you must do two things.

1. Submit to the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011. a Fashion 2012 Registration Forma copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee).a Portfolio with this Registration Form
2. Apply through QTAC by 30 September.
   (See the QTAC website for more information)

Interviews

Following the submission applicants will be shortlisted. QUT will be conducting interviews in November 2011. Should you be shortlisted you will be notified via email. Only submissions that include all the above stated requirements will be processed.

Offers

The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

The Portfolio - further details

Your Portfolio must contain three things.

1. Academic Records - include your most up-to date records.
2. Personal statement - A typewritten personal statement outlining your reasons for applying to this particular course, indicating your personal strengths and your future ambitions (max 300 words).
3. Maximum 20 single-sided A4 pages, which should include a range of examples that demonstrate your potential as a fashion designer. This could include but is not limited to: Good examples of your sketchbook work (to demonstrate your ability to research a topic and develop ideas based on that topic).Fashion design drawings (showing your ability to create fashion designs, based on research and a concept). We are looking for evidence of fabric awareness, colour, and 3D thinking.Selected photographs that show good examples of any garments you have made.

There is no one particular type of folio we are looking for, as long as you keep to the requirements of 20 single-sided A4 pages of your work. We are looking for something individual; a folio that expresses you, your talents and potential within the fashion industry. We would like to know what you think about fashion and what you like about fashion - or even what you dont like about fashion. Think of the folio as a way of introducing yourself to us - and showing us your creativity and thought processes. Show us what inspires you and excites you.

Do not send original documents, colour photocopies only please

Will my portfolio by returned?

You will need to provide with your registration form, a stamped, self-addressed envelope (appropriate to the size of the portfolio submitted) for your portfolio to be returned. Portfolio materials will only be returned to applicants that provide the envelope.

There is a levy charged for essential items such as calico, pattern equipment and pre-cut exercises. In addition, students are expected to purchase fabrics as required for projects throughout the three years.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will focus on the integration of conceptual design principles with the practical skills and understanding of pattern technology and garment construction. You will gain knowledge of the materials, skills and processes available to the garment and textile industries including issues around sustainability and ethical production. You will analyse fashion trends and develop core skills and knowledge of drawing to be used in fashion design presentation.

Year 2

Building on the skills from your first year, you will expand your knowledge of the national and international fashion world, learn pattern engineering principles, realise your designs through garment construction and use fashion technology to enhance your design skills. In addition, you will increase your knowledge of and ability to research consumer cultures and continue to choose electives in other study areas of interest.

Year 3

In your final year, you will explore your own personal design identity allowing you to work on and develop your own product or fashion range, which will be showcased to industry in the graduation fashion show. Opportunities are available to use fashion technology to expand your design directions. You will also have the opportunity to identify relevant issues relating to your planned career and to position yourself effectively for entry into the fashion industry or postgraduate study, therefore helping with the transition into the real world. You will continue to choose electives in other areas of interest.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.0
writing	6.0
reading	6.0
listening	6.0
overall	6.5

Course Structure

In order to complete this course, students must undertake two Creative Industries Foundation units, a maximum of 168 credit points of discipline or specified units relating to the chosen major and 96 credit points of Complementary Studies made up of either the Advanced Film, TV and New Media Minor, a Second Major, Minors or Unit Options.

Deferment

QUT allows all applicants to defer their undergraduate admission offer for one year, except in courses using specific admission requirements such as questionnaires, folios, auditions, prior study or work experience.

Additional costs

You may be required to cover the costs of recording materials, video hire, production travel expenses and associated film and video production costs.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

In your first year you will gain a broad understanding and knowledge of relevant cultural contexts in which your work will be fostered. You will study a broad range of styles and genres from film and television formats. You will gain practical skills for the industry, including writing, business, and technical skills such as directing, camera, editing and sound.

Year 2

In your second year you will begin to specialise your skills in producing, writing, editing, cinematography, sound or directing. In producing you will develop skills in pitching and production, audience measurement and legal issues. In the craft areas you will work on more sophisticated, broadcast-quality equipment including digital formats and multi-camera. Those concentrating on writing will develop their knowledge of genre and further develop their writing skills. Whichever specialisation you choose, you will work with other students to create experimental productions or television programs.

Year 3

In your final year you will work on major productions, building on and refining the knowledge and skills you have learned throughout the degree. Using your specialist skills you will work in groups on documentaries, film dramas or a television series and other digital media. If you are preparing for a career in producing you will learn project management and gain real-world experience pitching your ideas. Those in craft-based specialisations will be encouraged to experiment with broadcast quality formats such as digital, mobile and Super 16 film. Writing specialists will continue to develop their dialogue skills. You will have opportunities to showcase your work to industry and undertake internships.

Overview

Interactive and visual design plays a pivotal role in the rapidly expanding fields of contemporary communication and new technologies. Careers in this area provide the opportunity to design for electronic and print media, Web and mobile technologies, games and physical computing, as well as new technologies as they continue to emerge.

This course will provide you with the conceptual understanding, practical skills and working methods you will need to become a creative and innovative designer. As well as developing core understandings in visual design for a range of media including mobile and virtual environment, you will choose study pathways to develop a specialist focus in graphic design, animation or design for tangible and physical computing.

Career Outcomes

This course will prepare you for a range of careers in the creative industries such as advertising and marketing, print design, Web design and electronic publishing, multimedia and interactive entertainment design, games design, and interactive exhibition design. Graduates from this study area work in traditional design companies in fields such as graphic design, marketing, branding and print and television campaigns, Web Design, interaction design, usability, knowledge management and information architecture. They also gain employment in new, rapidly expanding industries. For example, games companies employ graduates to work on content production, interaction design, visual design and real-time and virtual environments modelling; film and television companies employ graduates in post-production and branding; museums and other cultural institutions employ graduates in multimedia design and interactive installation. In addition, visualisation companies increasingly provide opportunities for graduates across industries as diverse as mining, architectural and medical visualisation.

Course Structure

In order to complete this course, students must complete 192 credit points of specified units and 96 credit points of Complementary Studies made up of either a Second Major, Minors or Unit Options.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will focus on developing an individual design practice. Working with a variety of media in the design studios, you will develop a foundational understanding of visual communication, motion graphics, and temporal and interaction design principles. You will also acquire the technical skills needed to implement your designs in print and electronic media. By responding to design briefs, you will learn to target your design to a specific audience, context and purpose. You will participate in critical reviews and discover how they benefit the development of design solutions.

Year 2

Extending your visual and interaction design skills, you will develop your design practice through a specialist focus in graphic design, 3D computer graphics and virtual environments, animation or interaction design for tangible media. Real-world client briefs will introduce you to collaboration in interdisciplinary project teams and industry workflows. You will also begin your elective studies.

Year 3

In your final year, you will consolidate your specialist design practice and your understanding of project development, studio communication, and responses to briefs within a design studio. Drawing on the specialist knowledge you gained in second year you will work within a design team, collaborating in the production of industry-level projects. Guest lectures and master classes from industry professionals and authentic, industry-focused learning experiences, including workplace learning options, will ensure that you are workplace ready. The year will culminate in a graduating exhibition which will be attended by industry representatives.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Sound Design at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place in you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Sound Design at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011 through the Online Registration Form.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

- Academic record
- Photo: a current passport sized photo (for identification purposes only)
- Portfolio of sound works
- Written statement

Portfolio of sound works

Submit a portfolio of music/sound works that you have created. Suitable items include (but are not limited to):

- Sound design for video or websites
- Soundscapes you have recorded/engineered/produced
- Sounds created using computer software

You should include three contrasting pieces - total duration for all pieces 10 minutes maximum.

Acceptable formats are:

- Audio CD (must be able to be played in a standard CD player)
- CD-ROM (must be compatible with Macintosh and PC)
- DVD (must be able to be played in a standard DVD player)
- USB stick
- Printed screenshots of creative planning (if relevant)

Your folio must also be accompanied by written notes (maximum 200 words) that explain your precise role in each of the items (i.e. what your role/s were in the creation of the piece, how you created the piece, your artistic aims in creating the piece).

- All portfolio items should be marked with your name and contact details. Please note that portfolios are not returned.
- Please ensure you test your CDs, CD-ROMs or DVDs on multiple systemsbefore submitting them. Failure of your media to play in the specified equipment may adversely affect your folio result.

Qualities looked for in the portfolio:

- Originality of approach
- Technical skill in design, recording and production
- Clear articulation of creative approach
- General sense of emotional engagement/success in storytelling
- Diversity of material presented

Information on the written statement:

- Your past experiences in sound design or production activities
- What sound design or designers (in movies, games, etc.) inspire you
- Your ambitions during your studies and beyond
- How you think studying Sound Design at QUT will help you achieve your goals

Qualities looked for in the written statement:

- A strong track record in relevant sound design or production activities
- A strong potential for continued growth in your understanding and practice of sound design
- knowledge of the QUT Creative Industries Sound Design course and how it relates to your own personal goals

Note: Submissions cannot be returned to the applicant.

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:

- Complete the online registration and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee); your portfolio;

- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

You will start by learning about the fundamentals of sound and music technology and how to use them creatively to achieve artistic results. You will also begin to develop an awareness of sound as a storytelling tool. While you do not need to have traditional music skills, you will work alongside Bachelor of Music students, learning how sound is organised musically and about the dynamics of performance and presentation as they apply to sound design.

Year 2

To develop a unique set of 'crossover' sound skills you will build on the foundation studies of your first year, having a chance to pursue the pathway that best suits your future needs. You will have options to work in the fields of sound design for visual and interactive media, immersive entertainment and the recording studio.

Year 3

You will deepen your skills in sound design and production, mentored by staff and industry professionals. You will have opportunities to showcase yourself to industry through a series of creative production opportunities. You will learn about both the existing and emerging industry and have the opportunity to undertake practical projects with other talented creative artists and designers both inside and outside the University with real production outcomes.

Applicants must supply the following information and attend an interview:

- Academic record - Please bring your most recent Academic Record to your interview.
- Photograph - A clear current head-and-shoulders photograph (no larger than 6cm x 6cm - passport photo size) is required.
  This photograph should be attached to the Application Form in the space provided.
  Note: the photograph is compulsory. Applications that do not include photographs cannot be processed.
- Resume or Curriculum Vitae - You need to provide a resume or curriculum vitae, consisting of no more than six (6) typewritten A4 pages. This should detail any drama/technical/performance experience, leadership roles or other work you may have done in addition to work experience/employment.
  It is important that mature age entry applicants include details of all work/academic records since leaving school.
- Script Analysis and Practical Response - You are required to write a script analysis of between 500 and 1000 words based on one of three works and bring three copies of this to the interview. Further details of this requirement (and the practical response) are available at the following link - Additional Entry Practical Task. You should carefully read the instructions before completing this requirement. A floor plan of the Gardens Theatre and additional Gardens Theatre specifications have been provided for use in the practical response.

Do not send original documents, photocopies only please.

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:

- Complete the online registration and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; your resume or curriculum vitae; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee);
- Provide the information requested and attend an interview as detailed below; and
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

When and where are the interviews?

All applicants are required to attend a first interview. A letter confirming the time and place will be sent to your nominated address. If you are successful, you will receive a second interview. You will be notified of shortlisting arrangements at your first interview. Interviews will occur at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus.

Below is a list of dates for the process, plus requirements for each interview:

- First Interview - during the week commencing November 15, 2011
  Your first interview will be scheduled when you lodge your online application. Please note that the time and date of your interview cannot be changed except in exceptional circumstances. You should be prepared to discuss your academic history and the reasons you are interested in this course. You will be expected to demonstrate an understanding of at least one of the following areas of live performance practice: stage management, lighting, sound, or event production/management. You must also bring with you three copies of your script analysis and practical response and be prepared to discuss this.

- Second Interview - during the week commencing November 21, 2011
  Shortlisted applicants will be required to present an example of their work, or an indication of their potential. Examples of material to submit at this recall will be provided at the first interview.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for an interview is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The interview process is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

When and where are the interviews?

If you are unable to attend the interviews, we will arrange a telephone interview. Please e-mail techprod@qut.edu.au to arrange a telephone interview.

If you are able, international applicants are encouraged to attend interviews as outlined below. You must be available for the entire interview process, both first and second interviews.

Interviews will take place at the QUT Kelvin Grove Campus. Below is a list of dates for the process, plus requirements for each interview:

- First Interview - during the week commencing September 19, 2011
  You should be prepared to discuss your academic history, the reasons you are interested in this course. You will be expected to demonstrate an understanding of at least one of the following areas of live performance practice: stage management, lighting, sound, or event production/management. You must also bring with you three copies of your script analysis and practical response and be prepared to discuss this.
- Second Interview - during the week commencing November 21, 2011
  Shortlisted applicants will be required to present an example of their work, or an indication of their potential. Examples of material to submit at this recall will be provided at the first interview.

How do I apply?

Please send your Additional Entry requirements along with your F Form to QUT. You may post or e-mail your application.

Course Structure

In order to complete this course, students must complete 192 credit points of specified units and 96 credit points of Complementary Studies made up of an Advanced Technical Production Practice Minor, a Scenography Minor, a Second Major, Minors or Unit Options.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

You will attend classes in stage management, lighting, sound, and the workshop areas of props, sets and costume, developing basic skills and knowledge in all areas of technical production. You will apply your knowledge on productions as bump in/out crew and production assistants. As you progress you will undertake the roles of stage managers and lighting, sound and AV operators.

Year 2

Your classes cover advanced lighting and sound technologies (including elements of design), set and costume design, stage management for dance, opera and musicals, and festival management. Classes will be aligned with production seasons within the areas of dance, acting, music and fashion. You will work on a minimum of four productions as a lighting, sound or AV operator, head electrician, fly operator, mechanist, followspot operator, assistant stage manager and/or stage and event manager. You will work with professional directors, choreographers and designers, and students from a variety of creative disciplines at QUT. You will also study electives in areas other than technical production.

Year 3

You will work on several QUT productions in more senior roles such as stage manager, head electrician, event/festival coordinator, sound coordinator and lighting designer. You may choose to focus on applying and developing your skills in one of these areas of live production. You will work alongside industry professionals (directors and designers) at QUT, with first- and second-year students as your crew. You will also have the opportunity of industry secondment placements with appropriate professional companies or personnel in your area of expertise.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Visual Arts at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Visual Arts at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register through the Online Registration Form with the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must supply the following:

Academic record - A copy of your most recent report (it does not have to be your final end-of-year grades).

Portfolio - Maximum of 20 pages of images that best demonstrate your current art achievements, working processes, commitment and potential. Consider the "Qualities" we look for (listed below) when compiling your portfolio. It may contain photographs, slides, photocopies of sketches and journal pages (showing your planning and preparation for a project), printed digital images and/or short video excerpts (no more than 2 minutes each). For a paper-based portfolio, keep pages to a maximum of A4 size and do not include large folders. If you are including CD/DVD/uploaded images, the preferred format is either as a 'PowerPoint' or .jpg files. We prefer video that can be opened in 'QuickTime' and only samples of work are required. To ensure we will be able to open and view any digital media files, keep the file size to a minimum (i.e. under 5MB) PLEASE NOTE: We do NOT return portfolios, so do NOT include any original copies of your work or documentation.

Responses to a series of questions about your interest in visual art. These are essential. To lodge your responses, return to this site in early July to register online. Your responses to these questions are important - please answer them as specifically, carefully and informatively as possible.

- Are you planning to graduate as a studio artist, art teacher or other art industry professional? Please outline your career goals.
- What are you expecting to learn in a course of study in Visual Arts at QUT?
- Describe briefly which exhibitions and galleries you have visited in the past 12 months, and the art-related books/articles/reviews you have read, etc).
- Briefly list any group exhibitions, solo exhibitions, commissions and awards you have been included in, plus membership of art associations etc.
- What do you think is art's role in the twenty-first century? Outline briefly.

Service charge of $33 (GST inclusive) - This is to cover the costs of administration and insurance in processing applications, and is non-refundable. The service charge can be paid by credit card online with QUTPay. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee.

Passport style photograph

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:

- Complete the Online Registration Form and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge; your portfolio (unless uploaded online);
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

What qualities are QUT Creative Industries looking for?

- Overall, we seek indications of your ability to think creatively, to be open to new ideas and challenges, and of your potential to succeed in the course.
- We look for evidence of versatility, skill, enterprise, inventiveness and knowledge of contemporary art and culture/s. We are also looking for candidates who bring a wide range of interests and enthusiasms to their study area (e.g. film, literature, music, digital culture, etc.).
- We look at your artistic achievement - the level of investigation and familiarity with particular media, the degree of sophistication and sensitivity in handling media, evidence of industry, hard work, sustained practice and familiarity with visual media.
- We look for the degree of exploration of ideas and evidence of the development of ideas. Some carefully selected key documentation of preliminary plans, working sketches, journals and work in progress help us in this regard.
- We also look for evidence of artwork that is totally self-initiated (i.e. not necessarily part of a set study program) and an indication that you are determined to pursue art interests in a range of circumstances.

When and where are the interviews?

Shortlisted applicants will be contacted, and interviewed, during November. If you are called, you are not required to bring anything with you to this interview, but you should be prepared to respond to questions about your artwork and your future goals. Interviews are designed to further assess your suitability for the style of Visual Arts course that we offer and will also present an opportunity for you to ask any questions you may have about the course. Interviews will occur at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

International Entry requirements

Please read the information below before submitting your application.

Which Visual Arts courses require additional entry application?

- KK34 - Bachelor of Fine Arts (Visual Arts)
- IX35 - Bachelor of Business/Bachelor of Fine Arts (Visual Arts)

What is the closing date for additional entry applications to Visual Arts at QUT Creative Industries?

There are no closing dates for international applicants. We encourage you to apply as soon as you decide on the course you wish to study, to help you with visa requirements.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must supply the following:

Academic transcript from secondary and/or tertiary institutions

- Portfolio: Maximum of 20 images that best demonstrate current art achievements, working processes, commitment and potential.
- It may contain photographs, slides, photocopies of sketches and journal pages, printed digital images and/or short video excerpts (no more than 2 minutes each).
- Responses to a series of four questions about your interest in visual art. Your responses to these questions are important - please answer them as specifically, carefully and informatively as possible.

1. What attracts you to a course of study in Visual Arts?
2. Describe briefly what contact you have had with works of other artists (exhibitions, galleries you have visited, books/articles/reviews you have read, etc).
3. Summarise the types of visual arts activities in which you have participated (for example group exhibitions, solo exhibitions, commissions, awards, membership of art associations etc).
4. Describe aspects of art that you respond to, both positively and negatively.

* KK33 Bachelor of Creative Industries with an art and design history major

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Domestic Course structure

Year 1

You will focus on beginning to develop your own art practice, working with a variety of media. Staff will help you develop your own interests and ideas. Introductory workshops will be provided in both digital and traditional art-making skills and you will also develop skills in visual analysis. You will be introduced to a wide range of art practices both in the studio and in history/theory classes.

Year 2

Building on your skills and knowledge from your first year, you will continue to develop your art practice using a range of media and your knowledge of contemporary art. Your skills in visual and textual analysis will develop, as will your understanding of national and international art. You will contextualise your art practice through presentations, discussions and supported practical experience in display and exhibition. If you want to become a teacher or art professional, you will begin undertaking specific vocational training towards your career goal.

Year 3

In your final year, you will continue to consolidate your art practice and build your understanding of its place in the Australian and international context. For those intending to become practising artists, the year will culminate in a public group exhibition. Your final year of study will allow for specialisation, helping you enter the real world of the arts industry or prepare you for further study in the Graduate Diploma in Education (Senior Years), or in honours and postgraduate research.

Overview

You're part of a new generation, ready for the challenge of leadership in the evolving and rapidly growing entertainment industry. Creativity and innovation are your best qualities, combined with your ability to build partnerships and collaborate. Producing entertainment is your dream and you want to deliver a superior entertainment experience for audiences. Accordingly, you aspire to develop the necessary skills and knowledge in creativity, business and law. You're ready to start a career in the exciting and thriving global entertainment industry.

Entertainment has never been more important. The entertainment industry is diverse and incorporates live performances, tourism events, sport, online gaming, film, television, videos and radio productions. And while digital entertainment is increasing rapidly, non-digital entertainment will account for two thirds of the total global spending on entertainment in 2014. Producers of entertainment are not only focused on engaging existing audiences but also new audiences of the future.

Why choose this course

The Bachelor of Entertainment Industries, commencing in 2012, will train you to work as an entertainment producer where you will originate, design and run entertainment projects. The entertainment industry is a thriving and growing industry in Brisbane, Australia and overseas. Entertainment is a recession proof industry and was worth $1.5 trillion globally in 2007, projected to grow to $2.2 trillion by 2012.

This new course was designed in close collaboration with the entertainment industry. Strong industry involvement in the development and ongoing delivery of the course ensures you will benefit from practical experiences, original and engaging learning exercises and direct contact with entertainment producers. Currently, our industry partners include Nova radio in Brisbane, Warner Bros. Movie World theme park and the Ekka.

You will gain unique skills and knowledge from the combination of expertise in creative industries, business and law. Further, you will have the opportunity to supplement your studies in entertainment and gain additional career advantage by choosing a second major from the 12 specialised majors available in the Creative Industries Faculty. Together, this diverse range of experience will prepare you for the business side of producing entertainment in the modern world.

Career Outcomes

Graduates may work as producers, researchers, online producers, publishers, agents or promoters within the growing entertainment industry. The industry is diverse and includes entertainment in the context of tourism events, large-scale performances, radio programming and theme parks to name a few. You will be employed by an organisation that produces entertainment or become self-employed in generating new forms of entertainment for the future.

Your Course

Year 1

You will meet real-life entertainment producers and be introduced to their work as well as visit entertainment companies. Learning how entertainment works and how to identify the key characteristics of successful entertainment will be included in your studies. An investigation of how entertainment circulates globally will complement an analysis of global entertainment genres like soap operas and theme parks, and specific places like Hollywood, Bollywood, and South Korean gaming. You will be introduced to the business, creative and legal sides of working as an entertainment producer.

Year 2
You will learn how to sell your entertainment products, through marketing concepts including segmentation and management information systems, and explore marketing specialisations such as services marketing, e-marketing, and strategic marketing. You will also meet lawyers who work in entertainment and be introduced to how the legal system affects entertainment production. Working with entertainment producers in order to learn how to balance business and creativity, and design proposals for entertainment projects is included in second year.

Year 3
You will make contact with entertainment companies operating in Brisbane and map the sector of potential employers as well as learning how to manage an entertainment project. Your studies in entertainment marketing will be extended and you will gain a thorough understanding of how marketing works in the various entertainment sectors. As you prepare to go out into the real world you will learn about entertainment law and legal issues including copyright, intellectual property, and contract law. By the time you graduate you will also have undertaken at least one industry placement or project as part of your studies, which will ensure you graduate with professional experience and network contacts.

A new policy concerning grades of 3 came into effect from 1 January 2009 (QUT MOPP C/5.2). With effect from this date grades of 3 are no longer considered a conceded or low pass but are classified as a fail grade. Any grades of 3 awarded prior to 1 January 2009 retain the conceded pass status and will be counted for graduation purposes up to the maximum number of grades of 3 permitted for your course. Grades of 3 incurred in units that commence after 1 January 2009 will not count towards your degree. Further information is available on the Student Services website.

Pathways to further study

The Bachelor of Entertainment Industries (Honours) is currently under consideration, for commencement in Semester 1, 2014. Pending final approval, KK35 graduates who achieve minimum GPA requirements, will be eligible to apply for the Bachelor of Entertainment Industries (Honours).

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 02 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Music at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Music at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty by the 02 September 2011 through the Online Registration Form.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements and what qualities are you looking for?

- Academic record
- Photo. A current passport sized photo (for identification purposes only)
- Interview. During the interview you may be asked about: Your past experiences in music and sound activitiesWhat sort of music you enjoy playing and listening toYour ambitions during your studies and beyondHow studying music at QUT will help you achieve your musical goals
- Audition: performance on instrument and/or Portfolio of music / sound works (if applicable)

1. The Interview

Qualities looked for in the Interview:

- a strong track record in relevant music and sound activities
- a strong potential for continued growth in your music and sound understanding and practice
- knowledge of QUT Creative Industries music courses and how this relates to your own personal goals

You are encouraged to bring to your interview evidence of any musical qualifications or any other information which will assist in gauging your musicianship level (e.g. copies of AMEB theory examination results, printed reviews of performances etc).

2. The Audition

Audition requirements (all applicants)

Present two items at the audition that you believe will persuade the panel of your suitability for QUT Music and Sound (it will be of benefit if at least one is your own song, improvisation or composition). The items may comprise the following:

- performances of two contrasting pieces of music of your own choice for the panel
  or
- performances of one piece of music and present one recorded piece (portfolio) for the panel to listen to at the audition,
  or
- presentation of two recorded pieces (portfolio) for the panel to listen to at the audition.

Total duration: no more than 10 minutes. You may be asked to stop playing/presenting before finishing a piece - in the event that this occurs, you should not assume that this has adverse implications on the assessment of your presentation.

Live Performance

You will need to demonstrate technical fluency/competency on your instrument and a well-developed sense of musicality and engagement.

- You can perform on any instrument - orchestral, acoustic, amplified, electronic (eg. computer, turntable etc.), non-western (eg. sitar, djembe, etc.)
- You can audition on more than one instrument so long as it fits within your 10 minute audition time.

It is your responsibility to arrange your own accompaniment if you require it. You can use backing tracks on CD. Other formats may be accommodated but only by prior arrangement or you may be accompanied by a maximum of 2 other musicians. Unaccompanied performance is acceptable however if the piece(s) you are performing are not intended as solo works, accompaniment is desirable.

Qualities looked for in the Live Performance Audition:

- Creativity and originality of approach
- Technically and creatively appropriate skills in presentation.
- Clear articulation of musical approach
- General sense of musicality and musical engagement
- Diversity of material presented.

Recorded Pieces

This should consist of music/sound works that you have created or have been partly involved in creating. Suitable items include (but are not limited to) written and/or performed compositions for acoustic instruments, music realised using computer software, pop songs, soundscapes, music you have recorded/engineered/produced etc. You will be expected to advise the panel of your precise role in the recorded pieces.

- Bring a portfolio of music/sound works that you have created. Suitable items include (but are not limited to); written and/or performed compositions for acoustic instruments, music realised using computer software, pop songs, soundscapes, music you have recorded/engineered/produced etc.
- You should include one or two contrasting pieces (only one if you are also choosing to perform a live piece) - total duration for all pieces 10 minutes maximum
- Acceptable formats are: Audio CD (must be able to be played in a standard CD player)CD-ROM (must be compatible with Macintosh and PC)DVD (must be able to be played in a standard DVD player)USB Stick
- Printed scores (if relevant and only in conjunction with an audio recording or performance of the piece),
- Please ensure you test your CDs, CD-ROMs or DVDs on multiple systems before submitting them. Failure of your media to play in the specified equipment may adversely affect your folio result.
- Your folio must be accompanied by written notes (maximum 200 words) that explain your precise role in each of the items (i.e. what your role/s were in the creation of the piece, how you created the piece, your artistic aims in creating the piece)
- All portfolio items should be marked with your name and contact details. Please note that portfolios are not returned.

Qualities looked for in Recorded Pieces:

- Creativity and originality of approach
- Technically and creatively appropriate skills in presentation.
- Clear articulation of musical approach
- General sense of musicality and musical engagement
- Diversity of material presented.

How do I apply?

- Complete the online registration and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment of the $33 service fee (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee);
- Attend an audition; and
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

When and where are the auditions and interviews being held?

- All auditions and interviews will be held in Brisbane at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus between 26 - 29 September 2011.
- Your interview and audition will be scheduled when you lodge your online application. Please note that the time and date of your audition cannot be changed except in exceptional circumstances.

What if I am unable to attend an audition/interview?

- If you are unable to attend an interview/audition you may apply by submitting the following along with your academic record, photo, portfolio and payment by 2 September 2011:
- a written statement (total 2 pages maximum) that addresses the following 4 points: Your past experiences in music and sound activitiesWhat sort of music you enjoy playing and listening toYour ambitions during your studies and beyondHow studying Music and Sound at QUT will help you achieve your musical goals

Photocopy evidence of any musical achievements or any other information which will assist in gauging your musicianship level (e.g. copies of AMEB theory examination results, printed reviews of performances, commercial CDs etc.)

- A continuous and unedited video recording of you performing your audition piece(s) or a CD of your production pieces (or both). Refer to audition requirements for recorded and live performance.

Video must be submitted on CDR or DVD-R and must include a declaration of authenticity, details of date and place of performance and details of the role of applicant if the performance involves other participants. Refer to audition requirements for recorded and live performance. Please note that videos are not returned.

- You may be required for a phone interview to clarify any points in your written statement

Can I audition on more than one instrument?

Yes but only within the duration of your 10-minute audition.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the early round in 15 December 2011 offer round.

International Entry requirements

Please read the information below before submitting your application.

Which Music courses require additional entry application?

- KM32 - Bachelor of Music
- KM32 - Bachelor of Music/ED38 - Graduate Diploma in Education (Senior Years)

What is the closing date for additional entry courses in Music at QUT Creative Industries?

There are no closing dates for international applicants. We encourage you to apply as soon as you decide on the course you wish to study, to help you with visa requirements.

What are the Additional Entry Requirements?

Applicants are required to attend an audition and interview as part of the selection process:

- Perform 2 contrasting pieces of music of your own choice - total duration for both pieces 10 minutes maximum
- Demonstrate a high level of technical fluency on your instrument and a well developed sense of musicality and engagement. You can perform on any instrument - orchestral, acoustic, amplified, electronic (e.g. computer, turntable etc.), non-western (e.g. sitar, djembe, etc.) Please note that acceptance into the performance strand will depend upon the availability of a suitable teacher in your chosen instrument. The Music & Sound Discipline reserves the right not to accept particular instruments for study in the performance strand.

QUT prefers to audition and interview applicants in person however international applicants living outside Australia may submit the following:

- A continuous and unedited video recording of you performing your audition pieces is acceptable. The video must be submitted on VHS tape or DVD and must include a declaration of authenticity, details of date and place of performance and details of the role of applicant if the performance involves other participants.
- A written statement (two page maximum) that addresses the following four points; your past experiences in music and sound activities, what sort of music you enjoy playing and listening to, your ambitions during your studies and beyond, how you think studying Music and Sound at QUT will help you achieve your goals.
- Photocopies of musical qualifications or any other information which will assist us in gauging your musicianship level.

Please note you may be required to complete a phone interview to clarify points in your written statement.

Qualities looked for in the Audition:

- clear articulation of musical approach
- demonstrated technical skill
- general sense of musicality
- originality of approach
- level of musical engagement
- diversity of material presented

Qualities looked for in the interview/statement:

- a strong track record in relevant music and sound activities
- a strong potential for continued growth in your music and sound understanding and practice
- knowledge of QUT Creative Industries Music and Sound courses and how this relates to your own personal goals

Note: Submissions cannot be returned to the applicant.

Why choose this course?

QUT's Bachelor of Music is the only Brisbane-based degree which focuses on contemporary music. Our teaching staff have professional links with Q-Music, the Australian Independent Record Labels Association (AIR), Arts Queensland, Ellaways Music, Creative Media Warehouse and ITC Software Development.

There is an emphasis on creativity and new music and you will be encouraged to explore new connections and different styles or genres of music. You will experience both live and recording studio environments, whether your focus is as a player or producer, and learn how to use technology to create music, record and distribute your works and market your talent.

You will be immersed in the industry through internships and media opportunities, and you will launch your career through public performances in Brisbane's live music venues. In 2008, music students presented live performances in venues such as The Zoo, the Brisbane Powerhouse, Valley Studios and QPAC, as well as at the Brisbane Festival.

Course Structure

In order to complete this course, students must complete 192 credit points of Music units and 96 credit points of Complementary Studies.

Other Course Options

The Bachelor of Music is available as a dual degree with Education. Applicants accepted into the dual degree will complete a four year program comprising the three year Bachelor of Music and the one year Graduate Diploma of Education (Senior Years).

Studies in Music are also available in:
* KK33 Bachelor of Creative Industries with a music major

Additional costs

While extensive computing technology is available, additional digital storage will be required (CDs, DVDs, and often hard drives) at your own cost. Headphones, ear plugs, batteries and appropriate leads must be provided.

Pathways to further study

Students who pass KM32 Bachelor of Music with a GPA of 5.5 or higher may apply for entry to the Bachelor of Music (Honours).

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

A foundation program in music concepts will provide you with an overview of contemporary developments in music and sound, along with musicianship skills. You will undertake a foundation program in music and sound production which will develop your skills with music technology and software. An intensive music studio experience will develop your skills in music and sound performance, presentation, and help you identify your creative direction.

Year 2

To develop a unique set of crossover musical skills, you will build on the foundation studies of your first year, and pursue a pathway that best suits your future needs. You will study creative performance, music and sound production, or a combination of the two. They will be accompanied by an intensive project-based study program, mentored by staff and industry professionals, which further develops your focus as an artist or creative producer. You will gain an understanding of the structure of the music industry, current industry issues, and learn how to promote yourself and organise events. You will complement your music studies by taking electives in other disciplines, or specialise further in the music and sound area.

Year 3

You will intensify your creative project work and showcase yourself to industry through a series of public performance and creative production opportunities. You will further your knowledge of the music industry via real-world learning contexts and have the opportunity to undertake projects with other talented creative artists and producers, or in partnership with related organisations. You can continue to engage more broadly with the creative industries by taking electives in other disciplines, or specialise further in the music and sound area.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Fashion at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty.

To be considered for a place you must do two things.

1. Submit to the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011. a Fashion 2012 Registration Forma copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee).a Portfolio with this Registration Form
2. Apply through QTAC by 30 September.
   (See the QTAC website for more information)

Interviews

Following the submission applicants will be shortlisted. QUT will be conducting interviews in November 2011. Should you be shortlisted you will be notified via email. Only submissions that include all the above stated requirements will be processed.

Offers

The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

The Portfolio - further details

Your Portfolio must contain three things.

1. Academic Records - include your most up-to date records.
2. Personal statement - A typewritten personal statement outlining your reasons for applying to this particular course, indicating your personal strengths and your future ambitions (max 300 words).
3. Maximum 20 single-sided A4 pages, which should include a range of examples that demonstrate your potential as a fashion designer. This could include but is not limited to: Good examples of your sketchbook work (to demonstrate your ability to research a topic and develop ideas based on that topic).Fashion design drawings (showing your ability to create fashion designs, based on research and a concept). We are looking for evidence of fabric awareness, colour, and 3D thinking.Selected photographs that show good examples of any garments you have made.

There is no one particular type of folio we are looking for, as long as you keep to the requirements of 20 single-sided A4 pages of your work. We are looking for something individual; a folio that expresses you, your talents and potential within the fashion industry. We would like to know what you think about fashion and what you like about fashion - or even what you don't like about fashion. Think of the folio as a way of introducing yourself to us - and showing us your creativity and thought processes. Show us what inspires you and excites you.

Do not send original documents, colour photocopies only please

Will my portfolio by returned?

You will need to provide with your registration form, a stamped, self-addressed envelope (appropriate to the size of the portfolio submitted) for your portfolio to be returned. Portfolio materials will only be returned to applicants that provide the envelope.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Visual Arts at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Visual Arts at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register through the Online Registration Form with the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must supply the following:

Academic record - A copy of your most recent report (it does not have to be your final end-of-year grades).

Portfolio - Maximum of 20 pages of images that best demonstrate your current art achievements, working processes, commitment and potential. Consider the "Qualities" we look for (listed below) when compiling your portfolio. It may contain photographs, slides, photocopies of sketches and journal pages (showing your planning and preparation for a project), printed digital images and/or short video excerpts (no more than 2 minutes each). For a paper-based portfolio, keep pages to a maximum of A4 size and do not include large folders. If you are including CD/DVD/uploaded images, the preferred format is either as a 'PowerPoint' or .jpg files. We prefer video that can be opened in 'QuickTime' and only samples of work are required. To ensure we will be able to open and view any digital media files, keep the file size to a minimum (i.e. under 5MB) PLEASE NOTE: We do NOT return portfolios, so do NOT include any original copies of your work or documentation.

Responses to a series of questions about your interest in visual art. These are essential. To lodge your responses, return to this site in early July to register online. Your responses to these questions are important - please answer them as specifically, carefully and informatively as possible.

- Are you planning to graduate as a studio artist, art teacher or other art industry professional? Please outline your career goals.
- What are you expecting to learn in a course of study in Visual Arts at QUT?
- Describe briefly which exhibitions and galleries you have visited in the past 12 months, and the art-related books/articles/reviews you have read, etc).
- Briefly list any group exhibitions, solo exhibitions, commissions and awards you have been included in, plus membership of art associations etc.
- What do you think is art's role in the twenty-first century? Outline briefly.

Service charge of $33 (GST inclusive) - This is to cover the costs of administration and insurance in processing applications, and is non-refundable. The service charge can be paid by credit card online with QUTPay. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee.

Passport style photograph

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:

- Complete the Online Registration Form and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge; your portfolio (unless uploaded online);
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

What qualities are QUT Creative Industries looking for?

- Overall, we seek indications of your ability to think creatively, to be open to new ideas and challenges, and of your potential to succeed in the course.
- We look for evidence of versatility, skill, enterprise, inventiveness and knowledge of contemporary art and culture/s. We are also looking for candidates who bring a wide range of interests and enthusiasms to their study area (e.g. film, literature, music, digital culture, etc.).
- We look at your artistic achievement - the level of investigation and familiarity with particular media, the degree of sophistication and sensitivity in handling media, evidence of industry, hard work, sustained practice and familiarity with visual media.
- We look for the degree of exploration of ideas and evidence of the development of ideas. Some carefully selected key documentation of preliminary plans, working sketches, journals and work in progress help us in this regard.
- We also look for evidence of artwork that is totally self-initiated (i.e. not necessarily part of a set study program) and an indication that you are determined to pursue art interests in a range of circumstances.

When and where are the interviews?

Shortlisted applicants will be contacted, and interviewed, during November. If you are called, you are not required to bring anything with you to this interview, but you should be prepared to respond to questions about your artwork and your future goals. Interviews are designed to further assess your suitability for the style of Visual Arts course that we offer and will also present an opportunity for you to ask any questions you may have about the course. Interviews will occur at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA). Accountancy, Finance, Economics and Marketing majors also requires 4 SA in Maths A, B or C.

Course Overview

This double degree allows you to complement your technical skills with creative skills through digital media and film production. You will learn to merge the creative and imaginative with the technical to develop sophisticated and innovative digital products. You can choose to complement your skill set through a range of information technology and creative industries areas of interest to diversify your studies, including:

• animation
• art and design history
• creative and professional writing
• dance studies
• digital media
• entertainment industries
• entrepreneurship
• fashion
• film, television and screen game design
• interactive and visual design
• journalism, media and communication
• literary studies
• music
• online environments

Career Outcomes

As a graduate you can enjoy the more creative side of information technology careers including digital media programmer, simulation designer or developer, games producer or designer, sound designer, mobile entertainment and communications developer, user interface developer, knowledge worker in music and sound, web developer and digital product strategist.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited by the Australian Computer Society (ACS). ACS accreditation is internationally recognised by the Seoul Accord.

Course Design

You will undertake the Bachelor of Creative Industries core units as well as one creative industries major. Your information technology degree component comprises eight core units, four breadth units, and four units in your information technology specialisation.

Study Areas

The Bachelor of Information Technology will not have nominated majors and minors and consequently there will not be a Study Area A shown on a graduate's parchment. Instead, it will have specialisations. The specialisation areas that will be available for students will include:

• Business Process Management
• Data Warehousing
• Digital Societies
• Enterprise Systems
• Information Management
• Network Systems
• Software Engineering
• Web Technologies

Pathways to Futher Studies

In 2001, an accelerated Honours program was introduced to increase the number of Bachelor of Information Technology students continuing their studies to complete the Honours year. The program allowed selected high achieving students the opportunity to undertake one postgraduate unit in the final semester of their a BIT degree (or double degree) which would be counted both for completion of the degree and towards the Honours program. The program also provided students with the opportunity to commence their Honours studies over the Summer Semester.

Bachelor of Creative Industries/Bachelor of Information Technology

An alternative to the Honours program is the Master of Information Technology (Research). Students who complete a BIT degree (or double degree) with a grade point average equal to, or greater than 5 (7 point scale) and who have decided against enrolling in an Honours program, could undertake this course. In addition, students may wish to enrol in the re-designed postgraduate coursework Masters which has ten specialisations allowing students to either extend their area of interest or specialise in other areas at the Masters level.

Cooperative Education

The Faculty's Cooperative Education Program gives you the opportunity of 10-12 months paid industry placement during your course where you can integrate real experience with what you're learning in your degree. Companies that QUT's Coop Ed students have worked with include Energex, Boeing, CITEC, CSC Mining, Environmental Protection Agency, Dialog, UNiTAB, RACQ and many Queensland Government departments. The Coop Ed Program is available to Australian citizens and permanent residents only.

Find out more about the Cooperative Education Program.

Unit Incompatibility/Translation Information

Details on the translation and incompatibility of old and new units is located here:
Undergraduate Translation Table
If you have completed the unit(s) listed under the "Translation Unit Codes" column, you are not permitted to enrol in the listed new code.

Professional Recognition

The QUT Bachelor of Laws course is an approved degree for the purposes of the Legal Practitioners Admissions Rules, subject to final approval. It will enable you to satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practise as a solicitor and/or barrister in all Australian states and territories.

Law School Electives Information

Students who are enrolled in LW34 (straight law undergraduate entry) are required to undertake two contextual electives in the first year of their degree (one in each semester). Contextual electives may also be undertaken by any student as an ordinary elective within their degree. The contextual electives are:

• LWB142 Law Society and Justice
• LWB144 Law and Global Perspectives
• LWB149 Indigenous Legal Issues
• LWB150 Lawyering and Dispute Resolution.

Students who are enrolled in any of the law double degrees commence their law electives in the second semester of their second year.

Students who are enrolled in LW35 (Graduate Entry) commence their law electives in first semester of their second year.

Law students other than Graduate Entry students can undertake 4 non-law units as electives within their law degree. Students may be particularly interested in elective options within the School of Justice which relate to human rights and criminal justice.

Graduate Destination Streams

The Faculty of Law has identified graduate destination streams for students undertaking a law or law double degree. This means that, as students learn more throughout their degree, they can choose their elective units in the areas of law in which they become interested. Students are not restricted to choose electives from a single stream; the streams are only to provide guidance to students in making their elective choices.

• Legal Practice
• General Legal Practice (work as a lawyer across a wide range of different legal areas)
• Specialist Legal Practice (work as a lawyer specialising in a particular area of the law, such as property law, family law or corporate law)
• Advocacy and Dispute Resolution (acting for clients in court or resolving disputes through negotiation and mediation processes)
• Public Sector (work as a lawyer in a government department)
• Private Enterprise (for those students not wanting to practise as a lawyer, but perhaps work within business management, human resources, information technology etc)

As students progress towards the end of their degrees there are more opportunities to participate in subjects where they engage in ‘real world learning’ , for example, working within law firms and government departments in placement electives.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Media and Communication, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Media and Communication (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Laws, there are a number of further study options open to you. The Bachelor of Laws meets the entry requirements for Practical Legal Training courses (for example, the QUT Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice). In addition, successful completion of the law degree will allow you to pursue postgraduate opportunities through research- and coursework-based higher degrees in law.

Overview

This course offers you a range of options in combining business knowledge with practical skills and a contextual understanding of media and communication.

This combination of media and communication with a business major in advertising, marketing or public relations provides proven professional outcomes in media sales, media marketing and promotions, and in media planning/buying for advertising agencies.

An international business major will equip you with an understanding of the cultural, financial and regulatory issues involved in doing business across borders. Alternatively you may choose to study another of the business professions to diversify your career options.

Career Outcomes

Graduates use their skills for a variety of professional functions across all industry sectors. Many work in marketing communications, public relations or corporate communications. Others apply their broad media knowledge in the media function of advertising, either as sales executives for media outlets or as media planners and buyers for advertising agencies.

Careers exist in audience and market research, collating and analysing audience data to help media outlets better understand who their audiences are and how they are interacting with their product. Graduates also find employment in media policy development in the public sector and private enterprise. Pathways exist to prepare you for further study including honours.

If you wish to use your business knowledge more in your career, you could gain employment in arts administration—marketing, managing or balancing the books for creative projects and businesses.

The combination of media and communication with advertising, marketing or public relations provides proven professional outcomes in media sales, media marketing and promotions, and in media planning/ buying for advertising agencies. You will also develop the entrepreneurial and business skills necessary to sell your abilities to a range of employers, or start your own creative enterprise. Please refer to the QUT Business School prospectus to find out more about the business majors.

Course Design

You are required to complete 384 credit points comprised of 192 credit points from the Bachelor of Business program and 192 credit points from the Bachelor of Media and Communication program. You will undertake the two components of the double degree concurrently.

You will undertake 192 credit points of specialist units in media and communication. Your business degree component comprises eight business core units, and eight business major units.

You will choose a business major from accounting, advertising, economics, finance, human resource management, international business, management, marketing or public relations. You must complete 96 credit point Business School Core Units in the Business program together with a 96 credit point Major.

Professional Recognition

Business component: Students may be eligible for membership to a number of professional bodies depending on choice of major and unit selection. Details on professional recognition can be found under the individual majors of the Bachelor of Business (BS05).

Important Information for Business Students

QUT Business School rules and procedures are outlined in the Business Undergraduate Guidelines booklet. Other useful information can be found on the Student Services website.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Media and Communication, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Media and Communication (Honours), or the Bachelor of Business (Honours) (Study Area A), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

The Bachelor of Fine Arts component is made up of 192 credit points from the Creative and Professional Writing major.

The Law component is made up of 336 credit points of law subjects.

Professional Recognition

The QUT Bachelor of Laws course is an approved degree for the purposes of the Legal Practitioners Admission Rules. Accordingly, it enables graduates to satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practise as a solicitor and/or barrister in all Australian states and territories. The QUT LLB degree qualification is also recognised for admission purposes in West and East Malaysia, Fiji and Papua New Guinea.

Law School Electives Information

Students who are enrolled in LW34 (straight law undergraduate entry) are required to undertake two contextual electives in the first year of their degree (one in each semester). Contextual electives may also be undertaken by any student as an ordinary elective within their degree. The contextual electives are:

• LWB142 Law Society and Justice
• LWB144 Law and Global Perspectives

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA) of English and one of the following: Maths A, Maths B or Maths C.

International Subject prerequisites

- English

You must have achieved study of English and one of the following: Maths A, Maths B or Maths C, at a level comparable to Australian Year 12 or in recognised post-secondary studies.

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.0
writing	6.0
reading	6.0
listening	6.0

Career Outcomes

This double degree will set you up for a career in the rapidly expanding fields of contemporary communication and the application of new media technologies.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited by the Australian Computer Society (ACS). ACS accreditation is internationally recognised by the Seoul Accord.

Course Structure

This course is made up of 384 credit points. Each component (i.e. Information Technology, and Interactive and Visual Design) comprises 192 credit points.

Study Areas

The Bachelor of Information Technology will not have nominated majors and minors and consequently there will not be a Study Area A shown on a graduate's parchment. Instead, it will have specialisations. The specialisation areas that will be available for students will include:

- Business Process Management
- Data Warehousing
- Digital Environments
- Enterprise Systems
- Information Management
- Network Systems
- Software Engineering
- Web Technologies

Pathways to Futher Studies

In 2001, an accelerated Honours program was introduced to increase the number of Bachelor of Information Technology students continuing their studies to complete the Honours year. The program allowed selected high achieving students the opportunity to undertake one postgraduate unit in the final semester of their a BIT degree (or double degree) which would be counted both for completion of the degree and towards the Honours program. The program also provided students with the opportunity to commence their Honours studies over the Summer Semester.

An alternative to the Honours program is the Master of Information Technology (Research). Students who complete a BIT degree (or double degree) with a grade point average equal to, or greater than 5 (7 point scale) and who have decided against enrolling in an Honours program, could undertake this course. In addition, students may wish to enrol in the re-designed postgraduate coursework Masters which has ten specialisations allowing students to either extend their area of interest or specialise in other areas at the Masters level.

Alternatively, on successful completion of this course you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Cooperative Education

The Faculty of Science and Engineering's Cooperative Education Program gives you the opportunity of 10-12 months paid industry placement during your course where you can integrate real experience with what you're learning in your degree. Companies that QUT's Coop Ed students have worked with include Energex, Boeing, CITEC, CSC Mining, Environmental Protection Agency, Dialog, UNiTAB, RACQ and many Queensland Government departments. The Coop Ed Program is available to Australian citizens and permanent residents only.

Find out more about the Cooperative Education Program.

Course Design

You will study creative industries and law subjects in your first four years and for the remainder of your course you will concentrate on law studies.

The Creative Industries component is made up of 96 credit points of core units and a Creative Industries major (96 credit points).

Professional Recognition

The QUT Bachelor of Laws course is an approved degree for the purposes of the Legal Practitioners Admission Rules. Accordingly, it enables graduates to satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practise as a solicitor and/or barrister in all Australian states and territories. The QUT LLB degree qualification is also recognised for admission purposes in West and East Malaysia, Fiji and Papua New Guinea.

Deferment

Domestic students can defer their offer in this course for one year. In exceptional circumstances up to 12 months of additional deferment may be granted.

Find out more on deferment.

Law School Electives Information

Students who are enrolled in LW34 (straight law undergraduate entry) are required to undertake two contextual electives in the first year of their degree (one in each semester). Contextual electives may also be undertaken by any student as an ordinary elective within their degree. The contextual electives are:
• LWB142 Law Society and Justice
• LWB144 Law and Global Perspectives
• LWB149 Indigenous Legal Issues
• LWB150 Lawyering and Dispute Resolution.

Students who are enrolled in any of the law double degrees commence their law electives in the second semester of their second year.

Students who are enrolled in LW35 (Graduate Entry) commence their law electives in first semester of their second year.

Law students other than Graduate Entry students can undertake 4 non-law units as electives within their law degree. Students may be particularly interested in elective options within the School of Justice which relate to human rights and criminal justice.

Graduate Destination Streams

The Faculty of Law has identified graduate destination streams for students undertaking a law or law double degree. This means that, as students learn more throughout their degree, they can choose their elective units in the areas of law in which they become interested. Students are not restricted to choose electives from a single stream; the streams are only to provide guidance to students in making their elective choices.
• Legal Practice
• General Legal Practice (work as a lawyer across a wide range of different legal areas)
• Specialist Legal Practice (work as a lawyer specialising in a particular area of the law, such as property law, family law or corporate law)
• Advocacy and Dispute Resolution (acting for clients in court or resolving disputes through negotiation and mediation processes)
• Public Sector (work as a lawyer in a government department)

• Private Enterprise (for those students not wanting to practise as a lawyer, but perhaps work within business management, human resources, information technology etc)

As students progress towards the end of their degrees there are more opportunities to participate in subjects where they engage in 'real world learning' , for example, working within law firms and government departments in placement electives.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Dance at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and submit a Dance Registration Form to the Creative Industries Faculty. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Dance at QUT Creative Industries?

- Registration for the 2012 intake will close by the extended closing date of 23 September, 2011. To register for an audition, you must submit a Dance Registration Form.
- You must also apply to QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must submit the following and attend an audition:

- Academic record
- Personal statement Personal statement form is included in the Application Guide
- Photograph A current passport sized photograph ANDA full body shot, facing front in parallel, in leotard / swim suit (no board shorts)
- Physiotherapist's Report. A specialist dance or sports physiotherapist needs to assess various physical elements such as your flexibility range and history of injuries.Physiotherapist report form is provided in the Application Guide

What does the audition consist of?

There are two rounds on your day of audition. All applicants will complete round one. Those applicants successful in moving onto round two will be posted on the notice board during the lunch break.

Round One:

- a ballet class (no pointe work)
- a contemporary dance class
- a jazz class (for course code 429162 only)
- a course talk given by the Head of Dance
- a written interpretative exercise

The written exercise requires no preparation. It is a half hour session that looks at the applicant's interpretative skills and writing skills - e.g. spelling, punctuation, grammar - in response to an image presented on the day.

Round Two:

- a one minute solo in a dance genre of the applicant's choice
- This solo is an opportunity for you to dance in a genre of your own choice that you may feel better demonstrates your performance abilities - e.g. hip hop, adagio, Irish, tap. The solo is one minute long and music (if used) should be on CD. The solo may be choreographed by the applicant or someone else - e.g. teacher, guest choreographer
- a more advanced ballet and contemporary class, which includes pointe work (for course code 421822 only)
- A short impromptu talk from the auditionee on a topic given on the day (for course code 429162 1st preference only.)

What should I wear to my audition?

Ballet class:

- women: pink tights, light coloured leotard and ballet shoes. If you do not own ballet shoes, please bring cotton socks. If you do not own tights and leotard, please wear bike pants and tight, light coloured, fitting t-shirt.
- men: tights and a light-coloured singlet or t-shirt and ballet shoes. If you do not own ballet shoes, please bring cotton socks. If you do not own tights, please wear bike pants and jock strap.

Contemporary class:

- Same as above, but able to work in bare feet when required in this genre.

Solo:

- no costumes or props please. Tights and leotard only.

What do I need to bring on the day?'

Please bring your dance gear and water bottle. If you bring lunch it can be stored in the fridge in the dance corridor. There are no cafes open on campus on weekends.

I have no formal training in classical / contemporary ballet. Can I still audition?

You are assessed on potential, but formal training would benefit applicants. The selection panel looks at you for your movement potential, alignment, sense of musicality, and your degree of confidence. Studying a different technique (e.g. jazz, tap, contemporary) will also help you develop these skills.

What do I have to do in the solo presentation?

The solo presentation is one minute (maximum), which can be improvised or choreographed by yourself or another person, in a style of your choice (e.g. Tap, Irish Dance). The selection panel looks for confidence, appropriate quality and performance integrity.

How do I apply?

There are two steps to an application for Dance at QUT:

1. You must register for an audition by submitting a Dance Registration Form to the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 23 September 2011. This should also include a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment of the $33 service charge. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee
2. You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is the 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Visual Arts at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Visual Arts at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register through the Online Registration Form with the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must supply the following:

Academic record - A copy of your most recent report (it does not have to be your final end-of-year grades).

Portfolio - Maximum of 20 pages of images that best demonstrate your current art achievements, working processes, commitment and potential. Consider the "Qualities" we look for (listed below) when compiling your portfolio. It may contain photographs, slides, photocopies of sketches and journal pages (showing your planning and preparation for a project), printed digital images and/or short video excerpts (no more than 2 minutes each). For a paper-based portfolio, keep pages to a maximum of A4 size and do not include large folders. If you are including CD/DVD/uploaded images, the preferred format is either as a 'PowerPoint' or .jpg files. We prefer video that can be opened in 'QuickTime' and only samples of work are required. To ensure we will be able to open and view any digital media files, keep the file size to a minimum (i.e. under 5MB) PLEASE NOTE: We do NOT return portfolios, so do NOT include any original copies of your work or documentation.

Responses to a series of questions about your interest in visual art. These are essential. To lodge your responses, return to this site in early July to register online. Your responses to these questions are important - please answer them as specifically, carefully and informatively as possible.

- Are you planning to graduate as a studio artist, art teacher or other art industry professional? Please outline your career goals.
- What are you expecting to learn in a course of study in Visual Arts at QUT?
- Describe briefly which exhibitions and galleries you have visited in the past 12 months, and the art-related books/articles/reviews you have read, etc).
- Briefly list any group exhibitions, solo exhibitions, commissions and awards you have been included in, plus membership of art associations etc.
- What do you think is art's role in the twenty-first century? Outline briefly.

Service charge of $33 (GST inclusive) - This is to cover the costs of administration and insurance in processing applications, and is non-refundable. The service charge can be paid by credit card online with QUTPay. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee.

Passport style photograph

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:

- Complete the Online Registration Form and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge; your portfolio (unless uploaded online);
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

What qualities are QUT Creative Industries looking for?

- Overall, we seek indications of your ability to think creatively, to be open to new ideas and challenges, and of your potential to succeed in the course.
- We look for evidence of versatility, skill, enterprise, inventiveness and knowledge of contemporary art and culture/s. We are also looking for candidates who bring a wide range of interests and enthusiasms to their study area (e.g. film, literature, music, digital culture, etc.).
- We look at your artistic achievement - the level of investigation and familiarity with particular media, the degree of sophistication and sensitivity in handling media, evidence of industry, hard work, sustained practice and familiarity with visual media.
- We look for the degree of exploration of ideas and evidence of the development of ideas. Some carefully selected key documentation of preliminary plans, working sketches, journals and work in progress help us in this regard.
- We also look for evidence of artwork that is totally self-initiated (i.e. not necessarily part of a set study program) and an indication that you are determined to pursue art interests in a range of circumstances.

When and where are the interviews?

Shortlisted applicants will be contacted, and interviewed, during November. If you are called, you are not required to bring anything with you to this interview, but you should be prepared to respond to questions about your artwork and your future goals. Interviews are designed to further assess your suitability for the style of Visual Arts course that we offer and will also present an opportunity for you to ask any questions you may have about the course. Interviews will occur at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 02 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Music at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Music at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty by the 2 September 2011 through the Online Registration Form.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information

What are the additional entry requirements and what qualities are you looking for?

- Academic record
- Photo. A current passport sized photo (for identification purposes only)
- Interview. During the interview you may be asked about: Your past experiences in music and sound activitiesWhat sort of music you enjoy playing and listening toYour ambitions during your studies and beyondHow studying music at QUT will help you achieve your musical goals
- Audition: performance on instrument and/or Portfolio of music / sound works (if applicable)

1. The Interview

Qualities looked for in the Interview:

- a strong track record in relevant music and sound activities
- a strong potential for continued growth in your music and sound understanding and practice
- knowledge of QUT Creative Industries music courses and how this relates to your own personal goals

You are encouraged to bring to your interview evidence of any musical qualifications or any other information which will assist in gauging your musicianship level (e.g. copies of AMEB theory examination results, printed reviews of performances etc).

2. The Audition

Audition requirements (all applicants)

Present two items at the audition that you believe will persuade the panel of your suitability for QUT Music and Sound (it will be of benefit if at least one is your own song, improvisation or composition). The items may comprise the following:

- performances of two contrasting pieces of music of your own choice for the panel
  or
- performances of one piece of music and present one recorded piece (portfolio) for the panel to listen to at the audition,
  or
- presentation of two recorded pieces (portfolio) for the panel to listen to at the audition.

Total duration: no more than 10 minutes. You may be asked to stop playing/presenting before finishing a piece - in the event that this occurs, you should not assume that this has adverse implications on the assessment of your presentation.

Live Performance

You will need to demonstrate technical fluency/competency on your instrument and a well-developed sense of musicality and engagement.

- You can perform on any instrument - orchestral, acoustic, amplified, electronic (eg. computer, turntable etc.), non-western (eg. sitar, djembe, etc.)
- You can audition on more than one instrument so long as it fits within your 10 minute audition time.

It is your responsibility to arrange your own accompaniment if you require it. You can use backing tracks on CD. Other formats may be accommodated but only by prior arrangement or you may be accompanied by a maximum of 2 other musicians. Unaccompanied performance is acceptable however if the piece(s) you are performing are not intended as solo works, accompaniment is desirable.

Overview

QUT offers four-year dual awards that qualify graduates for registration as secondary teachers in Queensland and for employment in education and related creative industries fields.

Bachelor of Music/Graduate Diploma in Education (Senior Years)

Working With Children Check

Working With Children Check - As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card. to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 12 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Career Opportunities

This course will enable you to become a qualified teacher. Graduates also work in live, recording and multimedia environments, as performers, producers, composers, developers of music software and games, DJs and music coaches. There are also pathways available for honours and professional or research postgraduate studies.

Course Design

This dual degree is structured to enable you to spend your first three years immersed in Music. Once completed, you will proceed seamlessly into 12 months of specialised teacher training.

You will sample life as an educator prior to commencing your graduate diploma with foundation units in education studies which include practical school-based experiences during your creative industries degree.

Professional Recognition

This course meets the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. It is recognised nationally and internationally, however additional requirements may be needed for some locations.

Pathways to further study

Students who pass KM32 Bachelor of Music with a GPA of 5.5 or higher may apply for entry to the Bachelor of Music (Honours).

Course Structure

To graduate with a Graduate Certificate in Journalism, students are required to successfully complete 48 credit points, as specified in the course structure below. Journalism is a specific field of study that requires strong practical capabilities, and students need to gain technical skills in this field. To achieve this, students who do not hold a bachelor degree will be offered a choice of undergraduate and postgraduate options that are specifically designed to build the technical skills required in Journalism.

Other Course Options

This course articulates into the Master of Journalism. All units in the Graduate Certificate may be counted towards a Master of Journalism.

Domestic Course structure

Course structure

All Masters students are required to undertake either Journalism Ethics and Issues or Creative Industries Legal Issues as an elective. Graduate Certificate students complete units such as Newswriting and Feature Writing.

International Course structure

Course structure

All Masters students are required to undertake either Journalism Ethics and Issues or Creative Industries Legal Issues as an elective. Graduate Certificate students complete units such as Newswriting and Feature Writing.

Overview

The Master of Architecture enables the development of advanced yet balanced understanding in architectural design and research, contextual studies, technology and science and studies for professional practice. It is the professional degree required, along with the requisite post-graduate work experience, for registration as an architect.

Professional Recognition

Graduates of the AR49 Master of Architecture meet the academic requirements for membership of the Australian Institute of Architects (AIA). Graduates who have also completed two years of practical architectural experience (at least one year postgraduate) will be eligible to undertake the Architectural Practice Examination which, if successful, will enable the graduate to be eligible for registration with any Board of Architects in Australia.

Journalism Overview

This program suits those who have worked or studied in fields outside journalism and who now seek journalism skills or wish to change career paths into journalism. Those who currently work in journalism will benefit from this course by gaining skills to enhance their craft in a new media environment.

You will gain practical skills in writing and journalistic inquiry within a conceptual framework that includes ethics and legal issues. The masters program provides opportunities to tailor your studies to include units in new production, broadcast journalism and specialist journalism topics.

Course Structure

All Masters students are required to undertake either Journalism Ethics and Issues or Creative Industries Legal Issues as a Unit Option.

Previously Studied Pathway

If your undergraduate degree is in journalism, you can apply for the Previously Studied Pathway. This option allows you to apply for advanced standing so it is possible to complete your Master of Journalism in just one year full-time.

Domestic Course structure

Course structure

All Masters students are required to undertake either Journalism Ethics and Issues or Creative Industries Legal Issues as an elective. Graduate Certificate students complete units such as Newswriting and Feature Writing.

International Course structure

Course structure

All Masters students are required to undertake either Journalism Ethics and Issues or Creative Industries Legal Issues as an elective. Graduate Certificate students complete units such as Newswriting and Feature Writing.

Important Notice

The Creative Partnerships Major is currently suspended from offer due to an internal restructuring of related units within the faculty. We anticipate admitting new students in 2013. Any enquiries can be forwarded to the postgraduate office at cifpg@qut.edu.au.

Course Structure

To graduate with a Master of Creative Industries (Creative Partnerships) students are required to successfully complete 144 credit points, as specified in the Study Area structure.

As a nested program, students who complete KK86 Graduate Certificate in Creative Industries (Creative Partnerships) or a cognate undergraduate degree will be awarded up to 48cp.

Working with Children Check

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students working with children must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card. immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 12 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Overview

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) offers the opportunity to work with an experienced supervisory research team to make a significant and original contribution to disciplinary knowledge. A PhD candidate's research must reveal high critical ability and powers of imagination and synthesis and may be, depending on discipline, demonstrated in the form of new knowledge or significant and original adaptation, application and interpretation of existing knowledge. This world-class program provides a basis for critical inquiry and welcomes collaborative and interdisciplinary research projects. A QUT PhD graduate will be equipped to seek employment in industry, research organisations and universities.

Entry Requirements

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy depends on an applicant's demonstrated research aptitude and the availability of supervision, infrastructure and resources needed for the proposed research project.

An applicant would normally hold:
. a relevant first or second class division A honours degree or equivalent, or
. an appropriate Masters degree or Professional Doctorate (by research or coursework)

Masters and Professional Doctorates degrees by coursework must contain a significant research component, normally no less than 25%.

Holders of Masters and Professional Doctoral by Coursework must:
• have a grade point average of at least 5.0 on a 7 point scale and
• present evidence of research experience and potential for approval
English language proficiency requires International applicants to meet an IELTS overall bandscore of 6.5 with no sub-score below 6.0.

International Student Entry

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy depends on an applicant's demonstrated research aptitude and the availability of supervision, infrastructure and resources needed for the proposed research project.

An applicant would normally hold:
. a relevant first or second class division A honours degree or equivalent, or
. an appropriate Masters degree or Professional Doctorate (by research or coursework)

Masters and Professional Doctorates degrees by coursework must contain a significant research component, normally no less than 25%.

Holders of Masters and Professional Doctoral by Coursework must:
• have a grade point average of at least 5.0 on a 7 point scale and
• present evidence of research experience and potential for approval
English language proficiency requires International applicants to meet an IELTS overall bandscore of 6.5 with no sub-score below 6.0.

FINANCIAL GUARANTEE
Acceptable forms of evidence include:
- A letter from an approved employer confirming the continuation of your salary; OR
- A signed Scholarship Agreement between QUT and your sponsoring agency; OR
- An accepted letter of offer from QUT for a postgraduate research scholarship; OR
- An approved external scholarship.

Location & duration

The expected duration of the Doctor of Philosophy is three to four years full-time, or six to eight years part-time. Full-time study is normally conducted on-campus at QUT. Part-time and external study options may be available depending on the project, infrastructure requirements and funding arrangements. Although QUT offers this flexibility, candidates must meet minimum attendance requirements and the university must be satisfied that adequate supervision and resources are available.

International student visas require on-campus study to be completed full-time.

Course Structure

QUT adopts a project management approach. PhD candidates work closely with their supervisory team to meet collegially reviewed milestones leading to timely submission of a thesis for examination. QUT is proud of its record of timely completions and low attrition rates realised by this approach.

During candidature the supervisor and other key stakeholders will provide advice and direction to the candidate to encourage their participation in university scholarly activities such as research seminars, teaching and publication. The length of the thesis varies according to the topic, but should normally be no longer than 100,000 words, excluding bibliography.

Course Structure

The program's supportive structure is designed for candidates to progressively accumulate new knowledge and critical tools that will enhance their practice via two year-long research projects, combined with coursework to support and frame the development of the projects.

To cater for candidates who seek to maintain a commitment to their industry responsibilities as well as to their research studies, the coursework is delivered through a series of short, intensive weekend modules and sustained online support. By also offering electice choices from a wide range of postgraduate units, the DCI gives candidates the opportunity to tailor their course to achieve individual professional goals.

The two projects require candidates to employ advanced research strategies and applied reflective approaches in focusing on an element of their industry practice. Through the DCI program candidates refine their professional practitioner expertise while aquiring doctoral research skills.

Career Outcomes

The Doctor of Creative Industries is designed for leaders and highly skilled practitioners engaged in artistic, design or professional practice (such as journalists and policy developers), creative enterprise and teaching across all fields of the Creative Industries.

Areas of Doctoral Study

• creative practice: including the discipline areas performing and visual arts, creative writing, animation;
• design practice: including the discipline areas architecture, industrial, interior, fashion and interaction design;
• communication: including the discipline areas journalism, media, film and television;
• innovation in professional practice in a range of government, corporate or business settings;

• creative enterprise practice;
• policy / cultural development and facilitation;
• pedagogical practice, predominantly in tertiary settings.

You are required to complete eight, 12 credit point units of study.

The course provides flexibility for students to complete their studies across a range of areas.

Two core units must be completed, EDP415 Engaging Diverse Learners and EDP416 The Professional Practice of Educators, along with an additional two units from any of the courses offered by the Faculty of Education, excluding Masters level units.

The remaining four units may be taken from a wide range of Faculty of Education units in other Faculty of Education courses including Bachelor of Education (Secondary)ED90, Bachelor of Education (Primary)ED91, Bachelor of Education (Early Childhood)ED92, Bachelor of Education (Preservice Early Childhood)ED93, and the Graduate Diploma in Education ED38 (but excluding the Primary pathway in the Graduate Diploma), OR from faculties other than the Faculty of Education.

Please note that units from the Master of Education cannot be studied in this course.

Students must follow the individual course rules concerning prerequisite study when selecting units from other courses and should note that practicum or field studies units may not be undertaken in the B Ed (Inservice) course.

Students undertaking the course to meet specific Queensland College of Teachers Registration requirements may not be able to undertake non-education units.

Many students use their studies in the Bachelor of Education (Inservice) as an opportunity to gain expertise in specific areas. Students returning to the classroom after a break will often update their knowledge by undertaking preservice curriculum studies units in the early childhood, primary or specific secondary subject areas. Alternatively students may choose a suite of units related to a specific area of interest such as culture and language studies, or mathematics, science and technology education studies.

DETA Early Childhood Cohort

You are required to complete eight, 12 credit point units of study. Two core units must be completed , EDB200 Insights into Early Childhood Development and EDP416 The Professional Practice of Educators, together with an additional six units from the Early Childhood Studies listed on the DETA Early Childhood Cohort course structure. This course will be completed in part time and external mode only.

Deferment

QUT's deferment policy does not apply to this course.

Course Progression

It is a student's responsibility to ensure they have met any specified pre-requisite and/or co-requisite requirements when they select their enrolment program.

Underloads

It is not expected that a student should underload – i.e undertake fewer credit points than the standard semester load. If, however, your circumstances require you to undertake fewer units than the standard load, it may lead to difficulties in undertaking units in a timely manner later in the course.

Overloads

It is not expected that a student should overload – i.e undertake more credit points than the standard semester load. If, however, your circumstances require you to overload you should be aware of the possible academic consequences of an increased study load.

Notes for selection of units

Internet (I-NET) The unit will be conducted through the QUT Blackboard site. Students will require access to suitable computer facilities.
Internal (INT) The unit is offered internally and students attend lectures during the semester.
Block (BLK) A block of lectures held in the January or June/July school holidays, normally 9.00-4.00pm. Assessment is finalised after completion of the block lectures.
External (EXT) The unit is offered externally.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

NOTE: NO FURTHER INTAKE (FOR CONTINUING STUDENTS ONLY)

The Bachelor of Education (Primary) (ED91) replaced the Bachelor of Education (Primary) (ED51) in 2003. THERE IS NO FURTHER INTAKE INTO THIS COURSE.

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Education (Primary) is recognised by the Queensland College of Teachers as meeting the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. Applicants for teacher registration in Queensland are subject to national criminal history checks.

LOTE Pathway

Students undertaking a LOTE pathway may be required to attend other campuses.
Students wishing to undertake studies in French, German, Indonesian or Japanese are required to select a specified sequence of six units (72 credit points). Students who have taken their LOTE to Year 12 or equivalent do not take the introductory units.

Research Pathway

Students with a Grade Point Average of 5.5 or above before the commencement of Year 3, may be invited to undertake the Research Pathway Option. This option is designed to meet the needs of students wishing to undertake research-based higher degree study in the course of their future career. The pathway is designed to develop research skills and a research-oriented, reflective approach to teaching.

Blue Card

You must hold a valid Blue Card that is registered with QUT to undertake activities in any units which involve contact with children. Students must have a 'Blue Card' prior to commencing professional studies / field studies blocks or may be withdrawn from the relevant unit and incur both academic and financial penalties. Application information is available on the Student Services website

Designated Units

Students who do not successfully complete the requirements of practicum units will have their progress in the course reviewed. Please refer to the unit outlines for more information and/or the Student Services website

Prerequisites

Completion of a Diploma of Children's Services (Early Childhood Education and Care) or Diploma or Advanced Diploma of Children's Services, or an equivalent accredited qualification.

You must also have the following early childhood experience:

- one year full-time (or equivalent) group leader experience; or
- two years full-time (or equivalent) family day care experience as an accredited provider; or
- two years full-time (or equivalent) early childhood teacher aide experience in a state preschool, prep or crèche and kindergarten association centre; or
- two years full-time (or equivalent) before and after school care experience.

Diploma holders need to provide evidence of this experience when they apply to QTAC to be eligible for entry.

Note: The majority of supervised professional experience must occur in Australian school settings.

Credit for prior learning (Advanced standing)

Students admitted to this course will be automatically granted advanced standing of one and half years of study (ie 144 credit points) for their completed Diploma of Children's Services (or an equivalent accredited qualification) and early childhood work experience.

Students admitted on the basis of an Advanced Diploma of Children's Services and who have not supplied QTAC with evidence of their early childhood experience will only be automatically granted advanced standing of one year of study (ie 96 credit points) and will be required to provide evidence of their early childhood experience to QUT prior to graduation.

NOTE: NO FURTHER INTAKE

THERE IS NO FURTHER INTAKE INTO THIS COURSE

Professional Recognition

Graduates of the Bachelor of Adult Education and Training course will be eligible for membership with the Australian Institute of Management (AIM).

Computing Requirement

The increased and more creative use of QUT Blackboard online teaching technology in this degree requires students to have access to suitable computer facilities with a minimum equivalent of a Pentium 3 processor, 56k modem and Internet access.

Professional Projects and Experience Requirement

Students will be required to undertake professional projects and experience in a negotiated workplace or community placement site. Potential foci for professional projects may include teaching and training; leadership and management; curriculum development and instructional design (including e-learning); policy work; consultancy; Indigenous education; research and community partnership development.

Course Structure

The Bachelor of Adult Education and Training is a four-year undergraduate degree program. On entry students are granted 192 credit points or two years credit as recognition of prior knowledge, experience and skills. The remaining two years full-time or four years part-time focuses on adult and community learning. The development of a professional portfolio throughout the degree enables students to individualise their own program to suit their professional development needs.

Deferment

QUT's deferment policy does not apply to this course.

Blue Card

If you will be working with children or young people (under 18 years of age) during your professional experience units (EDB101, EDB102, EDB103, EDB104) you must obtain a Blue Card BEFORE you begin your placement. A Blue Card confirms that you have passed a screening of your criminal history (the 'Working with Children Check') and have been approved to work with children and young people under 18 years of age. You must either submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre or, if you already hold a valid Blue Card, submit an authorisation form to the Student Centre so that you may be registered with the Commission as a QUT student. If you do not hold a valid card at the commencement of your professional experience or have not applied for a renewal within the required time frame you will not be able to undertake your professional experience and will need to be withdrawn from the units(s). This may incur both financial and academic penalty depending on the date the application was submitted. The application form is available at http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards/. Blue card applications and renewals can take up to 16 weeks to process.

Domestic student tuition fee (Dfee) places

Undergraduate domestic full fee places (Dfee) are not available in this course. Tuition fees are only applicable to currently enrolled students who were unable to comply regulations regarding their original Commonwealth Supported place (i.e. failure to lodge an eCAF, has consumed of other their Student Learning Entitlement etc.) and who have been invited and accepted to continue as a fee-paying student.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Education (Secondary) is recognised by the Queensland College of Teachers as meeting the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. Applicants for teacher registration in Queensland are subject to national criminal history checks. Graduates looking for employment in other parts of Australia and overseas may be required to meet additional conditions.

Please note that the majority of supervised professional experience must occur in Australian Secondary school settings.

Working With Children Check

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.
Field Studies Units will be taken in Queensland schools and settings.

Teaching Area Combinations

Students will select their two teaching areas from the lists (one from Group X and one from Group Y) shown under the Course Structures heading below.

Research Pathway Option

At the end of Year 2, certain students will be invited to undertake the Research Pathway Option. This option is designed to meet the needs of students wishing to undertake research-based higher degree study in the course of their future career. The pathway is designed to develop research skills and a research-oriented, reflective approach to teaching.

Early Exit Option

Students who are unable to complete ED90 can exit with ED45 Bachelor of General Studies (288cps) on meeting specific criteria.

There is no direct entry to the Bachelor of General Studies and this course does not provide eligibility for Teacher Registration. Students wishing to exit from ED90 with ED45 should contact the Course Administration Officer on 3138 3948.

Designated Units

Students who do not successfully complete the requirements of practicum units will have their progress in the course reviewed. Please refer to the unit outlines for more information and/or the Student Services website

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

You will develop discipline subject knowledge (content) related to your two teaching areas to prepare you for your field studies and curriculum studies units in the second year of your course. You will also be introduced to the world of teaching through two introductory education units.

Year 2

You will be immersed in how students develop and learn and introduced to the curriculum for your two teaching areas, as well as continuing your discipline subject knowledge. You will undertake your first four-week supervised field experience in a school.

Year 3

You will undertake your final discipline subject knowledge units and further develop your knowledge of curriculum and your ability to design teaching and learning experiences which you will be able to implement in your second four-week supervised school-based field experience.

Year 4

You will further hone your curriculum knowledge and teaching skills to be able to develop programs for a diverse range of students. You will undertake your final two supervised field experiences in a school setting comprising a total of eight weeks and a four-week internship.

Teaching areas

Successful applicants receive an offer in one of three streams: general, home economics or physical education. A good background in your selected teaching areas at Year 12 level (or equivalent) is strongly recommended particularly for language studies.

You will select your two teaching areas, one from group X and one from group Y.

A research option is available to high-achieving students.

Mathematics cannot be taken with Mathematics (Intermediate).

Science studies from group X cannot be taken with biology, chemistry, earth science or physics from group Y.

Physical Education (group X) and Health Education (group Y) is not a recommended teaching area combination. Physical Education students should select a second teaching area that will broaden their career opportunities.

Group X

- Accounting/Business Management
- Business Communication and Technologies
- English
- Home Economics (only available to students via the QTAC entry point)
- Mathematics
- Mathematics (Intermediate)
- Physical Education (only available to students via the QTAC entry

Students undertaking a LOTE major will be required to attend other campuses and may be required to take language units at Griffith University or University of Queensland. Students wishing to undertake studies in French, German, Indonesian, Japanese or Mandarin are required to select a specified sequence of six units (72 credit points) in language level 1-6 or 3-8. Students who have taken their LOTE to Year 12 or equivalent do not take the introductory units. Graduates with this major will be eligible to seek employment as a LOTE specialist teacher within Education Queensland, Catholic and Independent School sectors. The LOTE major is available to students at Kelvin Grove campus only.

Health and Physical Education Major

Students who commenced in 2009 and after will have the option of undertaking a Health and Physical Education major within the course. Students complete six health and physical education units, and undertake two field experience blocks in a health and physical education setting. Graduates completing this study area will be eligible to seek employment as a Primary Physical Education specialist teacher within Education Queensland, Catholic Education and Independent school sectors. This major is available at Kelvin Grove campus only. Entry criteria and quotas apply.

Research Minor Option

At the end of Year 2, certain students will be invited to undertake the Research minor option. This option is designed to meet the needs of students wishing to undertake research-based higher degree study in the course of their future career. The pathway is designed to develop research skills and a research-oriented, reflective approach to teaching.

Early Exit Option

Students who are unable to complete ED91 can exit with ED45 Bachelor of General Studies (288cps) on meeting specific criteria.

There is no direct entry to the Bachelor of General Studies and this course does not provide eligibility for Teacher Registration. Students wishing to exit from ED91 with ED45 should contact the Course Administration Officer on 3138 3212.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

You will be involved in a foundation year that provides a global overview of learning and teaching. You will commence studies in curriculum and key learning areas in classroom practice as a foundation for the following years.

Year 2

You will focus on the primary years and undertake curriculum, and teaching and learning studies that explore human development, from personal and interpersonal perspectives, and prepare you for your first four-week supervised field experience in a school.

Year 3

You will further develop your knowledge of primary curriculum and explore issues in practising education, with sensitivity to sociocultural contexts. You will continue option studies and undertake your second four-week supervised school-based field experience.

Year 4
You will engage with specific aspects of learning, teaching, schools, policy and practices with almost half of your program involving you in classroom experiences including eight weeks of classroom practice and a final four-week internship that prepares you for your transition into the profession.

Majors and minors
The Bachelor of Education (Primary) offers you the opportunity to specialise in one major or one minor.

Majors
Optional majors include:
- Languages Other Than English (LOTE)
- Health and Physical Education (HPE).

Graduates with a major may seek employment as specialist LOTE or HPE teachers.

LOTE major
QUT, The University of Queensland and Griffith University have formed an Australian-first alliance to expand higher learning in a range of Asian and European languages. Currently, LOTE is available in French, German, Indonesian, Japanese or Mandarin. LOTE units in Mandarin are undertaken at QUT's Gardens Point campus. The other languages are undertaken at the other universities. The LOTE major is available only to students with Kelvin Grove as the home campus.

HPE major
Students graduating with the HPE major will be eligible for membership of the Australian Council of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Students apply for the HPE major after their first year of study. Entry criteria and quotas for this major will apply.

This major is available only at Kelvin Grove campus.

Minors
If you do not select a major, then one minor, consisting of four units, may be selected instead.

The minors include:
- Engaging Learners
- English as a Second Language (ESL)
- Health and Physical Activity
- Indigenous Education
- Literature and Media Studies
- Literacy
- Numeracy and Mathematics
- Research (for high-achieving students)
- Studies in Inclusive Education.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Education (Early Childhood) is recognised by the Queensland College of Teachers as meeting the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. Graduates looking for employment in other parts of Australia and overseas may be required to meet additional conditions.

The Bachelor of Education (Early Childhood) is an approved child care qualification with the Queensland Government Department of Education, Training and Employment (Office for Early Childhood Education and Care), and is accredited by the New South Wales Department of Community Services for employment in children's services.

Literacy Standards

All students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' literacy standards by the end of year 3 of their course in order to meet course and QCT professional accreditation requirements. Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Literacy modules can be accessed through Blackboard. Select the Community tab, then enter 'literacy modules' in the community search.

Research option

At the end of Year 2, you may be invited to undertake the Research Option which is designed to meet the needs of students wishing to undertake research-based higher degree study in the course of their future career.

Working With Children Check

Working With Children Check - As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card. to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card. immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at http://www.student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Field Studies Units will be taken in Queensland schools and settings.

Early Exit Option

Students who have successfully completed three of the four years (288cps) of ED92 after following the standard course progression and who are unable to complete the final year of ED92, can exit the course with ED82 Bachelor of Early Childhood Studies.

Students wishing to take up this option should contact the Course Administration Officer on 3138 3212.

Designated Units

Students who do not successfully complete the requirements of practicum units will have their progress in the course reviewed. Please refer to the unit outlines for more information and/or the Student Services website

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

You will focus on yourself as a commencing early childhood educator with foundation studies and exploration of essential professional characteristics. You will be introduced to early childhood curriculum areas related to literacy, ICTs and the arts and will also engage in work-integrated learning in the form of community activities.

Year 2

You will focus on field experiences and curriculum studies in the creation of supportive learning environments for children. You will also undertake professional studies units which will focus on theory and practice relevant to early childhood settings, and consider the social and cultural implications of how education is constructed and organised.

Year 3

You will focus on field experiences, further curriculum and professional studies contextualised in practical settings for children. You will build on your knowledge to understand and value inclusive educational practices for working with diverse cohorts of young children, including those with special needs. You will complete two of the four option units which can be undertaken in a diverse range of areas.

Year 4

Your final year of study moves towards integrating the understandings you have developed with your professional practice by focusing on work-integrated learning, ethics and professionalism, and identity as a beginning practitioner. You will undertake your final two option units and your expertise in early childhood will converge to prepare you for your final field experience and internship.

Complementary options

You will have the opportunity to select complementary options (four units) in one or more of the following areas:

- Exploring the Sciences and Environment
- Health and Physical Activity
- Integrated Arts Curriculum
- Intercultural and International Teacher
- Literature and Media Studies
- Managing Learners and Learning
- Mathematics and ICT
- Middle Years of Schooling
- Music
- Research (for high-achieving students)
- Studies in Inclusive Education
- Studies in Indigenous Education
- Visual and Performing Arts .

The complementary options are subject to availability.

Domestic Entry requirements

Prerequisites

Completion of a Diploma of Children's Services (Early Childhood Education and Care) or Diploma or Advanced Diploma of Children's Services, or an equivalent accredited qualification.

You must also have the following early childhood experience:

- one year full-time (or equivalent) group leader experience; or
- two years full-time (or equivalent) family day care experience as an accredited provider; or
- two years full-time (or equivalent) early childhood teacher aide experience in a state preschool, prep or crèche and kindergarten association centre; or
- two years full-time (or equivalent) before and after school care experience.

Diploma holders need to provide evidence of this experience when they apply to QTAC to be eligible for entry.

Note: The majority of supervised professional experience must occur in Australian school settings.

Credit for prior learning (Advanced standing)

Students admitted to this course will be automatically granted credit of one and half years of study (ie 144 credit points) for their completed Diploma of Children's Services (or an equivalent accredited qualification) and early childhood work experience.

Students admitted on the basis of an Advanced Diploma of Children's Services and who have not supplied QTAC with evidence of their early childhood experience will only be automatically granted credit of one year of study (ie 96 credit points) and will be required to provide evidence of their early childhood experience to QUT prior to graduation.

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Course Outline

The Bachelor of Social Science allows you to develop a range of social science skills which will equip you to address social issues and problems.
You will complete 24 units of study in this course.

* You are REQUIRED to complete:

- One social science major (7 units) from Sociology
Politics and History
Geography and Environment
Indigenous Perspectives and Issues
Human Services and Social Policy and

- Social science skills units (6 units).

* The remaining 11 units of study will consist of your choices from the following options:

- An additional social science major (7 units)

- A social science minor (4 units) from Gender and Sexuality
Peace and Conflict Resolution

- A foreign language (4-6 units) from French, German, Indonesian, Japanese, Mandarin

- A co-major, an approved university minor, or individual electives in another QUT course (up to 11 units)

Sociology Major

Sociology is an attempt to grapple with the issues and problems of a world experiencing change. You will study what makes us social beings and why both cooperation and conflict are recurring features of our social relationships. You will gain an understanding of the fundamental institutions of family, school, work and culture, and will be equipped to think intelligently and critically about them. You will acquire the skills of social analysis and policy development which are essential for a wide variety of professional employment.

Geography and Environment Major

Geography explains how and why natural environments, land use, settlement, economic activity, population and cultures vary from place to place, and how these elements interact to create distinctive and dynamic regional landscapes. The practical approach provides you with a sound basis, as a professional, for analysing human-environment linkages; population, social and cultural change; land use; settlement; and sustainable development.

Politics and History Major

The combination of politics and history provides a focus on the application of power in the contemporary world and also an understanding of how and why we have arrived at the social and political structures and processes that exist today. As a graduate with a politics and history background you will be equipped to enter occupations that require development and analysis of policy and administrative programs in both the public and private sectors.

Indigenous Perspectives and Issues Major

Indigenous perspectives and issues are central to the contemporary social sciences and to the creation of graduates who are skilled in the complexities of cross-cultural understanding and the acquisition of cross-cultural sensitivity. You will gain insights into Australian Indigenous perspectives and issues from the disciplines of humanities and human services, creative industries, education and justice studies. You will also develop skills associated with research ethics and protocols as they relate to Indigenous cultures and communities.

Human Services and Social Policy Major

Understanding our complex society and identifying emerging social issues and trends are key roles for human service and social policy practitioners. Community service agencies and for-profit industries seek out graduates with vocational skills that enable them to stay abreast of rapid social change and emerging trends. As a social science graduate you will be equipped to review, develop and administer social programs.

Gender and Sexuality Minor

Issues of difference and identity as they relate to the constitution of gender and sexuality are significant elements within social science investigations. This minor draws on relevant units from discipline areas such as humanities and human services, psychology, public health, justice studies and creative industries to enable you to analyse and challenge inherent presumptions about gendered/sexed bodies, as well as address the possibilities for alternative identity politics.

Peace and Conflict Resolution Minor

You will engage with important issues of contemporary global change and the way these may impact on diverse communities and individuals, conflicts that arise out of these situations, and approaches to resolving such conflicts. The units provide you with opportunities to pursue in-depth studies of human rights issues, identity issues and conflicts, and crisis intervention and resolution.

Minors

All the social science majors can also be taken as four-unit minors.
Note also that all QUT faculties offer agreed sets of units as 'university minors'.

Course discontinued

The Bachelor of Social Science is not available for commencing students.

NO FURTHER INTAKE INTO THIS COURSE

This course has been replaced by a newly coded IX21 Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Education (Secondary) with effect from 2008.

Career Outcomes

During the Arts component you will specialise in two teaching areas relevant to the secondary school curriculum. The Education component prepares you to teach both areas across years 8 to 12.

Professional Recognition

Graduates are eligible for registration as teachers in Queensland through the Queensland College of Teachers. Graduates looking for employment in other parts of Australia and overseas may be required to meet additional conditions.

Working With Children Check

Working With Children Check - As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card. immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Literacy Standards

All students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' literacy standards by the end of year 3 of their course in order to meet course and QCT professional accreditation requirements. Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator.

Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program. At the end of year 3, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four year degree.

Literacy modules can be accessed through Blackboard. Select the Community tab, then enter 'literacy modules' in the community search.

Course discontinued

This course has been discontinued and is open to continuing students only.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- Maths B
- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (English (4, SA) and Maths B (4, SA)). Recommended study: At least one of the sciences. For biochemistry, biotechnology and microbiology majors - Biology and Chemistry; for physics major - Maths C.

IMPORTANT NOTE

This course is currently under review for future offerings (2013 onwards).

Enrolling

It is imperative that you enrol in both semester 1 and semester 2 units at the start of each year.

Course Overview

This double degree enables you to work as a science professional or pursue a career in scientific research. Alternatively, the Bachelor of Education (Secondary) prepares you to teach in two curriculum areas in secondary school. The science majors that are most relevant if you are intending to follow a career in secondary school teaching are chemistry, ecology, geoscience, mathematics or physics.

Professional Recognition

This course meets the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. It is recognised nationally and internationally, however additional requirements may be needed for some locations.

Graduates will also satisfy the requirements for membership of the relevant professional body for their chosen science major. See Studyfinder for details on the Bachelor of Applied Science majors.

Other Course Requirements

Blue Card

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.
You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks, which commence in late January Year 2.
The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Literacy

Students must meet the Queensland College of Teachers' literacy standards by the end of Year 3. For more information please visit AskQUT and enter 'Literacy Modules' in the FAQ.

Course Design

See the Bachelor of Applied Science course information for details of major areas of study. To allow you to complete the double degree in a shorter period of time, co-majors are to be taken from the education technology program.

Overview

This course has been replaced by IX18 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement

Bachelor of Applied Science (in Human Movement Studies)/ Bachelor of Education (Secondary)

Science/ Bachelor of Education (Secondary) from first semester 2010.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in IX04 Bachelor of Applied Science (Human Movement Studies)/Bachelor of Education (Secondary).

This double degree provides the skills for careers in a range of exercise and sports science settings and also the training to teach in two curriculum areas.

Professional Recognition

Graduates are eligible for registration as a teacher in Queensland.

Other Course Requirements

Bluecard

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Additional costs

There are additional costs associated with this course including the purchase of the practicum shirt (approximately $50), the attainment of a current First Aid Certificate prior to the commencement of third year. Attendance at the orientation camp is highly recommended though not compulsory (approximately $115).

Computing requirement

The increased and more creative use of online teaching technology in this degree requires that you have access to suitable computer facilities with a minimum equivalent of a Pentium 3 processor, 56k modem and internet access.

Literacy

Students must meet the Queensland College of Teachers' literacy standards by the end of Year 3. For more information please visit AskQUT and enter 'Literacy Modules' in the FAQ.

IMPORTANT NOTE

This course is currently under review for future offerings (2013 onwards).

Course Overview

This double degree enables you to work as a science professional or pursue a career in scientific research. Alternatively, the Bachelor of Education (Primary) will prepare you to teach at all levels of primary school. You may also complete a discipline and content studies major in one of the key learning areas of the Queensland school curriculum.

Professional Recognition

This course meets the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. It is recognised nationally and internationally, however additional requirements may be needed for some locations.

Graduates will also satisfy the requirements for membership of the relevant professional body for their chosen science major. See Studyfinder for details on the Bachelor of Applied Science majors.

Literacy Standards

All students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' literacy standards by the end of year 3 of their course in order to meet course and QCT professional accreditation requirements. The application form is available at http://www.student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Field studies units will be taken in Queensland schools.

Course Design

Graduates from this double degree will have a science degree with the same core support and choice of major study areas as the graduates from the Bachelor of Applied Science (SC01) program. Education studies will comprise the co-major component. Field Studies units will be taken in Queensland schools.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Dance at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and submit a Dance Registration Form to the Creative Industries Faculty. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Dance at QUT Creative Industries?

- Registration for the 2012 intake will close by the extended closing date of 23 September, 2011. To register for an audition, you must submit a Dance Registration Form.
- You must also apply to QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must submit the following and attend an audition:

- Academic record
- Personal statement Personal statement form is included in the Application Guide
- Photograph A current passport sized photograph ANDA full body shot, facing front in parallel, in leotard / swim suit (no board shorts)
- Physiotherapist's Report. A specialist dance or sports physiotherapist needs to assess various physical elements such as your flexibility range and history of injuries.Physiotherapist report form is provided in the Application Guide

What does the audition consist of?

There are two rounds on your day of audition. All applicants will complete round one. Those applicants successful in moving onto round two will be posted on the notice board during the lunch break.

Round One:

- a ballet class (no pointe work)
- a contemporary dance class
- a jazz class (for course code 429162 only)
- a course talk given by the Head of Dance
- a written interpretative exercise

The written exercise requires no preparation. It is a half hour session that looks at the applicant's interpretative skills and writing skills - e.g. spelling, punctuation, grammar - in response to an image presented on the day.

Round Two:

- a one minute solo in a dance genre of the applicant's choice
- This solo is an opportunity for you to dance in a genre of your own choice that you may feel better demonstrates your performance abilities - e.g. hip hop, adagio, Irish, tap. The solo is one minute long and music (if used) should be on CD. The solo may be choreographed by the applicant or someone else - e.g. teacher, guest choreographer
- a more advanced ballet and contemporary class, which includes pointe work (for course code 421822 only)
- A short impromptu talk from the auditionee on a topic given on the day (for course code 429162 1st preference only.)

What should I wear to my audition?

Ballet class:

- women: pink tights, light coloured leotard and ballet shoes. If you do not own ballet shoes, please bring cotton socks. If you do not own tights and leotard, please wear bike pants and tight, light coloured, fitting t-shirt.
- men: tights and a light-coloured singlet or t-shirt and ballet shoes. If you do not own ballet shoes, please bring cotton socks. If you do not own tights, please wear bike pants and jock strap.

Contemporary class:

- Same as above, but able to work in bare feet when required in this genre.

Solo:

- no costumes or props please. Tights and leotard only.

What do I need to bring on the day?'

Please bring your dance gear and water bottle. If you bring lunch it can be stored in the fridge in the dance corridor. There are no cafes open on campus on weekends.

I have no formal training in classical / contemporary ballet. Can I still audition?

You are assessed on potential, but formal training would benefit applicants. The selection panel looks at you for your movement potential, alignment, sense of musicality, and your degree of confidence. Studying a different technique (e.g. jazz, tap, contemporary) will also help you develop these skills.

What do I have to do in the solo presentation?

The solo presentation is one minute (maximum), which can be improvised or choreographed by yourself or another person, in a style of your choice (e.g. Tap, Irish Dance). The selection panel looks for confidence, appropriate quality and performance integrity.

How do I apply?

There are two steps to an application for Dance at QUT:

1. You must register for an audition by submitting a Dance Registration Form to the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 23 September 2011. This should also include a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment of the $33 service charge. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee
2. You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is the 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

Domestic Entry requirements 2012 registrations have closed.

Registration for 2012 intake was due on the 23 September 2011 and have now closed. If had not registered and you are considering applying to study in 2013 we recommend you read the following information as a guide only as it details requirements for entry in 2012 and these may change prior to the 2013 intake.

Thank you for your interest in Visual Arts at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Visual Arts at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register through the Online Registration Form with the Creative Industries Faculty by the extended closing date of 14 October 2011.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information.

What are the additional entry requirements?

You must supply the following:

Academic record - A copy of your most recent report (it does not have to be your final end-of-year grades).

Portfolio - Maximum of 20 pages of images that best demonstrate your current art achievements, working processes, commitment and potential. Consider the "Qualities" we look for (listed below) when compiling your portfolio. It may contain photographs, slides, photocopies of sketches and journal pages (showing your planning and preparation for a project), printed digital images and/or short video excerpts (no more than 2 minutes each). For a paper-based portfolio, keep pages to a maximum of A4 size and do not include large folders. If you are including CD/DVD/uploaded images, the preferred format is either as a 'PowerPoint' or .jpg files. We prefer video that can be opened in 'QuickTime' and only samples of work are required. To ensure we will be able to open and view any digital media files, keep the file size to a minimum (i.e. under 5MB) PLEASE NOTE: We do NOT return portfolios, so do NOT include any original copies of your work or documentation.

Responses to a series of questions about your interest in visual art. These are essential. To lodge your responses, return to this site in early July to register online. Your responses to these questions are important - please answer them as specifically, carefully and informatively as possible.

- Are you planning to graduate as a studio artist, art teacher or other art industry professional? Please outline your career goals.
- What are you expecting to learn in a course of study in Visual Arts at QUT?
- Describe briefly which exhibitions and galleries you have visited in the past 12 months, and the art-related books/articles/reviews you have read, etc).
- Briefly list any group exhibitions, solo exhibitions, commissions and awards you have been included in, plus membership of art associations etc.
- What do you think is art's role in the twenty-first century? Outline briefly.

Service charge of $33 (GST inclusive) - This is to cover the costs of administration and insurance in processing applications, and is non-refundable. The service charge can be paid by credit card online with QUTPay. PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee.

Passport style photograph

How do I apply?

To apply for this course, you must:

- Complete the Online Registration Form and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment for the $33 service charge; your portfolio (unless uploaded online);
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the 15 December 2011 offer round.

What qualities are QUT Creative Industries looking for?

- Overall, we seek indications of your ability to think creatively, to be open to new ideas and challenges, and of your potential to succeed in the course.
- We look for evidence of versatility, skill, enterprise, inventiveness and knowledge of contemporary art and culture/s. We are also looking for candidates who bring a wide range of interests and enthusiasms to their study area (e.g. film, literature, music, digital culture, etc.).
- We look at your artistic achievement - the level of investigation and familiarity with particular media, the degree of sophistication and sensitivity in handling media, evidence of industry, hard work, sustained practice and familiarity with visual media.
- We look for the degree of exploration of ideas and evidence of the development of ideas. Some carefully selected key documentation of preliminary plans, working sketches, journals and work in progress help us in this regard.
- We also look for evidence of artwork that is totally self-initiated (i.e. not necessarily part of a set study program) and an indication that you are determined to pursue art interests in a range of circumstances.

When and where are the interviews?

Shortlisted applicants will be contacted, and interviewed, during November. If you are called, you are not required to bring anything with you to this interview, but you should be prepared to respond to questions about your artwork and your future goals. Interviews are designed to further assess your suitability for the style of Visual Arts course that we offer and will also present an opportunity for you to ask any questions you may have about the course. Interviews will occur at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus.

Thank you for your interest in Music at the QUT Creative Industries Faculty. To be considered for a place you must both apply through QTAC and register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty through our Online Registration Form. Please read through the following information carefully to ensure you are prepared to apply at that time.

What is the closing date for additional entry registration with Music at QUT Creative Industries?

- You must register directly with the Creative Industries Faculty by the 2 September 2011 through the Online Registration Form.
- You must also apply through QTAC, where the due date for on-time applications is 30 September. See the QTAC website for more information

What are the additional entry requirements and what qualities are you looking for?

- Academic record
- Photo. A current passport sized photo (for identification purposes only)
- Interview. During the interview you may be asked about: Your past experiences in music and sound activitiesWhat sort of music you enjoy playing and listening toYour ambitions during your studies and beyondHow studying music at QUT will help you achieve your musical goals
- Audition: performance on instrument and/or Portfolio of music / sound works (if applicable)

1. The Interview

Qualities looked for in the Interview:

- a strong track record in relevant music and sound activities
- a strong potential for continued growth in your music and sound understanding and practice
- knowledge of QUT Creative Industries music courses and how this relates to your own personal goals

You are encouraged to bring to your interview evidence of any musical qualifications or any other information which will assist in gauging your musicianship level (e.g. copies of AMEB theory examination results, printed reviews of performances etc).

2. The Audition

Audition requirements (all applicants)

Present two items at the audition that you believe will persuade the panel of your suitability for QUT Music and Sound (it will be of benefit if at least one is your own song, improvisation or composition). The items may comprise the following:

- performances of two contrasting pieces of music of your own choice for the panel
  or
- performances of one piece of music and present one recorded piece (portfolio) for the panel to listen to at the audition,
  or
- presentation of two recorded pieces (portfolio) for the panel to listen to at the audition.

Total duration: no more than 10 minutes. You may be asked to stop playing/presenting before finishing a piece - in the event that this occurs, you should not assume that this has adverse implications on the assessment of your presentation.

Live Performance

You will need to demonstrate technical fluency/competency on your instrument and a well-developed sense of musicality and engagement.

- You can perform on any instrument - orchestral, acoustic, amplified, electronic (eg. computer, turntable etc.), non-western (eg. sitar, djembe, etc.)
- You can audition on more than one instrument so long as it fits within your 10 minute audition time.

It is your responsibility to arrange your own accompaniment if you require it. You can use backing tracks on CD. Other formats may be accommodated but only by prior arrangement or you may be accompanied by a maximum of 2 other musicians. Unaccompanied performance is acceptable however if the piece(s) you are performing are not intended as solo works, accompaniment is desirable.

Qualities looked for in the Live Performance Audition:

- Creativity and originality of approach
- Technically and creatively appropriate skills in presentation.
- Clear articulation of musical approach
- General sense of musicality and musical engagement
- Diversity of material presented.

Recorded Pieces

This should consist of music/sound works that you have created or have been partly involved in creating. Suitable items include (but are not limited to) written and/or performed compositions for acoustic instruments, music realised using computer software, pop songs, soundscapes, music you have recorded/engineered/produced etc. You will be expected to advise the panel of your precise role in the recorded pieces.

- Bring a portfolio of music/sound works that you have created. Suitable items include (but are not limited to); written and/or performed compositions for acoustic instruments, music realised using computer software, pop songs, soundscapes, music you have recorded/engineered/produced etc.
- You should include one or two contrasting pieces (only one if you are also choosing to perform a live piece) - total duration for all pieces 10 minutes maximum
- Acceptable formats are: Audio CD (must be able to be played in a standard CD player)CD-ROM (must be compatible with Macintosh and PC)DVD (must be able to be played in a standard DVD player)USB Stick
- Printed scores (if relevant and only in conjunction with an audio recording or performance of the piece),
- Please ensure you test your CDs, CD-ROMs or DVDs on multiple systems before submitting them. Failure of your media to play in the specified equipment may adversely affect your folio result.
- Your folio must be accompanied by written notes (maximum 200 words) that explain your precise role in each of the items (i.e. what your role/s were in the creation of the piece, how you created the piece, your artistic aims in creating the piece)
- All portfolio items should be marked with your name and contact details. Please note that portfolios are not returned.

Qualities looked for in Recorded Pieces:

- Creativity and originality of approach
- Technically and creatively appropriate skills in presentation.
- Clear articulation of musical approach
- General sense of musicality and musical engagement
- Diversity of material presented.

How do I apply?

- Complete the Online Registration Form and print the confirmation pages;
- Post or deliver the confirmation pages with a passport-style photograph attached; a copy of your academic record; a copy of the QUTpay confirmation page from your online credit card payment of the $33 service fee (PLEASE NOTE: Q-Step and ATSI applicants are exempt from the service fee);
- Attend an audition; and
- Apply for this course through QTAC. Please see the QTAC website for more information.

When and where are the auditions and interviews being held?

- All auditions and interviews will be held in Brisbane at the QUT Kelvin Grove campus between 26 - 29 September 2011.
- Your interview and audition will be scheduled when you lodge your online application. Please note that the time and date of your audition cannot be changed except in exceptional circumstances.

What if I am unable to attend an audition/interview?

- If you are unable to attend an interview/audition you may apply by submitting the following along with your academic record, photo, portfolio and payment by 2 September 2011:
- a written statement (total 2 pages maximum) that addresses the following 4 points: Your past experiences in music and sound activitiesWhat sort of music you enjoy playing and listening toYour ambitions during your studies and beyondHow studying Music and Sound at QUT will help you achieve your musical goals

Photocopy evidence of any musical achievements or any other information which will assist in gauging your musicianship level (e.g. copies of AMEB theory examination results, printed reviews of performances, commercial CDs etc.)

- A continuous and unedited video recording of you performing your audition piece(s) or a CD of your production pieces (or both). Refer to audition requirements for recorded and live performance.

Video must be submitted on CDR or DVD-R and must include a declaration of authenticity, details of date and place of performance and details of the role of applicant if the performance involves other participants. Refer to audition requirements for recorded and live performance. Please note that videos are not returned.

- You may be required for a phone interview to clarify any points in your written statement

Can I audition on more than one instrument?

Yes but only within the duration of your 10-minute audition.

Please Note: Registering with QUT for assessment of your portfolio is separate and in addition to listing the course as a preference with QTAC. To successfully apply for entry into this course, you are required to do both. The portfolio assessment is managed by QUT Creative Industries; however, all offers for the course will be made through QTAC in the early round in 15 December 2011 offer round.

Overview

QUT offers four-year dual awards that qualify graduates for registration as secondary teachers in Queensland and for employment in education and related creative industries fields.

Bachelor of Music/Graduate Diploma in Education (Senior Years)

Working With Children Check

Working With Children Check - As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card. to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 12 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Career Opportunities

This course will enable you to become a qualified teacher. Graduates also work in live, recording and multimedia environments, as performers, producers, composers, developers of music software and games, DJs and music coaches. There are also pathways available for honours and professional or research postgraduate studies.

Course Design

This dual degree is structured to enable you to spend your first three years immersed in Music. Once completed, you will proceed seamlessly into 12 months of specialised teacher training.

You will sample life as an educator prior to commencing your graduate diploma with foundation units in education studies which include practical school-based experiences during your creative industries degree.

Professional Recognition

This course meets the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. It is recognised nationally and internationally, however additional requirements may be needed for some locations.

Pathways to further study

Students who pass KM32 Bachelor of Music with a GPA of 5.5 or higher may apply for entry to the Bachelor of Music (Honours).

Course Overview

In the Graduate Certificate in Education you will acquire knowledge and understanding of specific issues in education, develop the skills necessary to identify and evaluate these issues, provide leadership within an educational setting and acquire abilities to manage the problems identified.

These programs will suit teachers, educators and graduates with relevant employment experience who are seeking to make a career change within education or enhance their existing education career.

The Graduate Certificate in Education does not lead to teacher registration.

The course consists of four units (48 credit points) of study selected from the postgraduate units listed in the course. The Graduate Certificate in Education provides a two-semester part-time or one-semester full-time (subject to unit availability) postgraduate course in a range of study areas. (The generic Graduate Certificate only can be completed in one semester).

A generic Graduate Certificate in Education comprises any four units of study drawn from any of the study areas listed below. You have up to two (2) years to complete the course.

Entry Requirements and How to Apply

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS:
Applicants for the Graduate Certificate in Education must hold:
- An appropriate four-year Bachelor degree or equivalent at a standard acceptable to the Executive Dean
OR
- A three-year Bachelor degree or equivalent at a standard acceptable to the Executive Dean PLUS at least one year of appropriate professional or industrial experience.

In you intend to apply for the TESOL study area, you must have a teaching background (at least one year of appropriate professional experience). If you do not have a teaching background, you can apply to take the TEFL study area instead.

International students studying in Australia on a Student Visa may only enrol in full-time internal programs offered on-campus. Please see 'Study Areas for International Students' for the full list of study areas available.

International applicants must have the appropriate English language proficiency level to study their proposed course before they are admitted into QUT. There are two formal tests of English proficiency which QUT will accept: IELTS and TOEFL.

- IELTS: overall band score of 6.5 with no sub-band below 6.0; or
- TOEFL (iBT): overall score of 90 with no sub-score below 20 (if TOEFL permitted by visa requirements).

You may be exempt from taking a formal test if your secondary or post-secondary studies were conducted entirely in English and you have passed an English language or one or more communication subjects.

HOW TO APPLY:
Domestic applicants apply directly to QUT Student Services on a 'PG form'. International applicants complete an 'F form'. These can be accessed from studentservices.qut.com under 'Postgraduate admissions'; at QUT Student Centre counters; or by telephoning 07 3138 2000.

Application forms must be accompanied by supporting documents such as original or certified transcripts and parchments from previous studies; and if applicable, a signed letter from your employer on official letterhead or other official documents to support at least one year's practical experience in some branch of education acceptable to the Executive Dean.

Originals must be supplied or copies certified by a Justice of the Peace; Commissioner of Declarations (registration numbers must be provided); or by QUT Student Centre staff. If documents are in a language other than English the original document must also have an official English translation. Documents will not be returned unless you provide a stamped, self-addressed envelope with you application. Transcripts and parchments from QUT and other Queensland universities need not be supplied.

Orientation

It is recommended that new students attend the Master of Education/Graduate Certificate in Education Orientation, which is held at Kelvin Grove Campus during the weekend after the orientation week each semester.

This comprises of sessions explaining the course and the two core units; discussions on topics by invited academics and students; general discussion and question time; meetings with the study area coordinators; and library sessions on the Library, QUT Blackboard, and academic writing.

There will be details about this on the Orientation Planner on your QUT Virtual. You should also recieve information about the event (via mail or email) after you accept your offer. If you have not recieved any information up until one week before the event, please contact Michele Bean: m.bean@qut.edu.au

Study Areas for Domestic Students

Career Development:
The field of career development has undergone significant change with the attendant demand for accountability and accreditation. Successful completion of this study area will enable you to work as a career counsellor, career teacher or career coach. The Career Development study area is recognised by Career Industry Council of Australia (CICA). This endorsement has been granted for a five year period until 2014.

Early Years:
This study area has significant importance in current education policies, nationally and internationally. Early childhood research has consistently provided evidence that the experiences and environments of children in the early years are important to strong social-emotional development and positive learning outcomes through school and into adulthood. Thus, the early years have consequences for children's health and well-being across their life course. Because of increased recognition of the importance of the early years to later outcomes, there is increased demand for highly trained professionals who can support the diverse learning needs of young children. It should enable you to develop your knowledge and understanding of current theory and research that will inform effective practice with young children and their families in early years programs and services.

Education Research: Theory and Practice:
This study area will encourage and enhance critical thinking in a specific area of education of interest to you and provide the research grounding in a focussed area to give you the option to progress into higher degree study. While you may wish to pursue this area as an end in itself, you may wish to move to specific research projects either for awards within the higher education sector or as part of your work within specific organisations.

Generic Program:
Students can choose a generic Masters which does not provide a study area and consists of two (2) core units and six (6) option units. This program can be tailored to suit your individual study needs and interests.

Higher Education (not offered from semester 2, 2011 - continuing students only):
Teaching and learning are core functions of all higher education institutions. The need to ensure quality in teaching and learning within the higher education sector is increasingly a focus of a number of initiatives. This study area develops and extends your skills in teaching, explores teaching and learning theories and the strategies, models and concepts that are relevant to teaching and learning in a higher education setting, and develops the capacity to critically reflect on professional practice. Professional development activities undertaken by staff may be recognised for advanced standing into the study area. You will need to complete an Advanced Standing application form.

Information Communication Technology (ICT):
This study area focuses on the different roles that technology, particularly contemporary digital technology, plays across all education sectors. The study area introduces major frameworks for, and debates around; understanding these roles, but the main emphasis is on practical application. It is suitable for any teacher or administrator who seeks to deliberatively employ technology within educational contexts.

Information-Learning Connections:
This study area enables you to extend your conceptual understandings and professional practices for learning and teaching in rapidly changing information-rich learning environments. It will provide an opportunity for your career development across Education, Librarianship, and Information Services. Potential students include: experienced teachers and teacher-librarians; academics; instructional designers; academic developers; learning support specialists; academic, public and corporate librarians; information professionals; workplace educators.

Leadership and Management:
This study area focuses on building and enhancing leadership capacity in aspiring and existing leaders. The units provide leaders with requisite knowledge and understanding of central concepts connected to leading others, leading change processes, understanding and interpreting policy, and strategic managerial skills required in planning, monitoring and evaluating organisational systems.

Studies in Literacy:
The study area Studies in Literacy provides opportunities for participants to engage with current and historical issues and debates and specific areas of interest within the broad domain of literacy. The core units have been designed to meet the learning needs of teachers, educators and allied professionals (e.g. development officers) who have a strong interest in the literacy development of their students and clients as well as the contributions of political, professional, private and community contexts to understandings of literacy and literacy education. Current issues such as moves to standardise literacy curriculum and assessment at a time when literacy practices are changing in everyday life will also be examined.

Teaching for Diversity: Disabilities and Learning Difficulties:
While the understanding and application of learning theory is essential to the teaching of all students, most students with learning difficulties and disabilities require specialised instructional approaches in order to maximise their potential and achieve success. In order to address the learning, social, and behavioural needs of these students, teachers and other professionals require an understanding of theoretical models, socio-cognitive processes, current research and best practices related to supporting students with learning difficulties and disabilities. In addition, well-developed skills in consultation, collaborative problem-solving, and reporting are required. It will appeal to teachers, special education support teachers and allied professionals (e.g., Guidance Officers, social workers, and health professionals) who assist children, adolescents and adults with learning, social and behavioural challenges.

Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL):
TEFL is a coursework award designed to meet the needs of students seeking a course which is specifically focused on teaching English as a foreign Language.

Teaching English as a Second Language (TESOL):
TESOL is a coursework award that provides students with theoretical knowledge and practical skills required to gain employment in the field of teaching English to speakers of other languages.

Vocational Education and Training (not offered from 2011 - continuing students only):
In recent years, there has been considerable convergence of vocational education and training and “academic education” within the Australian community. This study area will equip individuals with the understandings and skills necessary to implement and manage Vocational Education and Training initiatives within a range of settings. It aims to develop the skills and knowledge of participants as critically reflective practitioners with a commitment and confidence to lead vocational education in secondary and post-secondary settings.

Please refer to the 'course structures' below for study area requirements and suggested course progressions.

Study Areas for International Students

When choosing a study area, international students are restricted by the ESOS Act and their agreement with QUT. Study Areas must be offered in full-time and internal mode. The study areas below are available to international students:

Generic Program for International Students:
Students can choose a generic Graduate Certificate which does not provide a study area and consists of any four (4) ED61 units.

Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL) (Available in Semester 1 only):
TEFL is a coursework award designed to meet the needs of students seeking a course which is specifically focused on teaching English as a foreign Language.

Teaching English as a Second Language (TESOL)
TESOL is a coursework award that provides students with theoretical knowledge and practical skills required to gain employment in the field of teaching English to speakers of other languages.

Please refer to the 'course structures' below for study area requirements and suggested course progressions.

Course Rules

UNIT DELIVERIES:
Please ensure you select the correct teaching period, class and location code for all units you are enrolled in. EXTERNAL: The unit will be conducted through the QUT Blackboard site. Regular access to a suitable computer and internet access is imperative. INTERNAL: The unit requires regular attendance at classes on Kelvin Grove campus during semester. At the first scheduled class time, lecturers will negotiate with students a schedule for regular contact. BLOCK: The unit is offered in a block of lectures during the January or June/July vacation with attendance being over a number of days, normally from 9.00am to 4.00pm, Monday to Friday of a particular week. Assessment is completed during the remainder of the semester via the QUT Blackboard website.

MINIMUM AND MAXIMIM UNIT ENROLMENT:
Domestic students may enrol in a minimum of one (1) unit per semester. If you do not enrol in at least one (1) unit, you will need to apply for a leave of absence. If you wish to enrol in more than four (4) units per semester, you will need permission, in writing, from the Course Coordinator.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE:
In order to take time off without study, you will need to complete an online Leave of Absence Form - L Form. A link to this form can be found on: http://www.student.qut.edu.au/enrolment-and-orientation/enrolment/interrupting-

your-studies/
Students are permitted to take up to 12 months leave without special circumstances. You have 2 years to complete the course.

ADVANCED STANDING (Credit):
You can apply for Advanced Standing from prior study at an equivalent level to Postgraduate study. Undergraduate study or 4th year study (Honours or Graduate Diploma) are not generally considered at Postgraduate level. You can also apply for Advanced Standing based on work or industry experience. Please note that advanced standing can't be awarded for normal teaching experience. If you are responsible for an original academic work, such as creating a course and/or curriculum, or have published any original research etc. then you may be eligible for credit for work or industry experience. For further information on advanced standing refer to the following website:
http://www.student.qut.edu.au/enrolment-and-orientation/enrolment/credit-for-prior-learning/

CHANGE OF STUDY AREA:
Students must submit a 'CM Form' to request a change of study area. A link to this form can be found at the following website:
http://www.student.qut.edu.au/forms/

FURTHER STUDY- ED79 MASTER OF EDUCATION:
Students wishing to apply for further study can submit an 'R/I form' to move into the Master of Education. A link to this form can be found on the Student Services / Forms web page. As long as they fit into your chosen study area, you can apply to have all of your ED61 units credited into ED79 Master of Education.

Graduate Diploma in Education

Overview
For graduates with an non-education undergraduate degree to obtain their first teaching qualification. Four areas of study: Early Years (emphasising birth to eight years, and preparing graduates to teach Prep-Year 3); Primary: P-7 - internal only (emphasising years Prep - 7); Middle Years - external only (emphasising years 4-9); Senior Years (emphasising years 10-12 as well as lower Secondary).

INTERNATIONAL APPLICATIONS
International students to apply for this course via the F-Form.
IELTS (Academic) average band score of 7.5 across all four areas, with no score below 8 in Speaking and Listening and no score below 7 in Reading and Writing. The cost of the testing will be met by the applicant. English test results must be no more than two years old.

International Students must also complete and attach to the F-Form a Teaching Area Nomination Form for International Students

Enroling and course completion
The Queensland College of Teachers has advised that students enrolled in the Graduate Diploma in Early Years, Primary:P-7 and Middle Years may need to complete the course by end 2014, to be assured of eligibility for teacher registration.

Field experience
The majority of supervised field experience must occur in Australian school settings.

Professional Recognition
The Graduate Diploma in Education is recognised by the Queensland College of Teachers as meeting the requirements for registration as a teacher in Queensland. For graduates wishing to teach elsewhere or overseas please check with your local teacher registration authority before applying for entry to the course. Applicants for teacher registration in Queensland are subject to national criminal history checks.

Working With Children Check
Working With Children Check - As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), student teachers must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you accept your offer and enrol in the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 12 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Designated Units
Students who do not successfully complete the requirements of practicum or field studies units will have their progress in the course reviewed. Please refer to the unit outlines for more information and/or the Student Services website

Field Studies
The majority of supervised professional experience must occur in Australian Primary and/or Secondary school settings. The final field experience unit must be completed in the last semester of enrolment in the course.

Course Overview

ED79 Master of Education focuses on specialised study areas that are currently in demand and featuring innovative areas. The course has a fresh new approach to learning that values both the individual component and peer-to-peer relationships.

The course will suit teachers, educators and graduates with relevant employment experience who are seeking to make a career change within education or enhance their existing education career.

The Master of Education does not lead to teacher's registration.

ED79 Master of Education consists of eight units (96 credit points) selected from the postgraduate units listed in the course structure. Course duration is one (1) year internal or external full-time, or two (2) years internal or external part-time. You have up to four (4) years to complete the course.

Entry Requirements and How to Apply

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS:
Applicants for the Master of Education must hold:
- An appropriate four-year Bachelor degree or equivalent at a standard acceptable to the Executive Dean
OR
- A three-year Bachelor degree or equivalent at a standard acceptable to the Executive Dean PLUS at least one year of appropriate professional or industrial experience.

Applicants planning to take the TESOL study area must have a teaching background (at least one year of appropriate professional experience). If you do not have a teaching background, you can apply to take the TEFL study area instead.

Applicants planning to take the Early Childhood Teaching or Teacher-Librarianship study areas must be registered teachers or be eligible for registration. If you are applying for the School Guidance and Counselling study area, you must be a registered teacher and supply certified or original evidence of your teacher registration.

If you want to study School Guidance and Counselling full-time, please be aware that applications for 2012 close early due to compulsory block units that are held before semester commencement. Applications must be submitted by Monday, 14 November, 2011. (There is no mid-year entry for School Guidance and Counselling full-time. Only part-time study is available.)

This qualification is only recognised by education employing authorities in Queensland.

International Students studying in Australia on a Student Visa may only enrol in full-time internal programs offered on-campus. Please see 'Study Areas for International Students' for the full list of study areas available.

International Students must have the appropriate English language proficiency level to study their proposed course before they are admitted into QUT. There are two formal tests of English proficiency which QUT will accept: IELTS and TOEFL.

- IELTS: overall band score of 6.5 with no sub-band below 6.0; or
- TOEFL (iBT): overall score of 90 with no sub-score below 20 (if TOEFL permitted by visa requirements).

You may be exempt from taking a formal test if your secondary or post-secondary studies were conducted entirely in English and you have passed an English language or one or more communication subjects.

HOW TO APPLY:
Domestic students apply directly to QUT Student Services on a 'PG form'. International students complete an 'F form'. These can be accessed from studentservices.qut.com under 'Postgraduate admissions'; at QUT Student Centre counters; or by telephoning 07 3138 2000.

Application forms must be accompanied by supporting documents such as original or certified transcripts and parchments from previous studies; and if applicable, a signed letter from your employer on official letterhead or other official documents to support at least one year's practical experience in some branch of education acceptable to the Executive Dean.

If you are applying for the Early Childhood Teaching or Teacher-Librarianship study areas, you must be a registered teachers or be eligible for registration. If you have current teacher registration, please supply a certified or original copy of certification with your application. To apply for the School Guidance and Counselling study area, you must be a registered teacher. Please supply certified or original evidence of your teachers registration.

Originals must be supplied or copies certified by a Justice of the Peace; Commissioner of Declarations (registration numbers must be provided); or by QUT Student Centre staff. If documents are in a language other than English the original document must also have an official English translation. Documents will not be returned unless you provide a stamped, self-addressed envelope with you application. Transcripts and parchments from QUT and other Queensland universities need not be supplied.

Orientation

It is recommended that new students attend the Master of Education Orientation, which is held at Kelvin Grove Campus during the weekend after the orientation week each semester.

This comprises of sessions explaining the course and the two core units; discussions on topics by invited academics and students; general discussion and question time; meetings with the study area coordinators; and library sessions on the Library, QUT Blackboard, and academic writing.

There will be details about this on the Orientation Planner on your QUT Virtual. You should also recieve information about the event (via mail or email) after you accept your offer. If you have not recieved any information up until one week before the event, please contact Michele Bean: m.bean@qut.edu.au

Career Development:
The field of career development has undergone significant change with the attendant demand for accountability and accreditation. Successful completion of this study area will enable you to work as a career counsellor, career teacher or career coach. The Career Development study area is recognised by Career Industry Council of Australia (CICA). This endorsement has been granted for a five year period until 2014.

Early Childhood Teaching:
This study area will enable you to develop in-depth theoretical and practical knowledge and understanding of current theory and research that will inform effective practice with young children and their families in early years programs and services. This is a dedicated study area which enables qualified teachers upon completion, to become early childhood specialists, both in schools and as leaders in child care settings. Furthermore, the Early Childhood Teaching study area is recognised as a specialist early childhood qualification with Queensland Department of Communities and the Creche and Kindergarten Association (C&K).

Early Years:
This study area has significant importance in current education policies, nationally and internationally. Early childhood research has consistently provided evidence that the experiences and environments of children in the early years are important to strong social-emotional development and positive learning outcomes through school and into adulthood. Thus, the early years have consequences for children's health and well-being across their life course. Because of increased recognition of the importance of the early years to later outcomes, there is increased demand for highly trained professionals who can support the diverse learning needs of young children. It should enable you to develop your knowledge and understanding of current theory and research that will inform effective practice with young children and their families in early years programs and services.

Education Research: Theory and Practice:
This study area will encourage and enhance critical thinking in a specific area of education of interest to you and provide the research grounding in a focussed area to give you the option to progress into higher degree study. While you may wish to pursue this area as an end in itself, you may wish to move to specific research projects either for awards within the higher education sector or as part of your work within specific organisations.

Generic Program:
Students can choose a generic Masters which does not provide a study area and consists of two (2) core units and six (6) option units. This program can be tailored to suit your individual study needs and interests.

Higher Education (from 2011 - only available to cohorts):
Teaching and learning are core functions of all higher education institutions. The need to ensure quality in teaching and learning within the higher education sector is increasingly a focus of a number of initiatives. This study area develops and extends your skills in teaching, explores teaching and learning theories and the strategies, models and concepts that are relevant to teaching and learning in a higher education setting, and develops the capacity to critically reflect on professional practice. Professional development activities undertaken by staff may be recognised for advanced standing into the study area. You will need to complete an Advanced Standing application form and document appropriately for consideration by the Faculty.

Information Communication Technology (ICT):
This study area focuses on the different roles that technology, particularly contemporary digital technology, plays across all education sectors. The study area introduces major frameworks for, and debates around; understanding these roles, but the main emphasis is on practical application. It is suitable for any teacher or administrator who seeks to deliberatively employ technology within educational contexts.

Information-Learning Connections:
This study area enables you to extend your conceptual understandings and professional practices for learning and teaching in rapidly changing information-rich learning environments. It will provide an opportunity for your career development across Education, Librarianship, and Information Services. Potential students include: experienced teachers and teacher-librarians; academics; instructional designers; academic developers; learning support specialists; academic, public and corporate librarians; information professionals; workplace educators.

Leadership and Management:
This study area focuses on building and enhancing leadership capacity in aspiring and existing leaders. The units provide leaders with requisite knowledge and understanding of central concepts connected to leading others, leading change processes, understanding and interpreting policy, and strategic managerial skills required in planning, monitoring and evaluating organisational systems.

School Guidance and Counselling (option A or B):
This study area is suitable for guidance officers seeking to advance their knowledge or qualified teachers seeking a career change. The School Guidance and Counselling study area is recognised by Education Queensland, Catholic Education, and Independent Schools as a Guidance Officer qualification in Queensland schools. School Guidance and Counselling 'Option A' will enable you to be eligible for employment from P-12. 'Option B' is mainly for guidance and counselling in a secondary school as it also meets the Career Industry Council of Australia (CICA) professional standards. This endorsement has been granted for a five year period until 2014. PLEASE NOTE: This qualification is only recognised by education employing authorities in Queensland.

Studies in Literacy:
The study area Studies in Literacy provides opportunities for participants to engage with current and historical issues and debates and specific areas of interest within the broad domain of literacy. The core units have been designed to meet the learning needs of teachers, educators and allied professionals (e.g. development officers) who have a strong interest in the literacy development of their students and clients as well as the contributions of political, professional, private and community contexts to understandings of literacy and literacy education. Current issues such as moves to standardise literacy curriculum and assessment at a time when literacy practices are changing in everyday life will also be examined.

Teacher-Librarianship:
This is a specialist degree that prepares teachers for professional leadership as teacher-librarians in primary and secondary schools. You may also be eligible for employment in other sectors of library and information work. To practise as a Teacher-Librarian in Australian schools, graduates also need approved teaching qualifications. The study area is recognised by the Australian Library and Information Association (ALIA) for the six year period, January 2006-December 2011. Graduates are eligible for associate (professional) membership of ALIA and may seek employment in a wide range of library and information contexts, including school libraries. The Master of Education (Teacher-Librarianship) maintains close links with the Australian School Library Association (ASLA).

Teaching for Diversity: Disability and Learning Difficulties:
While the understanding and application of learning theory is essential to the teaching of all students, most students with learning difficulties and disabilities require specialised instructional approaches in order to maximise their potential and achieve success. In order to address the learning, social, and behavioural needs of these students, teachers and other professionals require an understanding of theoretical models, socio-cognitive processes, current research and best practices related to supporting students with learning difficulties and disabilities. In addition, well-developed skills in consultation, collaborative problem-solving, and reporting are required. It will appeal to teachers, special education support teachers and allied professionals (e.g., Guidance Officers, social workers, and health professionals) who assist children, adolescents and adults with learning, social and behavioural challenges.

Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL):
TEFL is a coursework award designed to meet the needs of students seeking a course which is specifically focused on teaching English as a foreign Language.

Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL):
TESOL is a coursework award that provides students with theoretical knowledge and practical skills required to gain employment in the field of teaching

English to speakers of other languages.

Vocational Education and Training (not offered from 2011 - continuing students only):
In recent years, there has been considerable convergence of vocational education and training and “academic education” within the Australian community. This study area will equip individuals with the understandings and skills necessary to implement and manage Vocational Education and Training initiatives within a range of settings. It aims to develop the skills and knowledge of participants as critically reflective practitioners with a commitment and confidence to lead vocational education in secondary and post-secondary settings.

Please refer to the 'course structures' below for study area requirements and suggested course progressions.

Study Areas for International Students

When choosing a study area, international students are restricted by the ESOS Act and their agreement with QUT. Study Areas must be offered in full-time and internal mode, as international students are required to study four (4) units per semester. The study areas below are available to international students:

Generic Program for International Students:
Students can choose a generic Masters which does not provide a study area and consists of two (2) core units and six (6) option units.

Early Years Program for International Students:
This study area has significant importance in current education policies, nationally and internationally. Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL):
TEFL is a coursework award designed to meet the needs of students seeking a course which is specifically focused on teaching English as a foreign Language.

Teaching English as a Second Language (TESOL)
TESOL is a coursework award that provides students with theoretical knowledge and practical skills required to gain employment in the field of teaching English to speakers of other languages.

Please refer to the 'course structures' below for study area requirements and suggested course progressions.

Course Rules

UNIT DELIVERIES:
Please ensure you select the correct teaching period, class and location code for all units you are enrolled in. EXTERNAL: The unit will be conducted through the QUT Blackboard site. Regular access to a suitable computer and internet access is imperative. INTERNAL: The unit requires regular attendance at classes on Kelvin Grove campus during semester. At the first scheduled class time, lecturers will negotiate with students a schedule for regular contact. BLOCK: The unit is offered in a block of lectures during the January or June/July vacation with attendance being over a number of days, normally from 9.00am to 4.00pm, Monday to Friday of a particular week. Assessment is completed during the remainder of the semester via QUT Blackboard.

OPTION UNITS:
As part of most of your study areas, or a 'Generic' Masters degree, you are able to complete a number of option units which can be selected from any units listed under any of the study areas in ED79, with the exception of field study or practicum units.

MINIMUM AND MAXIMIM UNIT ENROLMENT:
Domestic students may enrol in a minimum of one (1) unit per semester. If you do not enrol in at least one (1) unit, you will need to apply for a leave of absence. If you wish to enrol in more than four (4) units per semester, you will need permission, in writing, from the Course Coordinator.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE:
In order to take time off without study, you will need to complete an online Leave of Absence Form - L Form. A link to this form can be found on following site: http://www.student.qut.edu.au/enrolment-and-orientation/enrolment/interrupting-your-studies/
You are permitted to take up to 12 months leave without special circumstances. You have 4 years to complete the course.

BLUE CARD:
Students in Early Childhood Teaching, School Guidance and Counselling, and Teacher-Librarianship may be required to hold a current blue card before they can undertake the practicum in a child care centre, early years setting, library, or some schools, even if they are registered teachers. Depending on where you intend to undertake your practicum, you may need to apply for a blue card as soon as you are accepted into the program to allow sufficient time (up to 12 weeks) for it to be issued. Contact your study area coordinator for advice and visit student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards

ADVANCED STANDING (Credit):
You can apply for Advanced Standing from prior study at an equivalent level to Masters study. Undergraduate study or 4th year study (Honours or Graduate Diploma) are not generally considered at Masters level. You can also apply for advanced standing based on work or industry experience. Advanced standing is not able to be awarded for normal teaching experience. If you are responsible for an original academic work, such as creating a course and/or curriculum, or have published any original research etc. then you may eligible for credit for work or industry experience. Please complete an ‘AS Form’and refer to the following website: http://www.student.qut.edu.au/enrolment-and-orientation/enrolment/credit-for-prior-learning/

CHANGE OF STUDY AREA:
Students must submit a 'CM Form' to request a change of study area. A link to this form can be found at the following site: http://www.student.qut.edu.au/forms/

EARLY EXIT - ED61 GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN EDUCATION:
If you wish to exit the course early with ED61 Graduate Certificate in Education you should apply in the semester that you expect to exit, using an 'SRX Form'. A link to this form can be found on the following web page:
http://www.student.qut.edu.au/forms/
If you take this option you will have to cancel your enrolment in the Master of Education ED79 once the SRX form has been approved (via e-Student).

The coursework component provides training in assessment, diagnosis and intervention in the area of educational and developmental issues across the lifespan with an emphasis on the school years.

Students undertake two internships that are linked with a client base from the Catholic education system and from the Psychology and Counselling Clinic at QUT's Kelvin Grove campus.

Following these internships, students undertake a further two external placements in other environments including schools, mental health and community settings.

To undertake the supervised practice, students need to provide evidence of provisional registration as a psychologist with the Psychologists Board of Australia and hold a current blue card as required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Guardian Act (2000).

International Course structure

Course structure

The Master of Research Management and Commercialisation is particularly suited to current or aspiring research management leaders, administrators and active researchers in corporations, universities and the public sector. The Masters builds on the content of the Graduate Certificate and allows you to develop a deeper understanding of the context and strategic issues involved in research management and commercialisation. You can tailor the course to your needs by applying these ideas and concepts to issues of relevance to you and, where possible, undertaking assessment through workplace-based projects.

Students enrolled in the masters-level course can choose to exit with an award of Graduate Diploma in Research and Development Management following the completion of eight approved units.

Course Structure

The course comprises four stages: preparation, confirmation of candidature, implementation and submission of a thesis of up to 40,000 words.

(i) Preparation stage: you undertake two research methodology units - Professional Applications of Research and Conducting Innovative Educational Research. Exemption may be granted for the methodology units if you can demonstrate that you have already completed equivalent studies or have relevant research experience. During this stage, you will determine the research methods to be used in your thesis and begin work on your literature review.

(ii) Confirmation of candidature stage: you present and justify your research proposal at a seminar attended by academic staff and your peers. Your confirmation document includes your research design and your draft literature review.

(iii) Implementation stage: you execute your research proper, collecting your data and analysing the results.

(iv) Submission stage: in the final stage of your Master of Education (Research) journey, you finish writing your thesis and present it to a review panel for approval at a final oral seminar open to the public. Once aproved, your thesis is ready to be submitted for examination.

Overview

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) offers the opportunity to work with an experienced supervisory research team to make a significant and original contribution to disciplinary knowledge. A PhD candidate's research must reveal high critical ability and powers of imagination and synthesis and may be, depending on discipline, demonstrated in the form of new knowledge or significant and original adaptation, application and interpretation of existing knowledge. This world-class program provides a basis for critical inquiry and welcomes collaborative and interdisciplinary research projects. A QUT PhD graduate will be equipped to seek employment in industry, research organisations and universities.

Entry requirements

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy depends on an applicant's demonstrated research aptitude and the availability of supervision, infrastructure and resources needed for the proposed research project.

An applicant would normally hold:
. a relevant first or second class division A honours degree or equivalent, or
. an appropriate Masters degree or Professional Doctorate (by research or coursework)

Masters and Professional Doctorates degrees by coursework must contain a significant research component, normally no less than 25%.

Holders of Masters and Professional Doctoral by Coursework must:
• have a grade point average of at least 5.0 on a 7 point scale and
• present evidence of research experience and potential for approval
English language proficiency requires International applicants to meet an IELTS overall bandscore of 6.5 with no sub-score below 6.0.

International Student Entry

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy depends on an applicant's demonstrated research aptitude and the availability of supervision, infrastructure and resources needed for the proposed research project.

An applicant would normally hold:
. a relevant first or second class division A honours degree or equivalent, or
. an appropriate Masters degree or Professional Doctorate (by research or coursework)

Masters and Professional Doctorates degrees by coursework must contain a significant research component, normally no less than 25%.

Holders of Masters and Professional Doctoral by Coursework must:
• have a grade point average of at least 5.0 on a 7 point scale and
• present evidence of research experience and potential for approval
English language proficiency requires International applicants to meet an IELTS overall bandscore of 6.5 with no sub-score below 6.0.

FINANCIAL GUARANTEE
Acceptable forms of evidence include:
- A letter from an approved employer confirming the continuation of your salary; OR
- A signed Scholarship Agreement between QUT and your sponsoring agency; OR
- An accepted letter of offer from QUT for a postgraduate research scholarship; OR
- An approved external scholarship.

Location & duration

The expected duration of the Doctor of Philosophy is three to four years full-time, or six to eight years part-time. Full-time study is normally conducted on-campus at QUT. Part-time and external study options may be available depending on the project, infrastructure requirements and funding arrangements. Although QUT offers this flexibility, candidates must meet minimum attendance requirements and the university must be satisfied that adequate supervision and resources are available.

International student visas require on-campus study to be completed full-time.

Course Structure

QUT adopts a project management approach. PhD candidates work closely with their supervisory team to meet collegially reviewed milestones leading to timely submission of a thesis for examination. QUT is proud of its record of timely completions and low attrition rates realised by this approach.

During candidature the supervisor and other key stakeholders will provide advice and direction to the candidate to encourage their participation in university scholarly activities such as research seminars, teaching and publication. The length of the thesis varies according to the topic, but should normally be no longer than 100,000 words, excluding bibliography.

Professional Practice Placements

You will gain hands-on experience in this course through two professional practice placements.

In first semester of your second year you will explore the diversity of practice methods through the Introduction to Practice. You will undertake a total of 140 hours of volunteer placement/s in a human service agency.

Your theoretical and practical studies will culminate in a 36 credit point Advanced Professional Practice placement in second semester of your third year. This placement will generally reflect your specialised service context area. You will develop a learning plan in consultation with your agency supervisor and a university staff member. During this 400-hour supervised placement in a human services agency, you will further develop your assessment and intervention skills and your own practice framework. It may be possible to undertake this 12 week placement with an overseas agency.

These professional practice placements provide many valuable opportunities for networking within the human services industry.

Service Contexts

CHILD AND FAMILY SERVICES
Child and family services units provide you with a firm grounding in theories, practices and processes essential for understanding and intervening in family life. You will be introduced to child and family welfare studies and will focus on approaches to supporting families and promoting change. You will also examine core processes and practice skills associated with interacting with children and parents, assessing family life and encouraging participation in decision making.

CORRECTIVE SERVICES
The Community and Youth Corrections unit provides the legislative framework and structures, processes and principles of the youth and criminal justice system. It explores evidence based interventions and provides practice models and assessment frameworks. It provides theory and practice skills for working with Indigenous people and examines the role of practitioners in youth Justice Services and the Department of Corrective Services. The unit's primary orientation is to provide you with a structured opportunity to analyse and understand the operation of the Queensland community and youth corrections settings with offenders and those who are at risk of offending.

DISABILITY SERVICES
Disability services units provide you with a solid foundation for understanding and evaluating the theories, principles, practices and policies underpinning services used by people with disabilities. The aim is to link the social justice, empowerment and human rights issues explored in the more generic units within the degree program to the lives of people with disabilities. You will have the opportunity to explore and evaluate the range of service models relevant to the lifestyles of people with disabilities. The units focus on the quasi-legal and policy aspects of working in disability service organisations, and address some of the ethical dilemmas inherent in human service provision to people with a disability.

SERVICES TO YOUNG PEOPLE
These units help you understand and identify the various ways youth and adolescence are understood, constructed and portrayed in mainstream media, academic literature and human services. You will critically review the situation of a diverse range of young people and will investigate the knowledge, theory and skills base of a range of contemporary practice arenas, such as juvenile justice and adolescent child protection practice, youth homelessness, youth policy analysis and development.

Professional Recognition

Graduates are entitled to apply for membership of the Australian Institute of Welfare and Community Workers.

Working with Children Check

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child

Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. Application form

As soon as students accept their offer into the course, they should submit their Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. Students must hold a Blue Card to undertake placement units (HHB338 and HHB408)which may involve contact with children.

If students do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, they will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. Course Structure

The Bachelor of Social Work can be undertaken as either a four year undergraduate program or as an advanced standing two year (5 semester) program following two years of approved undergraduate study. This pathway includes a summer teaching placement. Students may undertake the course in part-time mode. Students wishing to study part-time should contact the Course Coordinator for a progression plan.

Students will complete specialist units in child and family services, corrective services, disability services, or services to young people. Distinctive study pathways are also available. The child protection pathway will enable students to choose core and elective units which will best prepare them for practice in statutory child protection settings such as the Queensland Department of Child Safety. The international practice pathway will provide students with the knowledge and opportunity to undertake social work practice in other national contexts, and give them priority in undertaking a major placement in an overseas agency. The research pathway provides students with the knowledge and skills to undertake research designed to improve services and creates a solid foundation for postgraduate research programs.

The social work program involves two placements, each of 490 hours, where the student's skills are further developed in real world settings. Students are able to graduate with honours on the basis of achieving a GPA of a certain standard.

Advanced Standing Program

Advanced Standing allows approved applicants who have completed at least two years of a university degree or equivalent in a relevant area to complete the Social Work course with a further two calendar years (5 semesters) of full time study. Relevant areas of previous study are:

•Justice Studies
•Law
•Education
•Arts (Humanities)
•Social Sciences
•Psychology or Behavioural Sciences
•Community Welfare and Human Services programs from other universities
•Health including Nursing

As part of this prior study, it is expected students will have completed some units with a focus on social studies, behavioural studies, and interpersonal skills. The number of units in addition to the requirements of the standard 2 Year Advanced Standing Program that students can be required to undertake is limited to two (24 credit points).

Bachelor of Social Work

If the previous study includes no social studies students can be required to undertake one unit with a focus on
• understanding society,
• social disadvantage,
• human rights or

If the previous study includes no behavioural studies students can be required to undertake HHB102 The Human Condition or similar. Further, students may be required to undertake HHB113 Interpersonal Communication if previous studies have not included a unit with a focus on interpersonal communication.

Students seeking Advanced Standing should apply for entry to the four year Bachelor of Social Work program and apply for advanced standing (credit) - up to 168 credit points - for previous study. Students who have completed or partly completed a human services degree from QUT should apply for entry to the four year program, and may receive up to 192 credit points. Advice on likely credit can be provided by the Bachelor of Social Work Course Coordinator. Note, that while these guidelines govern advanced standing arrangements, final outcomes will be decided once formal application has been made.

It should be noted that in undertaking the 2 Year Advanced Standing course structure students will undertake their first field placement in the summer semester of the first year following two semesters of preparatory units. Those who enter the program in mid-year will undertake their first field placement in the summer following their first semester. Students will need to be available through the summer (November to February) in order to complete the fieldwork component.

Overview

This course was replaced by HM44 Bachelor of Clinical Exercise Physiology from first semester 2010.

Professional Recognition

The course has provisional accreditation with Exercise and Sports Science Australia (ESSA) until 31 December 2011.

Electives

Electives are available in various areas including psychology of rehabilitation, anatomy, physiology, biomechanics, motor control and learning, children in sport, sociology of sport and exercise prescription. Students must choose at least 4 out of the 6 units listed in LIST A. The other elective options should be taken as advised by the Course Coordinator to comply with accreditation requirements.

Honours

A degree with honours may be awarded to students who have recorded outstanding achievement in the four-year program.

Other course requirements

blue card As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

additional costs There are additional costs associated with this course including the purchase of the practicum shirt (approximately $50), the attainment of a current First Aid Certificate prior to the commencement of third year. Attendance at the orientation camp is highly recommended though not compulsory (approximately $165).

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: Blue Card

A Blue Card will be required if the placement component of this course involves working with children or young people. There's no cost if you apply through QUT.

Submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible - ideally, as soon as you've received your offer.

If you don't receive your Blue Card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may be unable to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still have to pay fees for the unit.

How to apply for a Blue Card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

Uniform

A QUT T-shirt is required for Exercise and Movement Science and Clinical Exercise Physiology courses. Students will need to cover this cost.

Orientation camp

First year students have the option of attending an orientation camp.

Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- Maths B
- English

Also assumed knowledge: one of Chemistry, Physics, Biology Recommended study: Health Education or Physical Education We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA). Recommended Study: Health Education or Physical Education.

Overview
Exercise and movement science graduates work in the exercise, health, fitness and sports science industries. This degree is ideal if you want a career that promotes physical activity, exercise , health and wellbeing.

Study Areas
There are three study areas available in the course:

- Health and Wellness
- Sport Science and Performance Analysis
- Research in Exercise and Movement Science

The Health and Wellness Study Area is intended for students who seek to work in corporate, government or community positions employing their knowledge of exercise science to support health and wellbeing.

The Sport Science and Performance Analysis study area is for students with a strong interest in sport performance and the goal of sport-related employment, for example, fitness instructors, sportspersons, coaches and sporting officials.

The Research in Exercise and Movement Science study area provides a pathway for students who are considering Honours and/or Higher Research Degrees, or who are considering postgraduate courses in medicine, physiotherapy and other disciplines, and for whom more advanced study and some research experience is valuable.

Students may elect not to undertake a major. These students complete their course requirements by undertaking six elective units.

Course structure
Students complete 18 core units and six additional units from the following:

- five units from a Study Area OR
- four units from a University wide minor plus one Faculty of Health elective OR
- one Faculty of Health elective plus four electives from across the University. These could include units from the Study Areas in the course.

The Faculty of Health units are selected from undergraduate elective lists. At least three of these electives must at the intermediate or advanced stage, ie offered in year 2 or later.

Pathways
Graduates of HM43 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science can apply for admission to the HM44 Bachelor of Clinical Exercise Physiology if they should wish to achieve full Exercise Physiologist status.

Professional recognition
Accreditation with Exercise and Sports Science Australia (ESSA) has been sought for the course to give graduates professional recognition as Exercise Scientists.

Overview
The Bachelor of Clinical Exercise Physiology provides students with both foundation knowledge in the exercise and movement sciences and the skills to apply this knowledge to a range of disorders.

Accredited exercise physiologists enjoy dynamic careers working as specialists in rehabilitation, injury prevention,clinical diagnostics and exercise programming.

Pathways
Students wishing to pursue higher degree studies may apply for the Master of Applied Science (Research) and progress to doctoral studies.

Professional recognition
This new course has been assigned provisional accreditation by Exercise and Sports Science Australia (ESSA) for 2011. This will enable graduates to work as Accredited Exercise Physiologists in clinical settings. Full accreditation processing continues in 2011.

Overview

This course has been replaced by HM43 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science from first semester 2010.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in HM45 Bachelor of Applied Science (Exercise and Sports Nutrition).

This three-year degree course combines the complementary areas of human movement studies and nutrition and provides you with a foundation for a career in the exercise, health, fitness and nutrition industries.

The degree also provides you with a range of practical experience, including 100 hours of work experience (practicum) in the third year. This is a valuable opportunity for you to gain hands-on experience in the industry. You can work in fitness centres, sports ssociations and other related organisations.

Other course requirements

blue card As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

additional costs There are additional costs associated with this course including the purchase of the practicum shirt (approximately $50), the attainment of a current First Aid Certificate prior to the commencement of third year. Attendance at the orientation camp is highly recommended though not compulsory (approximately $115).

Professional Recognition

As a graduate, you will be immediately eligible for membership of the Australian Institute of Medical Scientists (AIMS) and will have completed the academic and work placement requirements for admission as a full member. Depending on your clinical discipline(s) of employment, you will be eligible to apply for membership of various professional organisations including the Australasian Association of Clinical Biochemists, Australian Society of Microbiology, Australian Society of Cytology, Human Genetics Society of Australasia, Haematology Society of Australia and New Zealand, Australian and New Zealand Society of Blood Transfusion and Australian Society of Thrombosis and Haemostasis.

Other Course Requirements

Work Experience Program: This course includes a mandatory Summer Program between years two and three of the full-time course. During the Summer Program you will be required to undertake a minimum six-week work experience program in a practising pathology laboratory. Proof of successful vaccination against Hepatitis B must be provided at the end of first semester of the second year of the course.

Blue Card

A current blue card authorised with QUT may be required prior to commencing the clinical placement components of this course. For more information visit Blue Card and ensure that you allow adequate time for processing your application and issuing of the card in order to avoid clinical experience delays.

Continuing Students

Continuing students who are not undertaking a standard program of units as detailed below, or who need to complete units from the first year of the course structure, should consult the course coordinator for enrolment advice.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

The Bachelor of Applied Science (Medical Science) commences with a solid grounding in life sciences, mathematics, chemistry and physics. You will undertake further intensive study in human physiology, anatomy, cell and molecular biology. With QUT's practical approach to teaching, you will not only learn the theory, but gain a wealth of practical experience in QUT's state-of-the-art laboratories.

Year 2

You will proceed to the topics of biochemistry, microbiology and pathology before sampling various specialisations like immunology, haematology and histopathology. During practical classes you will learn the latest techniques used in the pathology industry and improve your skills to professional standards. At the end of the year you will be ready to undertake a six-week placement in a pathology laboratory to further develop your skills under the guidance of professionals in the workplace.

Year 3

The final year builds on the key areas of biochemistry, microbiology, immunology, haematology, histopathology and introduces immunohaematology. You will develop your skills to an advanced level and further refine your laboratory techniques to ensure that, when you graduate, you will be ready to operate confidently in the workplace. You can take advantage of QUT's close links with the pathology industry to further enhance your employment prospects.

Overview

The Bachelor of Medical Laboratory Science degree is accredited by the Australian Institute of Medical Scientists. More than 90 per cent of graduates seeking employment within the pathology industry are successful within months of graduation. The course is designed in consultation with managers and academics in pathology and research laboratories, so you will gain advanced knowledge of the latest diagnostic techniques used in these settings.

Throughout the course you will undertake practical classes in QUT's state-of-the-art laboratories, so that when you graduate, you will have extensive experience with techniques, equipment and instruments used daily in industry and research. As part of your professional development, during your final year you will also undertake one semester of work integrated learning where you will interact directly with, and be mentored by, practising medical scientists or clinical researchers. You may also be able to complete part of your work placement in regional Australia or an international laboratory.

Course structure

In order to complete the Bachelor of Medical Laboratory Science you must complete 384 credit points which includes one elective unit.

Career outcomes

The aim of this course is to prepare you as an accredited medical laboratory scientist for employment in a medical/ diagnostic pathology laboratory or other healthcare supported related area.

As a medical laboratory scientist you will perform, interpret and report on analyses (or conduct research) in the areas of immunology, haematology, transfusion science, microbiology (bacteriology, mycology, virology and parasitology), histopathology, cytology, biochemistry and molecular biology. After graduation you may decide to specialise in areas such as cytological diagnosis, transplantation science, stem cell therapies, forensic testing, molecular diagnostics, cytogenetics, and health informatics, or proceed to a managerial position within a private laboratory or hospital.

Pathways

If you wish to undertake postgraduate studies in medicine, this course is an excellent pre-medical degree. As a graduate, you can pursue further studies leading to a career in medical research. Graduates are currently working as researchers in areas such as cancer diagnosis, malaria, virology, stem cells, infectious diseases, immunology, transfusion science, eye disease, reproductive medicine and molecular biology.

Professional recognition

Graduates of Bachelor of Medical Laboratory Science are immediately eligible for graduate membership with the Australian Institute of Medical Scientists and will have completed the academic and work placement requirements for admission as full members. Depending on your clinical discipline(s) of employment, you will be eligible to apply for membership of various professional organisations including the Australasian Association of Clinical Biochemists, Australian Society of Microbiology, Australian Society of Cytology, Human Genetics Society of Australasia, Haematology Society of Australia and New Zealand, Australian and New Zealand Society of Blood Transfusion and Australian Society of Thrombosis and Haemostasis.

Other course requirements

Hepatitis B vaccination, QUT Medical Laboratory Science Uniform

The course includes a 12 week placement in a pathology labratory which students complete during semester 1, fourth (final) year of study.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

The course commences by developing a sound knowledge and understanding of fundamental concepts that underpin medical laboratory science: cellular and molecular biosciences, anatomy, physiology mathematics, statistics, biophysics and chemistry. You will also be introduced to the local, national and global profession of medical laboratory science, and the Australian Healthcare System in the first of your professionally orientated units in the course.

Year 2

In your second year, you will explore more specialised concepts in pathology, biochemistry, microbiology, immunology, cytogenetic and molecular pathology, histopathological techniques, quantitative medical science, and quality assurance systems. In your practical classes, you will learn some of the latest techniques used in the clinical diagnostic pathology industry, giving you the opportunity to develop your skills to professional standards.

Year 3

The third year of the program allows you to further develop and refine your knowledge, understanding and practical skills to a more advanced level, and learn how they are applied in the clinical disciplines of molecular diagnostics, microbiology, chemical pathology, diagnostic endocrinology, histopathology, cytopathology, haematology and, transfusion and transplantation science.

Year 4

In your first semester, you will undertake a semester-long work integrated learning internship in a recognised laboratory. During that time you will also complete studies in health informatics and learn how this relates to day-to-day laboratory operations. In your final semester, you will complete an elective of your choice designed to complement your learning, e.g. pharmacology, marketing, management or research techniques. You will also prepare professional plans and identify graduate opportunities, as well as further your clinical discipline specific learning in the context of intercultural health and contemporary issues in medical science.

Domestic Entry requirements

Entry Requirements

Applicants must have completed a non-nursing bachelor degree (or equivalent) within the past 10 years. Applicants with degrees (or equivalent) completed more than 10 years ago must provide evidence of graduate work experience and/or further studies since course completion with their QTAC application to receive further consideration.

Students who are admitted to the graduate entry program will automatically received one year of advanced standing which will entitle the student to complete the degree in two years (full-time).

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical practice units in semester breaks

The clinical practice units in the nursing component require you to undertake block practicums of two or more weeks, which may be scheduled during semester breaks.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

International Entry requirements

Applicants must have completed a non-nursing bachelor degree (or equivalent) within the past 10 years. Applicants with degrees (or equivalent) completed more than 10 years ago must provide evidence of graduate work experience and/or further studies since course completion.

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

You'll need to apply for a blue card because you'll be working with children or young people as part of this course. There's no cost if you apply through QUT.

Students wishing to accept their offer must submit their blue card application forms:

- no later than 24 December for Semester 1 (February entry)
- no later than 24 May for Semester 2 entry (July entry)

Please submit your blue card application form immediately after receiving your offer. You won't be able to accept your offer and enrol if you don't submit your correctly completed blue card application form on time.

Overview

NOTE: This course is being replaced by the dual award program, Bachelor of Vision Science (OP45) / Master of Optometry (OP85). No new admissions have been accepted into OP42 from 2009.

Optometrists examine people's eyes to protect and improve their vision and to detect and diagnose eye disease. As an optometrist, you will work with a range of complex instruments and techniques to test vision for defects such as short-sightedness, long-sightedness and astigmatism. Optometrists use their clinical judgement to treat patients in a variety of ways, including eye exercises, contact lenses, spectacles or advice on lighting and visual habits.

Professional Recognition

Boards of Optometrical Registration regulate the practice of optometry in Australia. QUT graduates are eligible to apply to the Optometrists' Board of Queensland for registration to practise as optometrists in Queensland and all states and territories of Australia.

Honours

A degree with honours may be awarded to students who have recorded outstanding achievement in the four-year program.

Other course requirements

blue card As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

additional costs Ophthalmic instruments costing approximately $5000 are required for the clinical program from the beginning of the second and third years of the course. Academic staff provide advice regarding the purchase of these instruments. You will also be required to undertake first aid certification before entering the clinical program.

Overview

This course is the first component of a five year dual degree program comprising a three year Bachelor of Vision Science, followed by a two year Master of Optometry (OP85). Both degrees need to be completed before a graduate can apply for registration as an optometrist.

The profession of Optometry is undergoing expansion in its scope of practice as a result of legislative amendments occurring (or pending) in all states and territories to allow appropriately trained optometrists to use therapeutic pharmaceutical agents in the practice of Optometry. This program increases graduates' depth of knowledge in the areas of general and ocular pharmacology, with training in the therapeutic management of eye disease.

Professional recognition

The dual degree program Bachelor of Vision Science/ Master of Optometry meets the requirements for accreditation by the Optometry Council of Australia and New Zealand. Graduates of the program meet the requirements for registration by the Optometry Board of Australia.

The Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) requires that graduates demonstrate English language skills at IELTS level 7 or equivalent before being considered for professional registration. For further information visit the AHPRA website: http://www.ahpra.gov.au/Registration/Registration-Process/Registration-Requirements.aspx

Please refer to the Optometry Board of Australia website http://www.optometryboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for additional information on the Board's Registration Standards.

Student registration

QUT automatically registers students enrolled in this course with the Optometry Board of Australia in accordance with the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law Act 2009. Details about student registration are available from the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency at www.ahpra.gov.au

Overview

QUT is currently the only university in Queensland to offer a medical imaging technology undergraduate qualification. This course leads to employment as a medical imaging technologist or diagnostic radiographer, a rewarding profession with excellent employment prospects. Radiographers play an important role in the health-care sector, providing vital information to assist with the diagnosis and treatment of medical disorders.

Career Outcomes

As a radiographer you will play a key role in patient care by providing referring medical practitioners with additional diagnostic information to assist in patient management and treatment. You may become a team member in a radiology department in a hospital, private radiology practice or health department, or you may be employed in medical equipment sales.

Professional Recognition

On graduation, you will be eligible for provisional accreditation by the Australian Institute of Radiography. Full accreditation requires the completion of an additional professional development year of clinical experience.

English Language Skills Applicable to health practitioners applying for registration)
All applicants must be able to demonstrate English language skills at IELTS academic level 7 or equivalent. Test results from examinations will generally need to be obtained within two years prior to applying for registration.

Other Course Requirements

You are required to undertake clinical experience in hospital departments and private practices during the course and, as a result, will have direct patient contact during the clinical placement, and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. You must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a postvaccination pathological report or similar certification showing proof of immunity prior to undertaking the first clinical placement.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) certification is also required to undertake clinical placements. In addition, you must satisfy criteria related to health status. You should declare height, physical disabilities, treatment of nervous condition, any drug/alcohol disorder, and a current immunisation status (specifically Hepatitis B) as part of the online enrolment process.

A current Blue Card authorised with QUT may be required prior to commencing the clinical placement components of this course. For more information visit www.bluecard.qut.edu.au, and ensure that you allow adequate time for processing your application and issuing of the card in order to avoid clinical experience delays.

Your Course

Year 1
You will develop a solid grounding in anatomy and medical physics along with introductory knowledge of patient health-care needs, professional communication techniques and ethical, legal and accountability issues. Introductory studies in medical radiation technology are complemented with practical sessions in QUT's medical imaging laboratories, allowing you to develop your skills in patient positioning and image production for skeletal radiography.

Year 2
Building on your introductory units, you will progress to more advanced and specialised study of human anatomy including diseases of the organ systems, obstetrics, gynaecology, central nervous system, paediatrics and geriatrics. Specialised practical sessions in QUT's facilities will focus on regional anatomy of the head, neck, upper limb and lower limb. You will learn about the specialist techniques of mammography, tomography, trauma radiography, and ward and operating theatre radiography. In each semester you will have an opportunity to practise your skills in a real workplace through placements in clinical departments.

Year 3
You will continue to develop your skills through clinical placements in hospitals or private practices. At QUT, you will undertake theoretical and practical classes in advanced techniques such as angiography, and interventional techniques. In-depth knowledge of the uses and applications of X-ray computed tomography (CT) and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) will be covered along with valuable techniques in digital image processing. You will round off your professional education by learning about the techniques used in professional practice including image formation evaluation and image interpretation.

Majors
There are two majors in the Bachelor of Applied Science - Medical Radiation Technology. Students choose either Radiotherapy Technology or Medical Imaging Technology

Overview

QUT is currently the only university in Queensland to offer a radiotherapy technology undergraduate qualification. This course leads to employment as a radiation therapist, assisting cancer patients at the most difficult time in their lives.

Career Outcomes

As a radiation therapist in a radiotherapy department of a major hospital or private institution, you may become a member of a team treating cancer patients and be responsible for planning and delivering prescribed radiation doses.

Professional Recognition

On graduation, you will be eligible for provisional accreditation by the Australian Institute of Radiography (AIR). Full accreditation requires the completion of an additional professional development year of clinical experience.

English Language Skills (Applicable to health practitioners applying for registration)
All applicants must be able to demonstrate English language skills at IELTS academic level 7 or equivalent. Test results from examinations will generally need to be obtained within two years prior to applying for registration.

Other Majors

See also the separate entry for the following major in this course: Bachelor of Applied Science - Medical Radiation Technology (Medical Imaging Technology).

Your Course

Year 1
You will develop a solid grounding in anatomy and medical physics along with introductory knowledge of patient health-care needs, professional communication techniques and ethical, legal and accountability issues. Introductory studies in medical radiation and radiotherapy techniques are complemented with practical sessions using equipment in clinical departments. You will learn a range of skills including patient data acquisition, radiation dosimetry and the basic techniques of treatment delivery including beam direction and beam defining devices.

Year 2
You will progress to further studies in anatomy and pathology as well as the planning of complex techniques like photon therapy, electron therapy, and megavoltage therapy, including techniques for specific sites. The use of computer software to assist with the optimisation of isodose distributions will be covered along with issues related to the interaction of radiation with tissue, dose measurement and related quality assurance procedures. You will undertake practical exercises in hospital clinical departments along with your first clinical placement period, allowing you to gain real experience in a working environment.

Year 3
You will continue to develop your skills through clinical placements in hospitals and practical classes using equipment in clinical settings. You will cover the techniques of medical imaging used in the detection of cancer, along with future directions of three dimensional treatment planning. You will progress to more complex and specialised techniques for child patients and patients with communicable disease, along with the latest developments and techniques complementary to the modern radiotherapy treatment of cancer. You will learn important information about the biological effects of ionising radiation and the philosophy and protocol in radiation protection and quality assurance.

Health Information Management

Graduates of the Bachelor of Health Science (Health Information Management) are eligible for membership of the Health Information Management Association of Australia (HIMAA), the Clinical Coders Society of Australia (CCSA), and the Australian College of Health Service Executives (ACHSE).

Health Services Management

Graduates of the Bachelor of Health Science (Health Services Management) are eligible for membership of the Australian College of Health Service Executives (ACHSE).

Public Health

Graduates are eligible for membership of the Public Health Association of Australia (PHAA) and the Australian Health Promotion Association (AHPA).

Honours

Students who obtain high results throughout the course can study an additional one-year honours degree. Honours consists of a research component, which increases career opportunities and opens the way to further studies at PhD level.

Course design

The Health Information Management program has set units to be completed, that is, there are no opportunities to complete electives.

The Health Services Management program consists of a major in health services management, plus:
- a major in public health or
- two minors or
- one minor and four electives.

Minor/electives are available in the areas of:
- accounting and finance
- public health
- human resource management
- indigenous health
- international business
- management
- marketing
- gender issues
- science*
- general electives

The Public Health program consists of a major in public health plus the opportunity to select from one of the following minors/electives in the areas of:
- community nutrition
- indigenous health
- gender issues
- science*
- general studies in psychology
- counselling
- general electives

* Completion of the science minor is a prerequisite for entry into postgraduate courses, e.g. Graduate Diploma in Environmental Health.

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Bachelor of Health Science (Nutrition and Dietetics)

International Subject prerequisites

- Maths B
- English
- Chemistry

You must have achieved this study at a level comparable to Australian Year 12 or in recognised post-secondary studies.

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.5
writing	6.5
reading	6.5
listening	6.5
overall	7.0

Professional Recognition

Graduates of this four year full-time program will be professional dietitians, eligible to apply for the Accredited Practising Dietitian (APD) credential as well as membership of the Dietitians Association of Australia (DAA), the Public Health Association of Australia (PHAA), Sports Medicine Australia (SMA), the Nutrition Society and other bodies.

Electives

Elective studies are available in health promotion, counselling, clinical science, exercise science, research methods and projects.

Honours

A degree with honours may be awarded to students who have recorded outstanding achievement in the four-year program.

Other course requirements

additional costs Students who are required to undertake placements off campus may incur additional costs (for example travel and accommodation). Hepatitis B vaccination and Blue Card clearance are required before placement in Queensland Health and Education facilities.

blue card As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Year 1
You will begin to develop a theoretical knowledge base in chemistry, anatomy, food science, principles of food and nutrition and be introduced to contemporary health services and public health issues which will be relevant to you in your future careers in the health sector. Tutorials, workshops and a range of resources and activities will also facilitate the development of practical skills.

Year 2
Building on the foundational studies from your first year, you will develop a more consolidated and in-depth knowledge of biochemistry, physiology and nutritional science. You will also be introduced to epidemiology and evidence based practice.

Year 3
You will now apply and contextualise knowledge and skills gained in the first 2 years, in units focussed on potential future areas of dietetic practice, such as medical nutrition therapy, food service management and public health nutrition. Combined with health promotion, nutrition education principles and quantitative analysis for health, these units further develop important skills in researching, critical analysis and practical application. This practice will be consolidated in advanced food studies and introduction to dietetic practice.

Year 4
This year predominantly involves practice based placements which allow you to work with and assist qualified practitioners in real world settings. You will demonstrate competency by managing individual cases in hospitals and undertaking food service management and community nutrition projects in varied settings such as hospitals, community health centres, schools or business organisations throughout Queensland. Advanced dietetic management and research skills will also be applied in final year projects.

Overview

This program gives graduates of medical science or health science- related degrees, such as Human Movement Studies, Nursing, Biomedical Science, the opportunity for a career change into a professionally accredited program that offers good employment opportunities.

NOTE:
Students are required to attend a compulsory program of study as part of the requirements of the foundation unit PUB442 Podiatric Medicine and Clinical Practice in the week 16 – 20 July that will involve on-campus attendance for the full

5 days. This program will prepare students for the more advanced podiatry units in the third and fourth year of the course.

Hepatitis B vaccination and the attainment of a current First Aid Certificate is required before beginning clinical placements. This should be done early in the program.

Why choose this course?

If you possess good communication skills and a people-oriented personality and would like to help people with foot and lower limb disorders including sport-related conditions and those in special needs groups, then you may enjoy a career in podiatry.

QUT offers the only course in podiatry in Queensland. It features an on-campus clinic where students treat patients under the supervision of experienced clinical lecturers.

Podiatry staff have excellent, established health and medical industry links and the course has a strong reputation recognised throughout Australia and overseas.

This course will prepare you with an understanding of human anatomy, biomolecular science, pharmacology, dermatology, and clinical medicine and surgery. You will also learn how to integrate aspects of podiatric surgery, physical therapy, rehabilitation and counselling into the patient interaction.

Career Options

Employment opportunities for podiatry graduates are excellent. In recent years the number of positions available exceeded the number of graduates.

Podiatry graduates work in a broad range of health care setting including private practice, hospitals or community health centres.

Advanced standing

Students are awarded 1.5 years advanced standing which recognises their health/science related background. This leaves 2.5 years of study to complete the Bachelor of Health Science (Podiatry).

Because of the specialised nature of the program advanced standing will be limited to 144 credit points of study on entry.

Additional course requirements

Students are required to attend a compulsory program of study as part of the requirements of the foundation unit PUB442 Podiatric Medicine and Clinical Practice in the week 16 – 20 July that will involve on-campus attendance for the full 5 days. Domestic Entry requirements

Prior study entry requirements

Completion of a degree in a health field in the last 10 years.

Applicants with a degree completed more than 10 years ago must provide evidence of graduate work experience and/or further studies since course completion.

If offered a place you will be awarded the equivalent of one year of credit for prior learning (advanced standing) and complete the course in two years full-time study.

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

A uniform is required for Paramedic placements. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

The Queensland Ambulance Service strongly advises students to be immunised against the following before undertaking a clinical placement: Tetanus, Measles, Mumps, Rubella and Poliomyelitis.

Students will need to cover this cost.

Criminal History Check

You are required to provide evidence of a Criminal History Check (National/Federal) prior to participating in clinical placement. Failing to do so may result in you not being able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Criminal History Checks are obtained through your nearest police station, at your own cost.

Health related fitness assessment

A large component of a Paramedic's work involves manual handling, which is defined as any activity requiring a person to lift, lower, push, pull, carry, move, hold or restrain any animate or inanimate object. Paramedics frequently perform all of these functions with patients weighing up to and over 150kg, while implementing various pre-hospital emergency care procedures. As such, students will be required to undergo a fitness assessment to ensure they possess the cardiovascular and muscular abilities to perform the role of a paramedic.

Students will need to cover the cost of the assessment.

Psychometric assessment

This is a prerequisite for PUB670 - Internship (Paramedic Clinical Practice)

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Orientation program

A one-week Orientation Program, Transition to Paramedic Studies, is conducted on campus in the week preceding the first week of semester (Orientation Week). No credit points are awarded for completing the program and there are no costs to students.

The aim of this program is to familiarise students with the significant clinical aspects of the units PUB180 and PUB280 (Foundations of Paramedic Practice 1 and 2) which students completing the full three year program complete but graduate entry students do not.

This transition program is important for students' understanding of PUB390 and PUB391 (Paramedic Management of Medical and Surgical Emergencies A and B) in the first semester of their programs and is integral to understanding of the clinical component of paramedic practice.

Other course requirements

The Queensland Ambulance Service specifies the following requirements before students can undertake a clinical placement with this Service. Information outlining these requirements will be available to all prospective applicants. Students will be provided with detailed information during semester one of first year.

a) Health Assessment - One role performed by paramedics is patient transport involving the use of a commercial vehicle. This requires different medical standards than those required of a private vehicle driver. Student paramedics may be required to drive an ambulance while undertaking the clinical practice units and as such will be required to undergo an "Assessment of Fitness to Drive a commercial vehicle" by a medical practitioner. All costs associated with health assessment are the responsibility of the applicant.

b) Criminal History - Applicants will be required to have a Police Records Check undertaken with the associated costs being the responsibility of the applicant.

c) Health Related Fitness Assessment - A large component of a Paramedic's work involves manual handling, which is defined as any activity requiring a person to lift, lower, push, pull, carry, move, hold or restrain any animate or inanimate object. Paramedics frequently perform all of these functions with patients weighing up to and over 150kg, while implementing various pre-hospital emergency care procedures. As such, students will be required to undergo a fitness assessment to ensure they possess the cardiovascular and muscular abilities to perform the role of a Paramedic.

d) Immunisations - It is a requirement for any student to be immunised against Hepatitis B before undertaking a placement in a Queensland Health facility. In addition to the above, QAS strongly advises students to be immunised against the following before undertaking a clinical placement: Tetanus, Measles, Mumps, Rubella, and Poliomyelitis.

e) Psychometric assessment (prerequisite for PUB670) - This applies only to continuing students who are completing PUB670.

You will be required to cover additional costs associated with this course including the requirements above (total cost approximately $1,200).

Professional recognition

Graduates from this course will be eligible for membership of Paramedics Australasia.

International student entry

This course is not available for international student entry.

Honours

Many graduates wish to pursue careers in professional areas of psychology. To do so you must be registered with the Psychology Board of Australia. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in psychology (eg Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Honours Psychology) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology), followed by either two years of supervised work experience or the completion of an appropriate higher degree such as a Doctor of Psychology (Clinical), Master of Clinical Psychology or Master of Psychology (Educational and Developmental).

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC).

Career Outcomes

This course provides a solid foundation for the areas tested in GAMSAT. Many opportunities are also available for postgraduate study in health and science, including honours and postgraduate qualifications leading to careers in medical research. The Bachelor of Biomedical Science is also designed for students seeking a science-based qualification that will lead to employment opportunities in medical biotechnology, medical microbiology and clinical biochemistry fields.

Professional Recognition

Depending on the units selected in the final year of the course, graduates will be eligible for membership into one or more of the following organisations: Australian Association of Clinical Biochemists (AACB), AusBiotech Ltd, Australian Society for Microbiology (ASM).

Domestic Course structure

Your Course

Year 1

You will undertake units covering chemistry, physics, anatomy, pathology and cell biology, providing a solid knowledge base for the topics covered later in the course. With QUT's practical approach to teaching, you will not only learn the theory, but gain a wealth of practical experience in state-of-the-art laboratories. You will also gain an introduction to the essential communication skills required for a career in the health and medical professions.

Year 2

More advanced studies in cell biology combine with units in physiology, biochemistry, microbiology and human rights and ethics. If you wish to proceed to postgraduate medicine studies, you will have the opportunity to attend information sessions on the GAMSAT exam.

Year 3

You will have some flexibility in subject choices to allow you to tailor the qualification to suit your desired career outcomes. You may choose to take units in medical biotechnology, clinical biochemistry, or microbiology (including parasitology) and there are also opportunities to complement your scientific studies with topics such as anatomical imaging, psychology, exercise physiology, indigenous issues or ethical issues related to gene technology.

Course Design

The Bachelor of Biomedical Science comprises first-year studies in chemistry, physics, anatomy, pathology and cell biology, providing a solid knowledge base for the topics covered later in the course. Units in the second and third years combine advanced studies with theoretical, practical, and problem-solving skills. Several units in the area of humanities and applied health are an integral part of the course.

The Bachelor of Biomedical Science provides the necessary knowledge and skills to enter a career in biomedical research, with integration of research design and implementation, scientific writing and communication and practical laboratory skills embedded through each year of the course.

Furthermore students will be well prepared to sit GAMSAT which is designed to evaluate mastery and use of concepts in basic science as well as the acquisition of more general skills in problem solving, critical thinking and writing. The Bachelor of Biomedical Science provides a solid grounding in GAMSAT testing areas: reasoning in humanities and social sciences, written communication, reasoning in biological and physical sciences (including chemistry, biology and physics).

Working with Children Check: Blue Card

A Blue Card will be required if the placement component of this course involves working with children or young people. There's no cost if you apply through QUT.

Submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible - ideally, as soon as you've received your offer.

If you don't receive your Blue Card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may be unable to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still have to pay fees for the unit.

How to apply for a Blue Card

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Overview

QUT's Bachelor of Pharmacy has been designed in close consultation with the pharmacy profession to capture the latest practices and emerging trends in community and hospital pharmacy. Pharmacists play an important role in the health-care sector by dispensing medications and counselling patients on their appropriate use.

Why Choose This Course

This course is continually updated in close consultation with senior representatives of the pharmacy profession. The inclusion of essential pharmacy and business management skills will help you to operate effectively in your chosen setting. QUT's small class sizes and comprehensive modern facilities ensure a high-quality educational experience.

Professional Recognition

Following graduation, approximately 12 months of pre-registration training performed under the supervision of a registered pharmacist is required to meet the registration requirements of the Pharmacists Board of Queensland.

Graduates will be eligible for membership of a number of professional associations, including the Pharmaceutical Society of Australia, the Pharmacy Guild and the Society of Hospital Pharmacists of Australia.

English Language Skills (Applicable to health practitioners applying for registration)
All applicants must be able to demonstrate English language skills at IELTS academic level 7.5 or equivalent. Test results from examinations will generally need to be obtained within two years prior to applying for registration.

Other Course Requirements

You must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and provide a post-vaccination pathological report or similar certification showing proof of immunity prior to undertaking your first clinical placement.

Blue card
A current blue card authorised with QUT may be required prior to commencing the clinical placement components of this course. For more information visit Blue Card, and ensure that you allow adequate time for processing your application and issuing of the card in order to avoid clinical experience delays.

Your Course

Year 1
You will undertake theoretical and practical studies covering chemistry, maths, anatomy and biology. You will begin practising your communication skills in QUT's pharmacy counselling room, which operates like a real pharmacy counter. You will gain an understanding of the operations of a community pharmacy, including prescription processing, product labelling, and the therapeutic use of over-the-counter (OTC) medications. You will also gain an introduction to retailing skills.

Year 2
You will undertake your first clinical placement in a real community pharmacy environment. At QUT you will expand your counselling skills and increase your knowledge regarding a range of OTC and prescription medications used to treat cardiovascular and gastrointestinal tract disorders. You will learn how to perform pharmaceutical calculations, prepare basic pharmaceutical products and gain a deeper understanding of how drugs interact with the human body, producing their therapeutic and sometimes adverse effects.

Year 3
You will proceed to topics which provide vital information to health professionals regarding the optimal choice of drug therapy for individual patients. There is an emphasis on drugs used to treat central nervous system disorders, in addition to drugs prescribed for cancer and infectious diseases. You will learn how to prepare more complex product formulations and spend three hours per week in a community or hospital pharmacy followed by a one-week full-time clinical placement in each semester.

Year 4
You will study further specialised topics including pharmacotherapeutics, epidemiology and pharmacoeconomics. There is an emphasis on the integration and application of your studies into current pharmacy practice. A range of guest lecturers will also present material regarding social issues and current practices in women's and Indigenous health.

Student registration

QUT automatically registers students in this course with the Pharmacy Board of Australia in accordance with the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law Act 2009. Details about student registration are available from the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency at www.ahpra.gov.au

Year 4
You will study further specialised topics including pharmacotherapeutics, epidemiology and pharmacoeconomics. There is an emphasis on the integration and application of your studies into current pharmacy practice. A range of guest lecturers will also present material regarding social issues and current practices in women's and Indigenous health.

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: Blue Card

A Blue Card will be required if the placement component of this course involves working with children or young people. There's no cost if you apply through QUT.

Submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible - ideally, as soon as you've received your offer.

If you don't receive your Blue Card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may be unable to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still have to pay fees for the unit.

How to apply for a Blue Card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- Physics
- Maths B
- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Overview

This course leads to employment as a medical imaging technologist or diagnostic radiographer, a rewarding profession. Radiographers play an important role in the healthcare sector, providing vital information to assist with the diagnosis and treatment of medical disorders.

Why choose this course?

This course is designed in consultation with clinical staff from radiology departments, so you will gain advanced knowledge of new diagnostic techniques and equipment used in the workplace. QUT's well-equipped X-ray laboratories allow you to graduate with experience using equipment and techniques used in industry. Clinical placements in hospitals and private practices provide an opportunity to use your skills in a real workplace.

Career Outcomes

As a radiographer you will play a key role in patient care by providing referring medical practitioners with additional diagnostic information to assist in patient management and treatment. You may become a team member in a radiology department in a hospital, private radiology practice or health department, or you may be employed in medical equipment sales.

Professional Recognition

On graduation, students will be eligible for provisional accreditation by the Australian Institute of Radiography. Full membership requires the completion of an additional professional development year of clinical experience.

English Language Skills (Applicable to health practitioners applying for registration)
All applicants must be able to demonstrate English language skills at IELTS academic level 7 or equivalent. Test results from examinations will generally need to be obtained within two years prior to applying for registration.

Other Course Requirements

You are required to undertake clinical experience in hospital departments and private practices during the course and, as a result, will have direct patient contact during the clinical placement, and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. You must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post-vaccination pathological report or similar certification showing proof of immunity prior to undertaking the first clinical placement.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) certification is also required to undertake clinical placements. In addition, you must satisfy criteria related to health status. You should declare height, physical disabilities, treatment of nervous condition, any drug/alcohol disorder, and a current immunisation status (specifically Hepatitis B) as part of the online enrolment process.

A current Blue Card authorised with QUT may be required prior to commencing the clinical placement components of this course. For more information visit Blue Card, and ensure that you allow adequate time for processing your application and issuing of the card in order to avoid clinical experience delays.

Your Course

Year 1
You will develop a solid grounding in anatomy and medical physics along with introductory knowledge of patient healthcare needs, professional communication techniques and ethical, legal and accountability issues. Introductory studies in medical radiation technology are complemented with practical sessions in QUT's medical imaging laboratories, allowing you to develop your skills in patient positioning and image production for skeletal radiography.

Year 2
Building on your introductory units, you will progress to more advanced and specialised study of human anatomy including diseases of the organ systems, obstetrics, gynaecology, central nervous system, paediatrics and geriatrics. Specialised practical sessions in QUT's facilities will focus on regional anatomy of the head, neck, upper limb and lower limb. You will learn about the specialist techniques of mammography, tomography, trauma radiography, and ward and operating theatre radiography. In each semester you will have an opportunity to practise your skills in a real workplace through placements in clinical departments.

Year 3
You will continue to develop your skills through clinical placements in hospitals or private practices. At QUT, you will undertake theoretical and practical classes in advanced techniques such as angiography, and interventional techniques. In-depth knowledge of the uses and applications of X-ray computed tomography (CT) and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) will be covered along with valuable techniques in digital image processing. You will round off your professional education by learning about the techniques used in professional practice including image formation evaluation and image interpretation.

Overview

QUT is currently the only university in Queensland to offer a radiation therapy undergraduate qualification. This course leads to employment as a radiation therapist, assisting cancer patients at the most difficult time in their lives.

Why choose this course

QUT works closely with the health sector in an effort to ensure that the number of graduates is in line with demand. In recent years, more than 95 per cent of graduates gained full-time employment within four months of graduation.

This course is designed in consultation with clinical staff from radiation oncology departments, so you will gain advanced knowledge of new treatment techniques and equipment used in the workplace. QUT's well equipped laboratories allow you to graduate with experience using treatment planning equipment and techniques similar to those used in industry. Close links with local oncology departments allow you to complete practical work and clinical placements using specialised, state-of-the-art radiotherapy equipment.

Career Outcomes

As a radiation therapist in a radiotherapy department of a major hospital or private institution, you may become a member of a team treating cancer patients and be responsible for planning and delivering prescribed radiation doses.

Professional Recognition

Provisional accreditation by the Australian Institute of Radiography is being sought. Full accreditation requires the completion of an additional professional development year of clinical experience.

English Language Skills (Applicable to health practitioners applying for registration)
All applicants must be able to demonstrate English language skills at IELTS academic level 7 or equivalent. Test results from examinations will generally need to be obtained within two years prior to applying for registration.

International Student Entry

International students may be offered a place in Radiation Therapy on condition they have met the Clinical Placement requirement. Please refer to Course Coordinator for further information.

You will develop a solid grounding in anatomy and medical physics along with introductory knowledge of patient health-care needs, professional communication techniques and ethical, legal and accountability issues. Introductory studies in medical radiation and radiotherapy techniques are complemented with practical sessions using equipment in clinical departments. You will learn a range of skills including patient data acquisition, radiation dosimetry and the basic techniques of treatment delivery including beam direction and beam defining devices.

Year 2
You will progress to further studies in anatomy and pathology as well as the planning of complex techniques like photon therapy, electron therapy, and megavoltage therapy, including techniques for specific sites. The use of computer software to assist with the optimisation of isodose distributions will be covered along with issues related to the interaction of radiation with tissue, dose measurement and related quality assurance procedures. You will undertake practical exercises in hospital clinical departments along with your first clinical placement period, allowing you to gain real experience in a working environment.

Year 3
You will continue to develop your skills through clinical placements in hospitals and practical classes using equipment in clinical settings. You will cover the techniques of medical imaging used in the detection of cancer, along with future directions of three dimensional treatment planning. You will progress to more complex and specialised techniques for child patients and patients with communicable disease, along with the latest developments and techniques complementary to the modern radiotherapy treatment of cancer. You will learn important information about the biological effects of ionising radiation and the philosophy and protocol in radiation protection and quality assurance.

Course Outline

This course has been recoded SW03 from HH02 for commencing students. Continuing students will continue to enrol in HH02 in 2010 and subsequent years.

The Bachelor of Human Services has a strong focus on contemporary social issues and produces competent human services workers who will care for and protect the rights of people, families and communities. You will complete 24 units of study.

You will specialise in at least one service area:
- child and family services
- corrective services
- disability services
- services to young people

You will develop a range of professional skills such as:
- casework and case management
- social policy processes
- team practice and group processes
- community work
- advanced communication
- social research methods
- Indigenous Australia
- child protection intervention
- human dimensions of space

Professional Practice Placements

You will gain hands-on experience in this course through two professional practice placements.

In first semester of your second year you will explore the diversity of practice methods through the Introduction to Practice. You will undertake a total of 140 hours of volunteer placement/s in a human service agency.

Your theoretical and practical studies will culminate in a 36 credit point Advanced Professional Practice placement in second semester of your third year. This placement will generally reflect your specialised service context area. You will develop a learning plan in consultation with your agency supervisor and a university staff member. During this 400-hour supervised placement in a human services agency, you will further develop your assessment and intervention skills and your own practice framework. It may be possible to undertake this 12 week placement with an overseas agency.

These professional practice placements provide many valuable opportunities for networking within the human services industry.

NOTE: Students considering undertaking a placement in a Queensland Health facility should note that a Hepatitis B vaccination is mandatory before commencement of the placement.

Service Contexts

CHILD AND FAMILY SERVICES
Child and family services units provide you with a firm grounding in theories, practices and processes essential for understanding and intervening in family life. You will be introduced to child and family welfare studies and will focus on approaches to supporting families and promoting change. You will also examine core processes and practice skills associated with interacting with children and parents, assessing family life and encouraging participation in decision making.

CORRECTIVE SERVICES
The Community and Youth Corrections unit provides the legislative framework and structures, processes and principles of the youth and criminal justice system. It explores evidence based interventions and provides practice models and assessment frameworks. It provides theory and practice skills for working with Indigenous people and examines the role of practitioners in youth Justice Services and the Department of Corrective Services. The unit's primary orientation is to provide you with a structured opportunity to analyse and understand the operation of the Queensland community and youth corrections settings with offenders and those who are at risk of offending.

DISABILITY SERVICES
Disability services units provide you with a solid foundation for understanding and evaluating the theories, principles, practices and policies underpinning services used by people with disabilities. The aim is to link the social justice, empowerment and human rights issues explored in the more generic units within the degree program to the lives of people with disabilities. You will have the opportunity to explore and evaluate the range of service models relevant to the lifestyles of people with disabilities. The units focus on the quasi-legal and policy aspects of working in disability service organisations, and address some of the ethical dilemmas inherent in human service provision to people with a disability.

SERVICES TO YOUNG PEOPLE
These units help you understand and identify the various ways youth and adolescence are understood, constructed and portrayed in mainstream media, academic literature and human services. You will critically review the situation of a diverse range of young people and will investigate the knowledge, theory and skills base of a range of contemporary practice arenas, such as juvenile justice and adolescent child protection practice, youth homelessness, youth policy analysis and development.

Professional Recognition

Graduates are entitled to apply for membership of the Australian Institute of Welfare and Community Workers.

Other course requirements

Blue Card
As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. Application form

Hepatitis vaccination
Students considering undertaking a placement in a Queensland Health facility should note that a Hepatitis B vaccination is mandatory before commencement of the placement.

Overview

This course has been recoded SW04 from HH05 for for commencing students in 2010 and subsequent years. Continuing students will continue to enrol in HH05 in 2010 and subsequent years.

The Social Work course is modern in design, flexible in delivery and grounded in the real world of practice. It aims to develop effective and ethical social work professionals who are skilled and practical. The teaching staff have extensive experience as social workers, counsellors, political activists and welfare lobbyists. They are passionate about changing systems and structures that result in human suffering and injustice. The course draws on the strong relationships that have been established with government and community agencies at the State, National and International levels. There is a significant emphasis on promoting an inclusive society based on principles of social justice and human rights and respect for the wellbeing and dignity of all people.

Other course requirements

Blue Card

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

As soon as students accept their offer into the course, they should submit their Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. Students must hold a Blue Card to undertake placement units (SWB309 and SWB408) which may involve contact with children.

If students do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, they will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. Application form

Hepatitis B vaccination

Hepatitis B vaccination is mandatory before beginning placements.

Professional Recognition

Graduates are eligible to apply for membership of the Australian Association of Social Workers (AASW).

Course Structure

The Bachelor of Social Work can be undertaken as either a four year undergraduate program or as an advanced standing two year (5 semester) program following two years of approved undergraduate study. This pathway includes a summer teaching placement.

Students may undertake the course in part-time mode. Students wishing to study part-time should contact the Course Coordinator for a progression plan.

Students will complete specialist units in child and family services, corrective services, disability services, or services to young people. Distinctive study pathways are also available. The child protection pathway will enable students to choose core and elective units which will best prepare them for practice in statutory child protection settings such as the Queensland Department of Child Safety. The international practice pathway will provide students with the knowledge and opportunity to undertake social work practice in other national contexts, and give them priority in undertaking a major placement in an overseas agency. The research pathway provides students with the knowledge and skills to undertake research designed to improve services and creates a solid foundation for postgraduate research programs.

The social work program involves two placements, each of 490 hours, where the student's skills are further developed in real world settings. Students are able to graduate with honours on the basis of achieving a GPA of a certain standard.

Advanced Standing Program

Advanced Standing allows approved applicants who have completed at least two years of a university degree in a relevant area to complete the Social Work course with a further two calendar years (5 semesters) of full time study. Relevant areas of previous study are:

•Justice Studies
•Law
•Education
•Arts (Humanities)
•Social Sciences
•Psychology or Behavioural Sciences
•Community Welfare and Human Services programs from other universities
•Health including Nursing

As part of this prior study, it is expected students will have completed some units with a focus on social studies, behavioural studies, and interpersonal skills. The number of units in addition to the requirements of the standard 2 Year Advanced Standing Program that students can be required to undertake is limited to two (24 credit points).

If the previous study includes no social studies students can be required to undertake one unit with a focus on
• understanding society,
• social disadvantage,
• human rights or

If the previous study includes no behavioural studies, students can be required to undertake SWB102 Human Development and Behaviour or similar. Further, students may be required to undertake PYB007 Interpersonal Processes and Skills if previous studies have not included a unit with a focus on interpersonal communication.

Students seeking Advanced Standing should apply for entry to the four year Bachelor of Social Work program and apply for advanced standing (credit) - up to 168 credit points - for previous study. Students who have completed or partly completed a human services degree from QUT should apply for entry to the four year program, and may receive up to 192 credit points. Advice on likely credit can be provided by the Bachelor of Social Work Course Coordinator. Note, that while these guidelines govern advanced standing arrangements, final outcomes will be decided once formal application has been made.

It should be noted that in undertaking the 2 Year Advanced Standing course structure students will undertake their first field placement in the summer semester of the first year following two semesters of preparatory units. Those who enter the program in mid-year will undertake their first field placement in the summer following their first semester. Students will need to be available through the summer (November to February) in order to complete the fieldwork component.

No new admissions are being accepted into this course.

Course Structure

This course consists of 16 units each from the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Human Services. The arts course structure allows you maximum flexibility to mix and match study units in a diverse range of themes including international, Australian, contemporary, historical, environmental, ethics, social change and language studies. In human services, you will acquire a range of professional skills and will specialise in a practice field from child and family services, aged services, corrective services, disability services, or services to young people.

Refer to the Bachelor of Arts (HH01) and Bachelor of Human Services (HH02) entries for further details.

Professional Practice Placements

As part of the Human Services component, you will have the opportunity to apply knowledge and skills through two supervised, professional practice placements in human service organisations.

You will first explore the diversity of practice methods through the Introduction to Practice. You will undertake a total of 140 hours of volunteer placement/s in a human service agency.

Your theoretical and practical studies will culminate in a 36 credit point Advanced Professional Practice placement in your final year. This placement will generally reflect your specialised service context area. You will develop a learning plan in consultation with your agency supervisor and a university staff member. During this 400-hour supervised placement in a human services agency, you will further develop your assessment and intervention skills and your own practice framework. It may be possible to undertake this 12 week placement with an overseas agency.

These professional practice placements provide many valuable opportunities for networking within the human services industry.

Working with Children Check

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) by the Commission.

As soon as you enter your enrolment program for the course, you must submit your Blue Card application to the QUT Student Centre immediately. You must hold a Blue Card to undertake activities in any unit which involves contact with children, including the required field studies blocks.

If you do not apply for a Blue Card immediately upon enrolment in the course and allow sufficient time for the police check and issuing of the Card, you will be unable to participate in the required activities and may need to be withdrawn from the unit(s) and incur both financial and academic penalty. It may take up to 8 weeks for the Commission to issue the Card. The application form is available at student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Professional Membership (Bachelor of Human Services)

Graduates are entitled to apply for membership of the Australian Welfare and community Workers. (Accreditation application is currently in process).

Eligibility for Graduation

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

Uniform

A QUT T-shirt is required for Exercise and Movement Science and Clinical Exercise Physiology courses. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Orientation camp

First year students have the option of attending an orientation camp. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- Maths B
- English
- Chemistry

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Overview

This course was replaced by HL23 Bachelor of Nursing/ Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science from first semester 2010.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in HL40 Bachelor of Nursing/ Bachelor of Applied Science (in Human Movement Studies).

This double degree will prepare you as a multi-skilled professional who meets current requirements for employment in nursing and is able to apply your knowledge and skills to clinical health, fitness and rehabilitation.

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Nursing is recognised by the Royal College of Nursing, Australia as satisfying the academic requirements for admission as a professional member. It is also an accredited nursing preregistration course of the Queensland Nursing Council (QNC). For further information on QNC registration visit www.qnc.qld.gov.au

Other Course Requirements

The clinical practice units in the nursing component require you to undertake block practicums of two or more weeks duration during semester. You will be required to wear a uniform while on clinical practice, the cost of which is approximately $150. You will be required to complete a course of vaccinations for Hepatitis B before commencing your clinical practice units and you are also required to have a current Senior First Aid Certificate or the equivalent prior to commencement of Clinical Practice 1. Total cost for uniform, footwear, first aid certificate and Hepatitis B vaccination is approximately $500.

The human movement studies component requires the purchase of the practicum shirt (approximately $50).

Attendance at the orientation camp is highly recommended though not compulsory (approximately $115).

Students undertaking a clinical placement in a Queensland Health facility are required to complete "The Essentials" component of the student orientation package, available on the Queensland Health website.

blue card Students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card prior to undertaking clinical practice in an organisation which may involve contact with children and young people. This is a mandatory requirement that must be met prior to undertaking any field experience/practicum program throughout your course.

Overview

This course was replaced by HL22 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science/ Bachelor of Health Science (Nutrition and Dietetics) from first semester 2010.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in HL42 Bachelor of Applied Science (Human Movement Studies)/Bachelor of Health Science (Nutrition and Dietetics).

This double degree program will prepare you as a multi-skilled professional who meets current requirements for employment as a nutritionist/dietitian, and in a range of exercise and sports science professions. At present, the demand for sports nutritionists is growing rapidly and there is a growing field in the area of rehabilitation science for people with dual qualifications.

Professional recognition

Graduates are eligible for membership of the Dietitians Association of Australia (DAA), and may enrol in the Accredited Practising Dietitian (APD) program.

Honours

A degree with honours may be awarded to a student who has recorded outstanding achievement in a component of the double degree program.

Other Course Requirements

There are additional costs associated with this course including the purchase of the practicum shirt (approximately $50), attainment of a current first aid certificate prior to the commencement of your third year, and a Blue Card to work with children depending upon the practicum site. Attendance at the orientation camp is highly recommended though not compulsory (approximately $115).

Students who are required to undertake placements off-campus may incur additional costs (for example travel and accommodation). Hepatitis B vaccination is required before placement in Queensland Health facilities.

Overview

This course was replaced by HL24 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science/ Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) from first semester 2010.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in HL45 Bachelor of Applied Science (in Human Movement Studies)/Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology).

This course develops skills and knowledge in exercise and sports science and psychology to understand the exercise response when working in the areas of health, rehabilitation and sport. On completion of this double degree, students have the option to apply for an additional year of study in psychology, in order to gain provisional registration as a psychologist.

Professional recognition

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council. To pursue a career in a professional area of psychology you must be registered with your state registration board. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in psychology (eg Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Honours Psychology) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology), followed by either two years of supervised work experience or the completion of an appropriate higher degree such as a Doctor of Psychology (Clinical), Master of Clinical Psychology or Master of Psychology (Educational and Developmental).

Domestic Entry requirements

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical practice units in semester breaks

The clinical practice units in the nursing component require you to undertake block practicums of two or more weeks, which may be scheduled during semester breaks.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA).

Overview

This course was replaced by HL21 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science/ Bachelor of Health Science (Public Health) from first semester 2010.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in HL48 Bachelor of Applied Science (in Human Movement Studies)/Bachelor of Health Science (Public Health).

This double degree program will prepare you as a multi-skilled professional who will have an understanding of exercise and sports science and public health. Graduates may work in the area of physical activity to develop policy and programs to improve the health of the public and to help prevent and manage chronic disease.

The human movement studies component develops skills for careers in health and wellness, clinical health, fitness and rehabilitation, workplace health, fitness and safety. Teaching clinics give students practical experience in various areas such as activity and weight management, health and fitness, and exercise prescription.

The public health component provides the knowledge and skills to address major health issues both nationally and internationally with a focus on assessment of a population¿s health needs and strategies to meet them. Students gain an understanding of health care planning, community health, health promotion, the health needs of Indigenous Australians and project management.

Professional Recognition

Public Health Association of Australia (PHAA), and the Australian Health Promotion Association (AHPA).

Domestic Entry requirements

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

A uniform is required for Paramedic placements. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Vaccination

The Queensland Ambulance Service strongly advises students to be immunised against the following before undertaking a clinical placement: Tetanus, Measles, Mumps, Rubella and Poliomyelitis.

Students will need to cover this cost.

Criminal History Check

You are required to provide evidence of a Criminal History Check (National/Federal) prior to participating in clinical placement. Failing to do so may result in you not being able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Criminal History Checks are obtained through your nearest police station, at your own cost.

Health related fitness assessment

A large component of a Paramedic's work involves manual handling, which is defined as any activity requiring a person to lift, lower, push, pull, carry, move, hold or restrain any animate or inanimate object. Paramedics frequently perform all of these functions with patients weighing up to and over 150kg, while implementing various pre-hospital emergency care procedures. As such, students will be required to undergo a fitness assessment to ensure they possess the cardiovascular and muscular abilities to perform the role of a paramedic.

Students will need to cover the cost of the assessment.

Psychometric assessment

This is a prerequisite for PUB670 - Internship (Paramedic Clinical Practice)

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical practice units in semester breaks

The clinical practice units in the nursing component require you to undertake block practicums of two or more weeks, which may be scheduled during semester breaks.

Other course requirements

blue card: As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000) students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Card (Blue Card) before commencing field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. This is a mandatory requirement that must be met prior to undertaking any field experience/practicum program throughout your course. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

The nursing clinical practice units require students to undertake block practicums of two or more weeks duration. Block practicums may be scheduled during semester breaks. Students will be required to wear a uniform including suitable footwear while on clinical practice. Students enrolling in this program are required to complete a course of vaccinations for Hepatitis B before commencing their clinical practice units. They are also required to have a current Senior First Aid Certificate or the equivalent prior to commencement of Clinical Practice 1.

The Queensland Ambulance Service specifies the following requirements before students can undertake a clinical placement with this Service. Information outlining these requirements will be available to all prospective applicants. Students will be provided with detailed information during semester one of first year.

a) Health Assessment - One role performed by paramedics is patient transport involving the use of a commercial vehicle. This requires different medical standards than those required of a private vehicle driver. Student paramedics may be required to drive an ambulance while undertaking the clinical practice units and as such will be required to undergo an "Assessment of Fitness to Drive a commercial vehicle" by a medical practitioner. All costs associated with health assessment are the responsibility of the applicant.

b) Criminal History - Applicants will be required to have a Police Records Check undertaken with the associated costs being the responsibility of the applicant.

c) Health Related Fitness Assessment - A large component of a Paramedic's work involves manual handling, which is defined as any activity requiring a person to lift, lower, push, pull, carry, move, hold or restrain any animate or inanimate object. Paramedics frequently perform all of these functions with patients weighing up to and over 150kg, while implementing various pre-hospital emergency care procedures. As such, students will be required to undergo a fitness assessment to ensure they possess the cardiovascular and muscular abilities to perform the role of a Paramedic.

d) Immunisations - It is a requirement for any student to be immunised against Hepatitis B before undertaking a placement in a Queensland Health facility. In addition to the above, QAS strongly advises students to be immunised against the following before undertaking a clinical placement: Tetanus, Measles, Mumps, Rubella, and Poliomyelitis.

Additional costs

For the nursing component: $550 Uniform, footwear, first aid course, hepatitis B vaccination.

For the Paramedic component: $1,200 Uniform, health and fitness assessments, criminal record check, immunisations, psychometric assessment, equipment.

Domestic Entry requirements

Literacy course requirements

All Bachelor of Education students are required to satisfactorily complete assessment criteria relating to Queensland College of Teachers' (QCT) literacy standards by the end of year three of their course in order to meet the course and QCT professional accreditation requirements.

Literacy modules have been developed as a remedial action for students who do not attain satisfactory standards on the relevant literacy criterion during their assessment in the first year of their studies. Students will have the support of the First Year Experience Coordinator. Students may attempt these modules any number of times during the first three years of their program.

At the end of year three, unsatisfactory results within course work and these modules may result in a recommendation for an early exit from the four-year degree. The literacy requirement will also apply to double degree students with a slight variation.

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

Overview

This course has been replaced by IX17 Bachelor of Exercise and Movement Science/ Bachelor of Business from first semester 2010, therefore, there will be no further intake for this course.

Continuing students will complete their course requirements in IX47 Bachelor of Applied Science (in Human Movement Studies)/Bachelor of Business.

This double degree combines training for careers in a range of exercise and sports science settings with the strength of general business theory and skills.

Professional Recognition

Business component: Students may be eligible for membership to a number of professional bodies depending on choice of major and unit selection. Details on professional recognition can be found under the individual majors of the Bachelor of Business (BS05).

Course Design

Students are required to complete 408 credit points comprised of 216 credit points from the Bachelor of Applied Science (in Human Movement Studies) program and 192 credit points from the Bachelor of Business program.

Business component:
8 QUT Business School Core units (96 credit points)
8 Major Core units (all Business majors including Accountancy, Advertising, Banking & Finance (continuing students only), Economics, Finance, Human Resource Management, International Business, Management, Marketing and Public Relations) (96 credit points)

Please note that students must complete the special course requirements for (BS56/BS05) Bachelor of Business and (HM42) Bachelor of Applied Science degrees.

Other Course Requirements

There are additional costs associated with this course including the purchase of the practicum shirt (approximately $50), the attainment of a current first aid certificate prior to commencement of year three and a Blue Card to work with children depending upon the practicum site. Attendance at the orientation camp is highly recommended though not compulsory (approximately $115).

Professional recognition

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) component of the degree is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC).

To pursue a career in a professional area of psychology, you must be registered with the Psychology Board of Australia. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in psychology, e.g. Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Honours Psychology) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology, followed by either two years of supervised work experience or the completion of an appropriate higher degree such as Doctor of Psychology (Clinical), Master of Clinical Psychology or Master of Psychology (Educational and Developmental).

Business component: Business component: Students may be eligible for membership to a number of professional bodies depending on choice of major and unit selection. Details on professional recognition can be found under the individual majors of the Bachelor of Business (BS05).

Course Design

Students are required to complete 384 credit points comprised of 192 credit points from the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) program and 192 credit points from the Bachelor of Business.

The course structure for the Bachelor of Behavioural Science component of the double degree comprises the main APAC-accredited psychology core programme of 12 units as well as 4 psychology electives. The psychology core allows the student to complete a 3-year APAC-accredited psychology sequence across 4 years of study. On completion of the double degree program, a student then has the option to apply for entry to a Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Honours Psychology) or the Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology, in order to gain provisional registration as a psychologist.

The Business major can be selected from all majors offered within the BS05 Bachelor of Business. The Bachelor of Business component consists of eight core units*; and an additional eight discipline specific units from within the chosen major, offered at Gardens Point. Students choosing the Management or Marketing majors may undertake units at the Caboolture campus.

* Please note that the Business School Core Unit BSB123 Data Analysis is not required as the Psychology content covers similar topics. MGB223 Entrepreneurship and Innovation replaces this unit.

Bachelor of Business (Honours) Year Option

Students can apply for Bachelor of Business (Honours) (BS63) once they have completed the double degree program. Please click on BS63 for more details.

Important Information for Business Students

Domestic Entry requirements

Course requirements

Vaccination

You are required to undertake clinical experience in healthcare settings. As a result, you will have direct patient contact during the placement and may be exposed to blood and body fluids of patients. Consequently you must be vaccinated for Hepatitis B and must provide a post vaccination pathological report and a serology immunity report, or similar certification showing proof of immunity, prior to undertaking your first clinical placement. Students will need to cover this cost.

Off-campus placements

Students are required to undertake off-campus placements and will need to cover travel and accommodation costs.

Clinical placements with Queensland Health

Students are required to complete the Deed Poll and Orientation Package before participating in clinical placement in Queensland Health facilities. Failing to do so may result in you not able to participate in clinical placement and your grades may be affected. You may still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Overview

A double degree in justice and psychology offers you greater flexibility in your career. Combining skills in these two complementary areas, you will be able to apply psychological principles to the field of justice.

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) provides the first step towards a career as a registered psychologist and an excellent foundation for careers in a wide range of related areas. The course provides a broad foundation in the science of psychology and its application, developing your ability to understand and apply psychological principles to personal, social, and organisational issues, as well as high-level communication and social research skills that are valuable in a wide range of professions.

In addition to core studies in social, developmental, biological, cognitive, and abnormal psychology, research methods and psychological assessment, you can choose electives from specialist areas in alcohol and drugs, family therapy and counselling, psychology and gender, and traffic psychology. Final-year students have the opportunity to apply their knowledge and skills in a volunteer community placement.

The Bachelor of Justice equips graduates for a wide variety of employment in the criminal justice, government (state and federal), law enforcement and policing and intelligence fields. Past graduates have developed successful careers in the State or Federal police services, created social and justice policies for governments, contributed to the work of advocacy centres (eg. women, youth and children's advocacy), become criminologists, and advanced into Defence, Customs and the Australian Crime Commission.

Other popular career choices include corrections and human rights and anti-discrimination areas. Students are prepared for the workplace, not only by exploring the most recent theory and practice of social justice, but by including relevant general skills like problem-solving, analytical ability and applied computer skills that are relevant to the workplace.

Location

Psychology units are offered at Kelvin Grove campus and Justice units are offered at Gardens Point campus.

Career outcomes

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) provides the first step towards a career as a registered psychologist and an excellent foundation for careers in a wide range of related areas. Psychology graduates have skills that equip them for many professional areas. The analytical, research and interpersonal skills acquired have a high degree of application in areas such as education, human resources, market research, organisational development, policing, health and human services and counselling.
Further study is required if you wish to become a registered psychologist. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in Psychology, followed by at least two years of further study, which may comprise the completion of an appropriate APAC-accredited Masters degree and/or supervised work experience

The Bachelor of Justice will equip you for a wide variety of employment in criminal justice and related security fields. Past graduates have developed successful careers in state and federal law enforcement, correctional services, private security, defence services and customs, and worked on social and justice policies for government and non-government organisations. Others have become criminologists, contributed to women's youth and children's advocacy, or worked in the areas of human rights and antidiscrimination.

You will be prepared for the workplace by exploring the most recent theory and practice of social justice, and gain problem-solving, analytical and applied computer skills that are relevant to the workplace.

Professional recognition

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science component of the program comprises a 3-year undergraduate psychology sequence accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC), completed across 4 years of study. On completion of this double degree, students have the option to apply for a 4th year program in psychology, in order to gain provisional registration as a psychologist.

At any point during your study, you can become a student member of the Australian Psychological Society. Such membership should not be confused with registration as a psychologist. To become a psychologist, you must be registered with the Psychology Board of Australia. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in Psychology (eg Bachelor of Psychology (Honours) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology, followed by at least two years of further study, which may comprise the completion of an appropriate APAC-accredited Masters degree and/or supervised work experience.

The Bachelor of Justice is highly regarded by the Australian Federal Police, Queensland Police Service and all law enforcement agencies, with many justice graduates gaining employment in these services.

Course structure

In order to complete the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) component, you must complete a total of 192 credit points consisting of:
Psychology core units (12 units = 144 credit points)
Psychology elective units (4 units = 48 credit points)

In order to complete the Bachelor of Justice component, you must complete a total of 192 credit points from the following:
Justice core units (8 units = 96 credit points)
Study Area A (8 units = 96 credit points)

Students must complete a total of 384 credit points.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) (including completion of PYB350), you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) (Honours) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology, provided you have achieved the required GPA.

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Justice, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Justice (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Advanced standing based on previous study

QUT's standard advanced standing arrangements apply.
For core psychology units advanced standing is restricted to equivalent units completed in an APAC-accredited psychology program.

Domestic Entry requirements

Course requirements

Working with Children Check: blue card

A Blue Card is required as you will be working with children and young people as part of this course. You can apply for a Blue Card through QUT at no cost.

If you do not receive your blue card before the start of a unit that requires contact with children, you may not be able to participate and your grades may be affected. You may also still be liable to pay fees for the unit.

Submit your blue card application to the QUT Student Centre as early as possible, ideally as soon as you have received your offer.

How to apply for a blue card

First aid, Tuberculosis screening and Flu Vaccination

It is recommended that you complete a First Aid Certificate, Tuberculosis Screening and/or Flu Vaccination. However these are not mandatory.

Uniform

QUT School of Nursing polo shirt, navy blue trousers/long pants with pockets, and suitable footwear (black, brown or navy leather shoes with a non-slip sole) are required for this course. Students will need to cover this cost.

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Nursing /Bachelor of Midwifery double degree program meets the requirements for accreditation by the Australian Nursing and Midwifery Council (ANMC). Graduates meet the requirements for registration by the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia with endorsement as midwife practitioners. They are also eligible for membership of the Royal College of Nursing, Australia (RCNA)and the Australian College of Midwives.

The Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) requires that graduates demonstrate English language skills at IELTS level 7 or equivalent before being considered for professional registration. For further information visit the AHPRA website: http://www.ahpra.gov.au/Registration/Registration-Process/Registration-Requirements.aspx

Please refer to the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia website http://www.nursingmidwiferyboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for additional information on the Board's Registration Standards.

Student registration

QUT automatically registers students enrolled in this course with the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia in accordance with the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law Act 2009. Details about student registration are available from the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency at www.ahpra.gov.au

Other course requirements

It is a requirement of Queensland Health that all students undertaking a clinical placement in a Q health facility complete The Essentials component of the student orientation package which is available on the Queensland Health website.

Blue Card As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000) students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Care (Blue Card) before commencing field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. This is a mandatory requirement that must be met prior to undertaking any field experience/practicum program throughout your course. For more information, visit student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

Additional Costs The clinical practice units require students to undertake block practicums of two or more weeks duration. Block practicums may be scheduled during semester breaks. Students will be required to wear a uniform including suitable footwear while on clinical practice, the cost of which is approximately $150. Students enrolling in this program are required to complete a course of vaccinations for Hepatitis B before commencing their clinical practice units. They are also required to have a current Senior First Aid Certificate or the equivalent prior to commencement of Clinical Practice 1.

Course Structure

The course consists of two coursework units, a research elective, an elective and the equivalent of four units of supervised independent study, resulting in a thesis.

The thesis will be marked by two assessors, one of whom will normally be external to QUT.

Part-time students, and students wishing to enrol mid-year, should contact the course coordinator for advice on alternative sequences of study.

Electives

Students undertake two 12 credit point electives. At least one elective must be a research elective selected from the nominated list of research electives. The second elective may be selected from any honours or postgraduate program offered by the University, subject to prerequisite requirements and with the approval of the student's mentor/supervisor and the Course Coordinator. Normally the elective unit is chosen from within the student's discipline area or from an area that complements or is relevant to the student's study program. For further information on available units contact the Honours Coordinator.

Overview

The course offers the opportunity to develop knowledge, and problem solving and research skills at an advanced level. The Honours qualification opens a direct pathway into the Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Applied Science courses, and enhances professional career progressions in a variety of areas.

The course aims to provide a strong and practical foundation for research and professional employment by your acquiring the abilities to:
- understand and apply advanced theories, concepts and techniques in order to recognise, and to seek solutions for, worthwhile scientific problems
- demonstrate, and continue to develop, independence of thought and critical analysis
- contribute effectively to work and research groups
- communicate at a high level in both written and oral forms

Course structure

The core of the honours program is a 48 credit-point project that will provide students with the opportunity to learn about research by conducting a research project with an experienced researcher who acts as both supervisor and mentor. Students will learn about the types of processes, creativity and analytical thinking that lead to scientific and technological advances and how to communicate such findings in a rigorous, systematic manner.

The course consists of two 12 credit point units covering advanced discipline readings and readings in biomedical science; two 12 credit point units covering research strategies; and a 48 credit point research project.

Career outcomes

The Bachelor of Biomedical Science (Honours) program is designed for graduates who have achieved at a high level (GPA 5) in their degree from a recognised tertiary institution, with major studies in a relevant discipline. The Honours qualification not only enhances your professional employability in your chosen discipline, but opens a direct pathway to postgraduate studies, qualifying you for entry into Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor or Health Science and Master of Applied Science (Research) courses.

Professional recognition

Relevant scientific professional bodies include Australasian Graduates may seek membership of various organisations as follows:
Association of Clinical Biochemists, AusBiotech Ltd, Australian Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology, Australian Society for Medical Research, and Australian Society for Microbiology. Eligibility for membership is based on the combination of units undertaken in the Honours degree and the Bachelor course that underpins it.

Domestic Entry requirements

Entry to this course is competitive. To be considered for admission, candidates:

- must hold an undergraduate degree accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC) as an entry point into an honours program (for example QUT's PY45 Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology))
- must have an overall Grade Point Average (GPA) of at least 5 (based on QUT grade cut-offs)
- must have a GPA of at least 5 (based on QUT grade cut-offs) across APAC-accredited second and third year psychology units as given below.

QUT Applicants
For applicants with a QUT bachelor's award, the base level requirements for consideration for inclusion in the Honours program will be:
- a minimum GPA of 5 in the overall undergraduate degree program
- a minimum overall GPA of 5 in the prescribed second and third year Psychology units listed below, or their equivalent. Entry is competitive based on GPA in these prescribed units:

PYB202 Social and Organisational Psychology
PYB203 Developmental Psychology
PYB204 Cognition and Perception
PYB210 Research Design and Data Analysis
PYB304 Physiological Psychology
PYB306 Psychopathology
PYB309 Individual Differences and Assessment
PYB350 Advanced Statistical Analysis

Non-QUT Applicants
For applicants with an APAC-accredited bachelor award other than from QUT, similar requirements are expected. Certified copies of complete academic transcripts and evidence of their eligibility to undertake an honours program at their home institution must be provided with applications.

Overview

The Honours program builds on an undergraduate Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC) accredited psychology degree and provides an opportunity for advanced study and research. Successful completion of the Honours program meets the academic requirements for provisional registration as a psychologist with the Psychology Board of Australia.

Professional recognition

Successful completion of the Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology meets the academic requirements for provisional registration as a psychologist with the Psychology Board of Australia.

The Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) requires that graduates demonstrate English language skills at IELTS level 7 or equivalent before being considered for professional registration. For further information visit the AHPRA website: http://www.ahpra.gov.au/Registration/Registration-Process/Registration-Requirements.aspx

Please refer to the Psychology Board of Australia website: http://www.psychologyboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for additional information on the Board's Registration Standards.

Course Structure

The courses comprises of eight 12 credit point units. Coursework includes the compulsory unit PYB407 Research and Professional Development Seminar; plus elective units, chosen from cognitive neuropsychology, developmental psychology, counselling psychology, or organisational psychology. The research component of the program entails one research methods unit and an individual thesis. PYB400 Thesis is undertaken in modules throughout the program and initially students complete a research plan which sets out the project. This is followed by the collection, analysis and writing-up of the data. All coursework units have 3 contact hours per week. Research thesis units contact is as required by the supervisor.

International Student Entry

International students may enrol only in full-time studies.

Please refer to the Psychology Board of Australia website http://www.psychologyboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for information on the Board's English Language Skills Registration Standard.

[This study area has been discontinued]
- Health Promotion
- Health Services Management
- Occupational Health and Safety
- Quality and Patient Safety
- Risk Management (subject to review)
- Womens Health
- Cross-specialiation

Note: In 2010 the four units in the Emergency and Disaster Management study area are only available in second semester. Students enrolling part-time cannot complete the study area in consecutive semesters.

Course Articulation

This course articulates fully into HL68 Graduate Diploma in Health Science and HL88 Master of Health Science, except for the Quality and Patient Safety study area which articulates into PU63 Graduate Diploma in Health Management and PU83 Master of Health Management.

International Student Entry

International students may enrol only in full-time studies and may study only onshore.

Domestic Course structure

Course structure

The Graduate Certificate of Health Science consists of four units. Students can complete four units from one study area or four units from a selection of study areas.

Completion of four units from one study area entitles graduates of the Graduate Certificate, Graduate Diploma or Masters to have their qualification awarded with their area of specialisation. Students can graduate with one specified major only.

Completion of units in Occupational Health and Safety or Environmental Health does not qualify graduates to practise in these areas.

Study areas

Students in the Graduate Certificate in Health Science can select to complete four units from one study area or from across a range of Faculty of Health units:

- Aged Care
- Emergency and Disaster Management
- Environmental Health
- Health Promotion
- Health Services Management
- Occupational Health and Safety
- Quality and Patient Safety (Graduate Certificate only)
- Risk Management
- Women's Health
- a cross-specialisation (where no study area is taken but students study across a variety of fields).

Overview

The postgraduate coursework programs will suit anyone who has a recent undergraduate degree (preferably, however not necessarily, in science) and who wishes to gain training and advanced specialisation in general, medical and/or plant biotechnology. The programs also cater for working scientists, support staff or students involved in commercial aspects of biotechnology, who wish to update their theoretical and practical biotechnology skills.

Science-based biotechnology units emphasising laboratory skills and hands-on laboratory experimentation feature prominently in the programs, which cover contemporary techniques in biotechnology. New technology is incorporated as it becomes available. The programs also offer students opportunities to pursue studies related to the business of biotechnology, marketing, commercialisation, as well as the legal and ethical aspects of biotechnological applications.

Course Design

The program of study for an individual student will be decided in consultation with the course coordinator and will take into account the student's background in the cell and biomolecular sciences and areas of interest in biotechnology.

The Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology is a foundation program for people without a science degree or for those who do not have a recent background in the cell and biomolecular sciences. Fundamental aspects of cell and molecular biology, biochemistry and microbiology are covered in this first program. Successful completion of this program allows students to then specialise in more advanced aspects of biotechnology. The Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology also allows students to gain essential generic skills and attributes for successful postgraduate research and learning.

Students must commence in July and enrol in Semester 2 units first. Advanced standing (credit) may be given for this foundation program if the student has a degree or equivalent with recent and appropriate undergraduate-level knowledge and practical experience in the key areas of molecular biology, cell biology, biochemistry and/or microbiology at an advanced level. If advanced standing (credit) is granted and accepted students can enrol directly in any of the more advanced biotechnology programs in their first semester of study.

Course design

The program of study for an individual student will be decided in consultation with the course coordinator and will take into account the student's background in the cell and biomolecular sciences and areas of interest in biotechnology.

The Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology is a foundation program for people without a science degree or for those who do not have a recent background in the cell and biomolecular sciences. Fundamental aspects of cell and molecular biology, biochemistry and microbiology are covered in this first program. Successful completion of this program allows students to then specialise in more advanced aspects of biotechnology. The Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology also allows students to gain essential generic skills and attributes for successful postgraduate research and learning.

Students must commence in July and enrol in Semester 2 units first. Advanced standing may be given for this foundation program if the student has a degree or equivalent with recent and appropriate undergraduate-level knowledge and practical experience in the key areas of molecular biology, cell biology, biochemistry and/or microbiology at an advanced level. If advanced standing is granted and accepted, students can enrol directly in any of the more advanced biotechnology programs in their first semester of study.

Domestic Entry requirements

An applicant must be:
• registered as a nurse with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA)
• have gained a degree in nursing (or equivalent) from a recognised institution
• meet any additional requirements for the study area chosen.

Alternatively, applicants may be admitted on the basis of relevant experience at the discretion of the Head of School of Nursing.

Entry requirements for specific study areas are as follows:

Acute Care Nursing
Applicants must be employed in an acute practice setting for the duration of the course. Students are required to undertake workplace-based clinical experience in this setting as part of the course requirements.

Cancer Nursing
Applicants for the Cancer Nursing study area must normally be working at least 0.6 FTE in the practice setting relevant to cancer nursing. Students not working within these settings may be required to undertake additional supernumerary clinical experience to meet the requirements of the course.

Emergency Nursing
Applicants for the Emergency Nursing study area must be working at least 0.6 FTE in an emergency facility.

Intensive Care Nursing
Applicants for the Intensive Care study area be working at least 0.6 FTE in a level two or three intensive care facility.

Paediatric, Child and Youth Health Nursing
Students undertaking this study area will specialise in paediatric nursing or child and youth health nursing.

Applicants for the paediatric specialisation must be working at least 0.6 FTE in a paediatric setting.

Applicants wishing to specialise in child and youth health nursing do not need to be working in this area to undertake the course, however they will be required to undertake a clinical practicum.

Overview

The Graduate Certificate in Nursing provides graduates with a short, focused program to upgrade qualifications, knowledge and skills in particular areas of nursing practice. The course enables students to develop competence in their areas of practice, to examine major issues and trends in nursing scholarship and practice, and to develop an understanding of research applied to nursing practice.

Study areas

Study areas are available in the following areas:
- Acute Care
- Ageing and Dementia Studies
- Cancer Nursing
- Emergency Nursing
- Intensive Care Nursing
- Paediatric and Child Youth Health Nursing
- Professional Studies
- Women's Health

Note: Information on Australian Government Scholarships in the area of aged care is available at: http://rcna.org.au/scholarships/government_scholarships

Entry requirements

An applicant must be:
• registered as a nurse with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA)
• have gained a degree in nursing (or equivalent) from a recognised institution
• meet any additional requirements for the study area chosen.

Alternatively, applicants may be admitted on the basis of relevant experience at the discretion of the Head of School of Nursing.

Applicants must provide original or certified documentary evidence for each entry requirement. For example: Queensland Nursing Council or equivalent registration; Nursing academic qualifications (if not awarded by QUT), that is, an award certificate and academic transcripts; and a supervisor signed letter or a statement of service to confirm your post-registration experience and your current employment position (where required for a study area).

All applicants should also complete the questionnaire to accompany their applications available at http://www.studentservices.qut.edu.au/pdfs/forms/pg_forms/PostgradNursingQuestion.pdf

Applicants for the paediatric specialisation must be working at least 0.6 FTE in a paediatric setting.

Applicants wishing to specialise in child and youth health nursing do not need to be working in this area to undertake the course, however they will be required to undertake a clinical practicum.

Advanced Standing

Applicants who have studied the “Transition to Practice Nurse” program (Queensland Health), may be eligible for Advanced Standing (or credit) for some units within the Graduate Certificate and should download the “AS” Advanced Standing form: http://www.student.qut.edu.au/forms/.

To support an application, an original or certified copy of the award certificate as evidence of completion of the Transition to Practice Nurse program must be provided.

Course structure

The course structures of the Graduate Certificate in Nursing, Graduate Diploma in Nursing and Master of Nursing offer a wide range of pathways for nurses working in diverse settings, while at the same time ensuring opportunities for in-depth study to develop an advanced level of competence in selected areas of nursing practice. Students may undertake one of eight study areas in the Graduate Certificate in Nursing.

There are three recommended pathways—clinical, professional and research—leading from the Graduate Certificate through the Graduate Diploma to the Master of Nursing.

Course articulation

The Graduate Certificate in Nursing, the Graduate Diploma in Nursing and the Master of Nursing fully articulate.

International students

The Graduate Certificate in Nursing is offered part-time only in internal or external mode and is not available to international students.

Career Outcomes

This course is particularly designed for graduates and practitioners in ultrasound fields, such as radiographers, medical imaging technologists and sonographers, who wish to upgrade their qualifications and are interested in an in-depth study in this rapidly developing specialty area of ultrasound.

Course Design

Students must be employed in a suitable clinical practice with adequate access to clinical experience for the duration of the course. Formal lectures are conducted in an intensive one-week block of classes at the beginning of each semester. Further academic requirements can be met without requiring on-campus attendance. Students not based in Brisbane can minimise their time on campus by completing an intensive oneweek block each semester.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited with the Australasian Sonographer Accreditation Registry (ASAR).

International Student Entry

This course is not available to international students.

See the advanced standing precedent list at www.student.qut.edu.au/enrolment-and-orientation/enrolment/credit-for-prior-learning

Undergraduate units will not be recognised.

Course Structure

The Graduate Certificate in Road Safety consists of one core unit plus three electives while the Graduate Diploma in Road Safety consists of two core units plus six electives. The program structures are designed to be flexible and accessible. The majority of the units are delivered on a semester basis, although two electives are delivered in intensive week-long blocks at Kelvin Grove campus. The programs have recently been enhanced with the introduction of external delivery for selected units.

Currently the following units are available in external mode:

PYP401 Introduction to Road Safety
PYP402 Traffic Psychology and Behaviour
PYP404 Applying Traffic Psychology
PYP406 Road Safety Theory to

- Women's health
- or a cross specialisation (where no major is taken but students study across a variety of fields).

Note: In 2010 the four units in the Emergency and Disaster Management study area are only available in second semester.

To complete a major, students must complete at least four units from the same discipline area from with the Faculty of Health.

Students can only graduate with one specified major (i.e. only one major will appear on the official academic record). Students may elect to change majors during their course as appropriate but should seek academic advice before doing so.

Students wishing to complete a graduate diploma qualifcation in Occupational Health and Safety should apply for entry into the Graduate Diploma in Occupational Health and Safety and not the Graduate Diploma in Health Science.

Course Structure

The Graduate Diploma in Health Science consists of eight units totally 96 credit points selected from units offered by schools within the Faculty of Health (List A units). Completion of four units (48 credit points) in an area of specialisation entitles the graduate to a Graduate Diploma in Health Science within a specific discipline, for example, Graduate Diploma in Health Science (Health Promotion).

Candidates can choose electives from a wide range of university postgraduate units, but these must be approved by the course coordinator.

Course Articulation

This course articulates fully into the Master of Health Science.

The Graduate Certificate in Health Science fully articulates into this course.

After successfully completing the equivalent of one semester of full-time study, students may exit the program with a Graduate Certificate in Health Science.

International Student Entry

International students may enrol only in full-time studies and only onshore.

Course Design

The program of study for an individual student will be decided in consultation with the course coordinator and will take into account the student's background in the cell and biomolecular sciences and areas of interest in biotechnology.

The Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology builds upon foundation concepts presented in the Graduate Certificate. The Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology offers students opportunities to pursue study in several relevant focus areas including the theoretical and practical aspects of biotechnology. It also covers the business of biotechnology, marketing, commercialisation, as well as the legal and ethical aspects of biotechnological applications.

For example: Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia or equivalent registration; Nursing academic qualifications (if not awarded by QUT), that is, an award certificate and academic transcripts; and a supervisor signed letter or a statement of service to confirm your post-registration experience and your current employment position (where required for a study area).

All applicants should also complete the questionnaire to accompany their applications available at http://www.studentservices.qut.edu.au/pdfs/forms/pg_forms/PostgradNursingQuestion.pdf

Entry requirements for specific study areas are as follows:

Acute Care Nursing
Applicants must be employed in an acute practice setting for the duration of the course. Students are required to undertake workplace-based clinical experience in this setting as part of the course requirements.

Cancer Nursing
Applicants for the Cancer Nursing study area must normally be working at least 0.6 FTE in the practice setting relevant to cancer nursing. Students not working within these settings may be required to undertake additional supernumerary clinical experience to meet the requirements of the course.

Emergency Nursing
Applicants for the Emergency Nursing study area must be working at least 0.6 FTE in an emergency facility.

Intensive Care Nursing
Applicants for the Intensive Care study area must be working at least 0.6 FTE in a level two or three intensive care facility.

Paediatric, Child and Youth Health Nursing
Students undertaking this study area will specialise in paediatric nursing or child and youth health nursing.

Applicants for the paediatric specialisation must be working at least 0.6 FTE in a paediatric setting.

Applicants wishing to specialise in child and youth health nursing do not need to be working in this area to undertake the course, however they will be required to undertake a clinical practicum.

International Entry requirements

Ageing and Dementia Studies, Professional Studies and Women's Health are the only majors available to international studuents.

International applicants must:
• have gained from a recognised institution a qualification equivalent, on the University's assessment, to that of a registered nurse in Australia
• be registered or authorised to practise in their country of origin or residence
• have gained a degree in nursing (or equivalent) from a recognised institution
• and normally have at least one year of appropriate post-registration clinical experience.

International applicants may also apply for alternative entry, on the basis of relevant experience, at the discretion of the Head of School of Nursing.

International students may enrol only in February in full-time studies and may study only onshore.

Study areas

The following majors are offered in this course:

- Acute Care *
- Ageing and Dementia Studies
- Cancer Nursing *
- Emergency Nursing *
- Intensive Care Nursing *
- Paediatric, Child and Youth Health Nursing *
- Professional Studies
- Women's Health

* Not available to international students

Students may follow one of the following pathways - Clinical, Professional and Research.

Note: Information on Australian Government Scholarships in the area of aged care is available at: http://rcna.org.au/scholarships/government_scholarships

Course Structure

The course structures offer a wide range of pathways for nurses working in diverse settings, while at the same time ensuring opportunities for in-depth study to develop an advanced level of competence in selected areas of nursing practice.

The Graduate Diploma in Nursing consists of eight units each of 12 credit points making a total 96 credit points.

The Graduate Diploma may be undertaken by domestic students full-time or part-time in internal or external mode.

Professional Studies

The purpose of this area of study is to enable students who do not wish to undertake in-depth study in a particular specialty to have maximum flexibility to select a program of study relevant to their needs. The program is designed to extend and enhance existing nursing knowledge and skills; build confidence and leadership skills; provide a forum for critical examination of contemporary nursing; attain academic experience and qualifications; and foster an understanding of nursing within the broader umbrella of health care.

Graduate Diploma in Nursing students who choose this major will complete three core units, and five elective units. The elective options enable students to customise their program of study to meet individual learning needs.

Course Pathways/Articulation

The Graduate Diploma in Nursing fully articulates with the Master of Nursing and is offered for domestic and international students who are eligible for registration as a nurse with the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia.

Domestic Course structure

Course structure

These courses offer a variety of career pathways for nurses working in diverse settings and provide opportunities for in-depth study for advanced competence in selected areas of nursing practice. The three courses fully articulate and applicants may choose to enter at the graduate certificate, graduate diploma or masters level.

The Graduate Certificate allows students to complete four core units from their selected area of nursing practice.

Students in the Graduate Diploma and Masters programs also complete four core units from an area of interest. In addition, students elect to undertake their studies in one of three pathway options: clinical, professional, or research. This allows students to tailor their study program to individual professional development needs.

Course Structure

Students enrolled in the Graduate Diploma in Midwifery undertake four 12 credit point units and two 24 credit point units. The clinical units are designed to facilitate the development of knowledge, attitudes and skills which are commensurate with beginning practice as a midwife. A minimum of 720 hours of off-campus clinical experience is scheduled throughout the course. Clinical experience occurs in hospital settings, and a variety of community health agencies eg the family planning clinic, sexual health clinic, community support groups and childbirth education classes. The supporting studies component of the program comprises three units designed to further enhance students' professional growth through exploration, at a postgraduate level, of the nexus between research and practice, and issues in the development of midwifery as a discipline.

Course Articulation

This course fully articulates with the Master of Nursing.

Career Outcomes

Graduates can seek employment in hospitals, health departments, tertiary institutions and medical instrumentation companies. Depending on the field of employment, graduates may be known as a medical physicist, health physicist or bio-engineer.

Professional medical/health physicists:
- apply electronic tools and medical software, ultrasonics, radiation and computers to clinical and environmental problems
- monitor the environment to maintain acceptable standards in the workplace and the community
- apply fundamental physical research in development programs
- are responsible for calibration, care and maintenance of instruments and apparatus.

Course Design

Stage 1— Graduate Diploma (PH71) comprises assessed coursework such as advanced lectures, seminars, reading units or independent study. Full-time students will need an average of 14 hours a week of formal contact (seven hours for parttime students). Students can graduate with a Graduate Diploma in Medical Physics after satisfactory completion of Stage 1.

Stage 2— Master of Applied Science (PH80) students undertake a program of supervised research and investigation that can be completed at QUT or in a suitable external institution.

Professional Recognition

The course is accredited by the Australasian College of Physical Sciences and Engineers in Medicine.

Career Outcomes

This course is particularly designed for graduates and practitioners in medical ultrasound fields, such as radiographers, and medical imaging and nuclear medicine technologists, who wish to upgrade their qualifications and depth of knowledge in this rapidly developing area.

Course Design

Stage 1— Graduate Diploma (PH71) takes four semesters of part-time study to complete. Students must show that they have access to suitable clinical experience for the duration of Stage 1 before commencing the degree. Lectures are conducted in intensive four- to five-week blocks in each semester. Students undertake clinical experience throughout the semester.

Stage 2— Master of Applied Science (PH80) involves completion of a research project and submission of a thesis. Students can undertake this project externally under QUT staff supervision on appointment of a suitable external supervisor. This stage takes two semesters part-time to complete after successful completion of Stage 1.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited with the Australasian Sonographer Accreditation Registry (ASAR).

International Student Entry

These courses are not available to international students.

Please refer to the Psychology Board of Australia website: http://www.psychologyboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for additional information on the Board's Registration Standards.

Course structure

The course comprises eight 12 credit point units. Coursework includes the compulsory unit PYB407 Research and Professional Development Seminar; plus elective units, chosen from cognitive neuropsychology, developmental psychology, counselling psychology, or organisational psychology. In consultation with the Course Coordinator, students also choose one cognate elective at third-year level or above. The research component of the program entails one Research Methods unit and a thesis. PYB450 Research Thesis is undertaken in modules throughout the program. Initially students will complete an independent review of the literature and prepare an outline for a research proposal. This will then form the basis of a negotiated group project, for which students independently collect, write up and analyse agreed specific components of the data. All coursework units have three contact hours per week. The contact for research thesis units is as required by the supervisor.

International Student Entry

International students may enrol only in full-time studies.

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.0
writing	6.0
reading	6.0
listening	6.0
overall	6.5

Course Structure

The course consists of at least eight (8) units offered by the Schools of the Faculty of Health (List A). The remaining four units can be taken as four elective units either from List A or List B. An array of elective units allow students to either specialise in their professional discipline or to choose a coherent group of units from more than one specialist area.

To complete a major in any of the major areas of study students must complete at least four units (48 credit points) in that discipline area.

Candidates can choose electives from a wide range of university postgraduate units, but these must be approved by the course and subject-area coordinators.

Students with a four-year degree or three-year degree with additional one-year honours may be able to obtain advanced standing up to a maximum of 48 credit points for previous study.

Course Articulation

Student who complete the Master of Health Science may be eligible for up to one year of advanced standing in HL90 Doctor of Health Science.

After successfully completing the equivalent of two semesters full-time study, students may exit the program with a Graduate Diploma in Health Science.

After successfully completing the equivalent of one semester of full-time study, students may exit the program with a Graduate Certificate in Health Science.

The Graduate Certificate in Health Science, the Graduate Diploma in Health Science and the Graduate Diploma in Occupational Health and Safety, fully articulate into the Master of Health Science.

The Graduate Diploma in Nursing and the Master of Nursing students may apply for a maximum of 48 credit points of advanced standing (equivalent to List B) towards the Master of Health Science. No advanced standing will be granted towards the Graduate Certificate in Health Science or the Graduate Diploma in Health Science. This is in addition to any List A units completed.

Special Notes

Students can only graduate with one specified major (ie only one major will appear on the official academic record).

Students may elect to change majors during their course as appropriate but should seek academic advice before doing so.

Students cannot normally enrol directly in the Masters Degree in the area of Occupational Health and Safety unless they have completed relevant undergraduate qualifications in this area to the satisfaction of the course coordinator. Special consideration may be given on an individual basis.

International Student Entry

International students may enrol only in full-time sutdies and may study only onshore.

Domestic Course structure

Course structure

The Master of Health Science offers a flexible design that provides students with a large choice of elective units that deliver specialisation in a health science discipline, cross-specialisation or a broad understanding of health-related disciplines.

The course consists of 12 units. Students must complete at least eight units from the Faculty of Health. The remaining four units can be completed from a wide range of University postgraduate units, subject to course coordinator approval.

Completion of four units from one study area entitles graduates of the Graduate Certificate, Graduate Diploma or Masters to have their qualification awarded with their area of specialisation. Students can graduate with one specified major only.

Completion of units in Occupational Health and Safety or Environmental Health does not qualify graduates to practise in these areas.

Study areas

- Aged Care
- Emergency and Disaster Management
- Environmental Health
- Health Promotion
- Health Services Management
- Occupational Health and Safety
- Risk Management
- Women's Health
- a cross-specialisation (where no study area is taken but students study across a variety of fields).

The course meets the requirements for accreditation by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council and the Australian Psychological Society College of Educational and Developmental Psychologists. Graduates meet the requirements for registration by the Psychology Board of Australia.

Please refer to the Psychology Board of Australia website: http://www.psychologyboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for additional information on the Board's Registration Standards.

Other Requirements

blue card As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000) students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Suitability Care (Blue Card) before commencing field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. This is a mandatory requirement that must be met prior to undertaking any field experience/practicum program throughout your course. For more information, visit http://student.qut.edu.au/studying/jobs-and-work-experience/work-experience-and-placements/blue-cards.

International Student Entry

QUT advises that international students may enrol only in full-time studies.

The course meets the requirements for accreditation by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council and the Australian Psychological Society College of Clinical Psychologists. Graduates meet the requirements for registration by the Psychology Board of Australia.

Please refer to the Psychology Board of Australia website http://www.psychologyboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for information on the Board's English Language Skills Registration Standard.

Course structure

The coursework component provides training in assessment, diagnosis and intervention in the area of educational and developmental issues across the lifespan with an emphasis on the school years.

Students undertake two internships that are linked with a client base from the Catholic education system and from the Psychology and Counselling Clinic at QUT's Kelvin Grove campus.

Following these internships, students undertake a further two external placements in other environments including schools, mental health and community settings.

To undertake the supervised practice, students need to provide evidence of provisional registration as a psychologist with the Psychologists Board of Australia and hold a current blue card as required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Guardian Act (2000).

The Master of Research Management and Commercialisation is particularly suited to current or aspiring research management leaders, administrators and active researchers in corporations, universities and the public sector. The Masters builds on the content of the Graduate Certificate and allows you to develop a deeper understanding of the context and strategic issues involved in research management and commercialisation. You can tailor the course to your needs by applying these ideas and concepts to issues of relevance to you and, where possible, undertaking assessment through workplace-based projects.

Students enrolled in the masters-level course can choose to exit with an award of Graduate Diploma in Research and Development Management following the completion of eight approved units.

Domestic Entry requirements

A bachelor degree or equivalent, preferably but not necessarily in science, is required. Please contact the course coordinator for further information on the entry requirements for this course.

 LS86 commences in July (Module 1 entry). Students with advanced standing for Module 1 should commence in February as the Faculty does not offer sufficient units in Module 2 in second semester. Note especially that the February entry point for this course is for students with advanced standing for Module 1. It is not possible to commence Module 1 in February.*

For students with advanced standing for Module 1 and who wish to enter LS86 in July, a modified program will be required and this should be discussed with the course coordinator prior to enrolment. Students should note that this may require them to study business electives only in their first semester and could lead to them having to take an additional semester to complete the requirements of their program.

Overview

The postgraduate coursework programs in Biotechnology will suit anyone who has a recent undergraduate degree (preferably, however not necessarily, in science) and who wishes to gain training and advanced specialisation in general, medical and/or plant biotechnology. The programs also cater for working scientists, support staff or students involved in commercial aspects of biotechnology, who wish to update their theoretical and practical biotechnology skills. Science-based biotechnology units emphasising laboratory skills and hands-on laboratory experimentation feature prominently in the programs, which cover contemporary techniques in biotechnology. New technology is incorporated as it becomes available. The programs also offer students opportunities to pursue studies related to the business of biotechnology, marketing, commercialisation, as well as the legal and ethical aspects of biotechnological applications.

Course Design

The Master of Biotechnology is designed to give students further training and specialisation in general medical and/or plant biotechnology. This program follows successful completion of core and optional units offered in both the Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology and Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology.

Overview

The Master of Biotechnology (Advanced) program completes the comprehensive training of students and follows successful completion of core and optional units offered in the Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology, Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology and Master of Biotechnology programs. It encompasses general medical and/or plant biotechnology. In their final semester of the program, students may undertake a supervised research project either at QUT or external to QUT.

Part-time students may also elect to do a research project at their place of work, with both a workplace supervisor and a QUT supervisor. Students must discuss research project areas prior to enrolment in their final semester of study in LS96 to organise a suitable project and a project supervisor(s). While there is a wide range of research project areas available, it may not always be possible for students to conduct a research project exactly in the area they desire.
There is also no guarantee that either a suitable project and/or project supervisor(s) will be available in the semester that the student wishes to undertake the project unit.
Some students prefer not to undertake a research project in their final semester of study. For students not undertaking a research project, additional coursework must be completed. Students will need to consult with the course coordinator in selecting additional coursework units.

These postgraduate coursework programs will suit anyone who has a recent undergraduate degree (preferably, however not necessarily, in science) and who wishes to gain training and advanced specialisation in general, medical and/or plant biotechnology. The programs also cater for working scientists, support staff or students involved in commercial aspects of biotechnology who wish to update their theoretical and practical biotechnology skills.

New technology is incorporated as it becomes available. The programs also offer students opportunities to pursue studies related to the business of biotechnology, marketing and commercialisation, as well as the legal and ethical aspects of biotechnological applications.

Course Design

The program of study for an individual student will be decided in consultation with the course coordinator and will take into account the student's background in the cell and biomolecular sciences and areas of interest in biotechnology.
The Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology is a foundation program for people without a science degree or for those who do not have a recent background in the cell and biomolecular sciences. Fundamental aspects of cell and molecular biology, biochemistry and microbiology are covered in this first program. Successful completion of this program allows students to then specialise in more advanced aspects of biotechnology. The Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology also allows students to gain essential generic skills and attributes for successful postgraduate research and learning.

Students must commence in July and enrol in Semester 2 units first. Advanced standing (credit) may be given for this foundation program if the student has a degree or equivalent with recent and appropriate undergraduate-level knowledge and practical experience in the key areas of molecular biology, cell biology, biochemistry and/or microbiology at an advanced level. If advanced standing (credit) is granted and accepted, students can enrol directly in any of the more advanced biotechnology programs in their first semester of study.
The Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology builds upon foundation concepts presented in the Graduate Certificate. The Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology offers students opportunities to pursue study in several relevant focus areas including the theoretical and practical aspects of biotechnology. It also covers the business of biotechnology, marketing and commercialisation, as well as the legal and ethical aspects of biotechnological applications.
The Master of Biotechnology is designed to give students further training and specialisation in general medical and/or plant biotechnology. This program follows successful completion of core and optional units offered in both the Graduate Certificate in Biotechnology and Graduate Diploma in Biotechnology.

Domestic Entry requirements

An applicant must be:
• registered as a nurse with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA)
• have gained a degree in nursing (or equivalent) from a recognised institution
• meet any additional requirements for the study area chosen.

In addition candidates seeking entry to the Master of Nursing are normally required to hold an undergraduate degree in nursing (or equivalent) at a grade point average of 5 or above.

Alternatively, applicants may be admitted on the basis of relevant experience at the discretion of the Head of School of Nursing.

Applicants must provide original or certified documentary evidence for each entry requirement. For example: Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia or equivalent registration; Nursing academic qualifications (if not awarded by QUT), that is, an award certificate and academic transcripts; and a supervisor signed letter or a statement of service to confirm your post-registration experience and your current employment position (where required for a study area).

All applicants should also complete and submit the Postgraduate nursing questionnaire to accompany their application.

Entry requirements for specific study areas are as follows:

Acute Care Nursing
Applicants must be employed in an acute practice setting for the duration of the course. Students are required to undertake workplace-based clinical experience in this setting as part of the course requirements.

Cancer Nursing
Applicants for the Cancer Nursing study area must normally be working at least 0.6 FTE in the practice setting relevant to cancer nursing. Students not working within these settings may be required to undertake additional supernumerary clinical experience to meet the requirements of the course.

Emergency Nursing
Applicants for the Emergency Nursing study area must be working at least 0.6 FTE in an emergency facility.

Intensive Care Nursing
Applicants for the Intensive Care study area be working at least 0.6 FTE in a level two or three intensive care facility.

Midwifery
An applicant for the Midwifery strand must be registered with the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia with endorsement as midwife practitioners.

Paediatric, Child and Youth Health Nursing
Students undertaking this study area will specialise in paediatric nursing or child and youth health nursing.

Applicants for the paediatric specialisation must be working at least 0.6 FTE in a paediatric setting.

Applicants wishing to specialise in child and youth health nursing do not need to be working in this area to undertake the course, however they will be required to undertake a clinical practicum.

International Entry requirements

Ageing and Dementia Studies, Professional Studies and Women's Health are the only majors available to international studuents.

International applicants must:
• have gained from a recognised institution a qualification equivalent, on the University's assessment, to that of a registered nurse in Australia
• be registered or authorised to practise in their country of origin or residence
• have gained a degree in nursing (or equivalent) from a recognised institution
• and normally have at least one year of appropriate post-registration clinical experience.

Candidates seeking entry to the Master of Nursing are normally required to hold an undergraduate degree in nursing (or equivalent) at a grade point average of 5 or above.

International applicants may also apply for alternative entry, on the basis of relevant experience, at the discretion of the Head of School of Nursing.

International students may enrol only in February or in July in full-time studies and may study only onshore.

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

Applicants wishing to specialise in child and youth health nursing do not need to be working in this area to undertake the course, however they will be required to undertake a clinical practicum.

Course Structure

The course structures offer a wider range of pathways for nurses working in diverse settings, while at the same time ensuring opportunities for in-depth study to develop an advanced level of competence in selected areas of nursing practice. Students may undertake one of nine different majors. For a detailed overview of the majors available, please refer to the Graduate Certificate in Nurisng relevant to these areas of study.

The Master of Nursing consists of the content of the Graduate Diploma in Nursing plus a further 48 credit points. Students who wish to graduate with a specified major in the Master of Nursing (except Professional Studies) will be required to complete the 96 credit points of the Graduate Diploma in Nursing units relevant to that major and undertake either a 48 credit point thesis or an additional 24 credit points of the remaining 48 credit points at the masters level in units also relevant to that major. These 24 credit points can be undertaken by completing relevant coursework units or a 24 credit point clinical project.

Students who wish to graduate from the Master of Nursing with a major in Professional Studies will be required to complete the 96 credit points of the Graduate Diploma in Nursing, and can then choose to complete the remaining 48 credit points at the masters level either by coursework, project or thesis. The coursework units may be selected from any postgraduate level units offered within the University for which the student has the necessary prerequisite.

The Master of Nursing may be undertaken both in the full-time and part-time in internal or external mode.

Professional Studies

The purpose of this area of study is to enable students who do not wish to undertake in-depth study in a particular specialty to have maximum flexibility to select a program of study relevant to their needs. The program is designed to extend and enhance existing nursing knowledge and skills; build confidence and leadership skills; provide a forum for critical examination of contemporary nursing; attain academic experience and qualifications; and foster an understanding of nursing within the broader umbrella of health care.

For a detailed overview of the majors available, please refer to the Graduate Certificate relevant to these areas of study.

Course Articulation

The Graduate Diploma in Nursing and the Master of Nursing fully articulate.

Students who complete the Master of Nursing may also be eligible for up to 96 credit points advanced standing in HL90 Doctor of Health Science.

Overview

The Master of Nursing Science (Nurse Practitioner) course is a one-year, full-time or two-year, part-time course. Upon successful completion of the program, graduates will be able to:

- assess and treat clients in a specialty field of nursing practice and health care

- order diagnostic investigations within a specialty field of nursing practice

- prescribe medications and other interventions from a specialty field of nursing practice

- directly refer patients to other healthcare professionals

- conduct advanced comprehensive health assessments relevant to a specialist field of nursing practice

- demonstrate an ability to conduct clinical services using high-level communication skills, innovation and leadership in both autonomous and multidisciplinary modes of practice

- demonstrate the capacity to think critically and creatively in complex and unfamiliar environments.

Note: Information on Australian Government Scholarships in the area of aged care is available at: http://rcna.org.au/scholarships/government_scholarships

Professional recognition

The course meets the requirements for accreditation by the Australian Nursing and Midwifery Accreditation Council (ANMAC). Graduates meet the requirements for registration by the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia with endorsement as nurse practitioners.

Course Structure

The course consists of seven units - six theoretical units and an internship (24 credit points) over two semesters. The internship will provide extended, supervised and supported clinical practice exposure to consolidate and apply coursework learning. This course may be undertaken by internal or external mode. Students will be required to attend on-campus workshops normally for a total of five days scheduled during the February orientation week and the mid-semester break in September.

International Student Entry

The course is not available to international students.

Overview

This course is the second component of a five year dual degree program, comprising a three year Bachelor of Vision Science (OP45), followed by a two year Master of Optometry (OP85).

NOTE that:
- both degrees need to be completed before a graduate can apply for registration as an optometrist
- there is no direct entry to the OP85 course
- all applicants enter the program through the OP45 Bachelor of Vision Science and progress to the OP85 course on successful completion of the OP45 course
- Commonwealth-supported places will be offered in the Master of Optometry from 2012.

The profession of Optometry is undergoing expansion in its scope of practice as a result of legislative amendments to allow appropriately trained optometrists to use therapeutic pharmaceutical agents in the practice of Optometry. The five year program increases graduates' depth of knowledge in the areas of general and ocular pharmacology, with training in the therapeutic management of eye disease.

Information for existing optometrists

The Master of Optometry course provides the second component of the entry-level program to the profession in Australia - it is NOT designed to provide qualified optometrists with a masters level qualification. A route for further study is through higher degree research training http://www.rsc.qut.edu.au/. The Faculty's Master of Applied Science by Research (HL84) is an option for students seeking a Masters level qualification.

Information for overseas trained optometrists

Overseas trained optometrists seeking to gain registration in Australia should contact the Optometry Council of Australia and New Zealand at www.ocanz.org for details concerning eligibility for registration through the assessment process for overseas trained optometrists before considering further study.

Why choose this course

A graduate of OP45 Bachelor of Vision Science must also complete the Master of Optometry to be eligible for registration as an optometrist.

The course provides increased exposure to real world learning experiences both within the QUT Health Clinic, and in the workplace via the inclusion of extended clinical placements.

Case-based learning and case-based assessment will enhance the training in diseases of the eye and ocular therapeutics. Guest lecturers and practising optometrists are involved in the clinical training.

Entry requirements

The requirement for admission to the course is completion of QUT's Bachelor of Vision Science.

Career options

Graduates are highly employable, with all students employed on graduation. Graduates can work or specialise in areas such as contact lens practice, children's vision, occupational/public health optometry or low vision, as well as general primary care clinical practice. The majority of optometry graduates enter private practice and work initially in established practices, often with a view to future partnership or the establishment of their own practice. Graduates are also employed in government service, including hospitals. A number of graduates are working in secondary clinical care environments, primarily in ophthalmology medical eye care practices. The course also provides a route to employment within the ophthalmic industry, or students may enter the teaching and research fields after further study.

Professional recognition

The dual degree program Bachelor of Vision Science/ Master of Optometry meets the requirements for accreditation by the Optometry Council of Australia and New Zealand. Graduates of the program meet the requirements for registration by the Optometry Board of Australia.

Students must complete the Master of Optometry as well as the Bachelor of Vision Science to be eligible for registration.

The Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) requires that graduates demonstrate English language skills at IELTS level 7 or equivalent before being considered for professional registration. For further information visit the AHPRA website: http://www.ahpra.gov.au/Registration/Registration-Process/Registration-Requirements.aspx

Please refer to the Optometry Board of Australia website http://www.optometryboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx for additional information on the Board's Registration Standards.

Student registration

QUT automatically registers students enrolled in this course with the Optometry Board of Australia in accordance with the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law Act 2009. Details about student registration are available from the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency at www.ahpra.gov.au

Other requirements

Ophthalmic instruments costing approximately $5000 are required for the clinical program. These should already have been purchased for the undergraduate program which precedes the Master program (Bachelor of Vision Science).

A uniform shirt (approx $40 per shirt) must be purchased for wear by all students whilst they undertake patient consultations and perform clinical eye examinations in the Optometry Clinic.

Students will also be required to maintain First Aid Certification and have a Blue Card before undertaking the clinical units.

Career Outcomes

This course is particularly designed for graduates and practitioners in medical ultrasound fields, such as radiographers, and medical imaging and nuclear medicine technologists, who wish to upgrade their qualifications and depth of knowledge in this rapidly developing area.

Course Design

Stage 1— Graduate Diploma (PH71) takes four semesters of part-time study to complete. Students must show that they have access to suitable clinical experience for the duration of Stage 1 before commencing the degree. Lectures are conducted in intensive four- to five-week blocks in each semester. Students undertake clinical experience throughout the semester.

Stage 2— Master of Applied Science (PH80) involves completion of a research project and submission of a thesis. Students can undertake this project externally under QUT staff supervision on appointment of a suitable external supervisor. This stage takes two semesters part-time to complete after successful completion of Stage 1.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited with the Australasian Sonographer Accreditation Registry.

International Student Entry

These courses are not available to international students.

Domestic Course structure

Course structure

The coursework component of this program provides training on how to assess and diagnose clinical presentations. It provides unique training on how to conceptualise and treat a broad range of child and adult clinical presentations from relational psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioural, and systemic narrative therapeutic approaches.

Clinical placements begin in the first semester with an internship spanning the first year. Students complete the internship under intense supervision at the specialised Psychology and Counselling Clinic at QUT's Kelvin Grove campus. During the internship, students gain experience in assessing and treating a range of clinical cases across the lifespan.

Once students are deemed competent through the internship, they continue their clinical training with external placements in hospitals, community agencies and a variety of child and adult mental health settings.

Date claimers

You are required to attend on-campus sessions which are held during Orientation Week and Week 1 of each semester. For specific dates, please consult the class timetables via the class timetable search at: https://qutvirtual2.qut.edu.au/portal/pls/portal/ttab_unit_search_p.show

Attendance requirements

The course is delivered in a blended mode which combines on campus and virtual learning. Students are required to attend the timetabled activities as well as participate in the various virtual activities and forums associated with each unit.

Students enrolled in units for first semester must participate in the on-campus activities associated with the units, including during orientation week, as detailed in the date claimers above at Kelvin Grove Campus.

This participation is an essential and mandatory part of attendance, and will require students to have access to a computer with internet access, webcam and MP3 player (4 gig minimum). In addition to the internet access, the approximate cost of the webcam and MP3 player is $150. Total costs for a computer, internet access, webcam and MP3 player is approximately $1500.

Advanced standing

Students who have completed the Bachelor of Human Services degree from QUT or equivalent will receive one semester advanced standing and will be able to complete the course in three semesters over 13 months including a Summer Semester.

Professional recognition

Graduates will be eligible for membership with the Australian Association of Social Workers (AASW).

Course structure

Standard 2 Year Program

Students enrolled full-time in the Master of Social Work complete 192 credit points over four semesters.

The course includes a minimum of 980 hours of fieldwork placements supervised by a professional social worker undertaken over three Social Work Practice units. Professional Practice 1 and Professional Practice 2 are each 245 hours and Professional Practice 3 is 490 hours.

The course has a number of prerequisite units and students should take careful note of these when planning their course progression and professional placements.

Part-time study

Students undertaking part-time study must enrol in SWN001 in their first semester. Students may take advantage of Summer Semester offerings to accelerate their course completion.

B Human Services (QUT) Advanced Standing Structure

Students who have completed the Bachelor of Human Services degree from QUT or equivalent will follow the structure outlined below for BHumServ graduates.

Other requirements

Blue Card

As required by the Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian Act (2000), students must undergo a criminal history check and be issued with a Blue Card before commencing clinical practice/field experience/practicum in an organisation where they may work with children or young people. Course Structure

Students undertake a program of research and investigation on a topic approved by the Faculty Research Committee. Students may be required to undertake an appropriate course of study concurrently with the research program.

The course of study normally includes a program of assessed coursework; participation in University scholarly activities such as research seminars, teaching and publication; regular face-to-face interaction with supervisors; and a program of supervised research and investigation. The course consists of four stages: preparation, confirmation of candidature, implementation and submission of a thesis.

Course Coordination

Students undertake their program of research through one of the Faculty's schools (Human Movement Studies, Nursing and Midwifery, Optometry, Psychology and Counselling, Public Health) or the Social Work and Human Services Academic Unit. Research expertise within the Faculty covers activities in ageing; physical activity, disability, injury and rehabilitation; health and wellbeing; human behaviour; vision; and accident research. Potential students are encouraged to contact the relevant school prior to submitting an application.

Course Duration

The length of the course will vary depending on the applicants' qualifications on admission and their progress during the course. The minimum period of enrolment in the program is:
• 1.5 years for a full-time student with a three year undergraduate degree, or
• one year for a full-time student with a four year undergraduate degree, including honours or other relevant programs (including key research methods, literature review foundations and other coursework requirements), or
• one semester for a full-time student transferring from another higher degree research program.

The maximum period of enrolment for a full-time student is 2 years or equivalent (2 EFTSL).

International Student Entry

QUT advises that international students may enrol only in full-time studies.

International Student Entry

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy depends on an applicant's demonstrated research aptitude and the availability of supervision, infrastructure and resources needed for the proposed research project.

An applicant would normally hold:
. a relevant first or second class division A honours degree or equivalent, or
. an appropriate Masters degree or Professional Doctorate (by research or coursework)

Masters and Professional Doctorates degrees by coursework must contain a significant research component, normally no less than 25%.

Holders of Masters and Professional Doctoral by Coursework must:
• have a grade point average of at least 5.0 on a 7 point scale and
• present evidence of research experience and potential for approval
English language proficiency requires International applicants to meet an IELTS overall bandscore of 6.5 with no sub-score below 6.0.

FINANCIAL GUARANTEE
Acceptable forms of evidence include:
- A letter from an approved employer confirming the continuation of your salary; OR
- A signed Scholarship Agreement between QUT and your sponsoring agency; OR
- An accepted letter of offer from QUT for a postgraduate research scholarship; OR
- An approved external scholarship.

Location & duration

The expected duration of the Doctor of Philosophy is three to four years full-time, or six to eight years part-time. Full-time study is normally conducted on-campus at QUT. Part-time and external study options may be available depending on the project, infrastructure requirements and funding arrangements. Although QUT offers this flexibility, candidates must meet minimum attendance requirements and the university must be satisfied that adequate supervision and resources are available.

International student visas require on-campus study to be completed full-time.

Course Structure

QUT adopts a project management approach. PhD candidates work closely with their supervisory team to meet collegially reviewed milestones leading to timely submission of a thesis for examination. QUT is proud of its record of timely completions and low attrition rates realised by this approach.

During candidature the supervisor and other key stakeholders will provide advice and direction to the candidate to encourage their participation in university scholarly activities such as research seminars, teaching and publication. The length of the thesis varies according to the topic, but should normally be no longer than 100,000 words, excluding bibliography.

Doctoral studies may be completed in any area of research interest supported by the Faculty of Health. Current areas include

- Movement coordination and control
- Injury prevention and Rehabilitation
- Fitness, health and wellbeing
- Prevention and management of chronic disease
- Physical education
- Nursing research
- Cornea and contact lens
- Optical and visual performance
- Psychological therapies and counselling
- Social, cognitive and developmental processes
- Physical and psychological health
- Road Safety and traffic psychology
- Disease prevention and management
- Environmental health
- Health services research

The descriptions of research specialisations available are provided as a guide only and research in other related areas is welcomed.

Fees

Australian citizens and permanent residents will be awarded a Research Training Scheme (RTS) place. Domestic students are not required to apply for an RTS entitlement, as it will be automatically allocated. The RTS covers tuition fees but not other study related costs. PhD Students are entitled to four years full-time equivalent study under these schemes. Students who exceed this entitlement may apply to QUT for extension, however the University may charge fees for the period of the program, which exceeds the student's entitlement. The University determines the fee level for domestic and international students.

Study Areas

Criminology
Criminology is the study of crime, the criminal justice system and crime control. Areas of study in this major include youth justice, Indigenous justice, gender and justice, white collar crime, punishment and corrections, terrorism, organised and transnational crime, crime research methods, crime prevention, criminal justice policy and practice.

Policing
The Policing major includes the study of criminal investigations, intelligence, security and regulatory agencies and practices. Policing is a multi-disciplinary field of study. The Policing major aims to equip students with 'real world' knowledge and skills for the employment market in a range of justice professions, such as investigation, security and intelligence which include, but are not limited to policing.

Unit offerings and locations

The Criminology, Policing and Law majors and the Forensic Investigation minor are taught at the Gardens Point Campus and the Psychology major is taught at the Kelvin Grove campus.

Criminology, Policing and Law major units are offered in both External (EXT) and Internal (INT) mode of delivery, whereas Psychology and Forensic Investigation units are only available as internal face to face delivery.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

Year 1

You will complete a suite of core justice units in your first year plus one justice unit from your chosen major (criminology or policing). These will provide you with an introduction to the central knowledge required of a justice professional and include the disciplines of criminology, policing, intelligence, sociology, law, psychology and ethics. In this year, you will begin to acquire problem-solving, analytical and professional skills to prepare you for your second year of tertiary study, and your chosen career. You will also begin to develop general attitudinal skills relating to social justice and critical awareness, and cognitive skills such as information and information technology literacy, research and communication.

Year 2

Further developing the knowledge and skills acquired in your first year, you will focus on your chosen major from the areas of criminology, policing and your other area of interest. These can be chosen from the secondary majors in either policing, criminology, law or psychology, undertaken with a combination of electives, which could include a minor in Indigenous justice or forensic investigation. Electives can also be chosen from outside the School of Justice and pathways will be offered to you to enable specialisation in relevant disciplines. Some units will require collaboration in group work, and you will learn important research skills and abilities in critical analysis and practical application.

Year 3

Using the skills you have built in the first two years, the third year provides you with the opportunity to choose more specialised elective units from within and outside the School of Justice. In your third year you will also have the opportunity to hone your research skills in a major independent study on a chosen topic as well as the chance to form industry links in a professional placement unit, undertaking a project at an external organisation. Third-year students may also take advantage of QUT's Career Mentoring Scheme to help guide them and develop skills and industry links.

Other Course Requirements

It is a requirement that distance education students participate in two three-day attendance schools per year in addition to the orientation attendance school for commencing students only. The attendance schools are an integral component of the distance education course and are compulsory. When undertaking the course via distance education, it is the students responsibility to ensure they have access to a suitable law library.

Professional Recognition

The QUT Bachelor of Laws course is an approved degree for the purposes of the Legal Practitioners Admission Rules. Accordingly, it enables graduates to satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practise as a solicitor and/or barrister in all Australian states and territories. The QUT LLB degree qualification is also recognised for admission purposes in West and East Malaysia, Fiji and Papua New Guinea.

Career Outcomes

The defining nature of the QUT Bachelor of Laws is its real-world applied nature which will equip you with the high quality knowledge and skills and that meet the needs of the legal profession, government, business and industry. In developing the LLB the Faculty recognises that graduates are increasingly seeking a broad range of careers including, but not limited to, legal practice.

The flexible nature of the degree provides students with an opportunity to undertake a series of elective streams. These streams group legal content and legal skills units into alignment with the varied career destinations which a legal education opens to graduates and will allow you to study areas of the law that match your career aspirations.

Career opportunities include private practice as a barrister and/or solicitor; work in government departments; employment as an in-house lawyer; and a range of other occupations.

Domestic Course structure

Your course

You will complete 18 compulsory law units that cover the areas of knowledge required for admission as a legal practitioner. You will also choose 14 elective units that align with your desired career path and areas of interest.

Year 1

You will initially undertake a two-week intensive program followed by a suite of units introducing you to foundation legal concepts. You will learn about the Australian legal system and legal principles that you will build upon in later years. You will develop important legal knowledge and skills, such as research, problem solving, legal interviewing and negotiation. You also undertake contextual units that will enhance your understanding of how the law operates in practice and provide foundation knowledge in the areas of human rights and international law. You will be introduced to ethical, international and Indigenous legal perspectives.

Year 2

You will study key legal areas such as criminal, property and constitutional law. You will build upon the knowledge gained from your first year of study and extend the range of your legal skills by practising court advocacy and document drafting. You may develop an interest in a particular area of law and will start choosing elective units that align with your areas of interest.

Years 3 and 4

In the final years of your degree you will learn about principles relevant to legal practice, such as court procedure, the rules of evidence and how to act for clients in an ethical and professional manner. You will further develop legal skills, such as negotiation and advocacy, and will have a better understanding of the work of lawyers as professionals and officers of the court. You may also participate in workplace learning where you can apply what you have studied in legal settings, such as in law firms, government departments or community organisations.

These streams group legal content and legal skills units into alignment with the varied career destinations which a legal education opens to graduates and will allow you to study areas of the law that match your career aspirations.

Career opportunities include private practice as a barrister and/or solicitor; work in government departments; employment as an in-house lawyer; and a range of other occupations.

Advanced Standing (credit)

Students who are admitted to the graduate entry program will automatically receive one year of advanced standing which will allow the student to complete the degree in three years full-time.

Law School Electives Information

Students who are enrolled in LW34 (straight law undergraduate entry) are required to undertake two contextual electives in the first year of their degree (one in each semester). Contextual electives may also be undertaken by any student as an ordinary elective within their degree. The contextual electives are:

- LWB142 Law Society and Justice
- LWB144 Law and Global Perspectives
- LWB149 Indigenous Legal Issues
- LWB150 Lawyering and Dispute Resolution.

Students who are enrolled in any of the law double degrees commence their law electives in the second semester of their second year.

Students who are enrolled in LW35 (Graduate Entry) commence their law electives in first semester of their second year.

Law students other than Graduate Entry students can undertake 4 non-law units as electives within their law degree. Students may be particularly interested in elective options within the School of Justice which relate to human rights and criminal justice.

Graduate Destination Streams

The Faculty of Law has identified graduate destination streams for students undertaking a law or law double degree. This means that, as students learn more throughout their degree, they can choose their elective units in the areas of law in which they become interested. Students are not restricted to choose electives from a single stream; the streams are only to provide guidance to students in making their elective choices.

• Legal Practice
• General Legal Practice (work as a lawyer across a wide range of different legal areas)
• Specialist Legal Practice (work as a lawyer specialising in a particular area of the law, such as property law, family law or corporate law)
• Advocacy and Dispute Resolution (acting for clients in court or resolving disputes through negotiation and mediation processes)
• Public Sector (work as a lawyer in a government department)
• Private Enterprise (for those students not wanting to practise as a lawyer, but perhaps work within business management, human resources, information technology etc)

As students progress towards the end of their degrees there are more opportunities to participate in subjects where they engage in 'real world learning' , for example, working within law firms and government departments in placement electives.

Professional Recognition

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) component of the degree is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC). The Bachelor of Laws degree satisfies the academic requirements for admission to practice as a Solicitor or Barrister in all Australian States or Territories.

Many graduates wish to pursue careers in professional areas of psychology. To do so students must be registered with the Psychology Board of Australia. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in Psychology (eg Bachelor of Psychology (Honours) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology), followed by either two years of supervised work experience or the completion of an appropriate higher degree such as Doctor of Psychology (Clinical), Master of Clinical Psychology or Master of Psychology (Educational and Developmental).

Honours

The Bachelor of Laws degree may be awarded with honours to students who have recorded outstanding achievement in the law component of the program.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (English (4,SA) and Maths A, B or C (4,SA)).

International Subject prerequisites

- English

You must have achieved this study at a level comparable to Australian Year 12 or in recognised post-secondary studies (English (4,SA) and Maths A, B or C (4,SA)).

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.0
writing	6.0
reading	6.0
listening	6.0
overall	6.5

Career Outcomes

Graduates may develop careers in cyberlaw, intellectual property and privacy, dealing with the legal regulation of the Internet including downloading music, mobile phone camera use or copyright issues. You may become a legal practitioner, barrister, in-house counsel, government lawyer or policy adviser. There is also increased demand for roles in edemocracy both in egovernment service delivery and political campaigning.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited by the Australian Computer Society (ACS). ACS accreditation is internationally recognised by the Seoul Accord. At the end of your Law degree you will have completed the necessary units for admission to legal practice in Australia. To become a practicing lawyer you will need to complete further practical legal training (e.g. Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice) and then apply for admission.

Study Areas

IX53 will not have nominated majors and minors in the IT component and consequently there will not be a Study Area A shown on a graduate's parchment. Instead, IX53 will have specialisations. The specialisation areas that will be available for students will include:

• Business Process Management
• Data Warehousing
• Digital Societies
• Enterprise Systems
• Information Management
• Network Systems
• Software Engineering
• Web Technologies

Pathways to Futher Studies

In 2001, the Faculty introduced an accelerated Honours program to increase the number of Bachelor of Information Technology students continuing their studies to complete the Honours year. The program allowed selected high achieving students the opportunity to undertake one postgraduate unit in the final semester of their a BIT degree (or double degree) which would be counted both for completion of the degree and towards the Honours program. The program also provided students with the opportunity to commence their Honours studies over the Summer Semester.

An alternative to the Honours program is the Master of Information Technology (Research). Students who complete a BIT degree (or double degree) with a grade point average equal to, or greater than 5 (7 point scale) and who have decided against enrolling in an Honours program, could undertake this course. In addition, students may wish to enrol in the re-designed postgraduate coursework Masters which has ten specialisations allowing students to either extend their area of interest or specialise in other areas at the Masters level.

Graduate Destination Streams

The Faculty of Law has identified graduate destination streams for students undertaking a law or law double degree. This means that, as students learn more throughout their degree, they can choose their elective units in the areas of law in which they become interested. Students are not restricted to choose electives from a single stream; the streams are only to provide guidance to students in making their elective choices.

• Legal Practice
• General Legal Practice (work as a lawyer across a wide range of different legal areas)
• Specialist Legal Practice (work as a lawyer specialising in a particular area of the law, such as property law, family law or corporate law)
• Advocacy and Dispute Resolution (acting for clients in court or resolving disputes through negotiation and mediation processes)
• Public Sector (work as a lawyer in a government department)
• Private Enterprise (for those students not wanting to practise as a lawyer, but perhaps work within business management, human resources, information technology etc)

As students progress towards the end of their degrees there are more opportunities to participate in subjects where they engage in 'real world learning' , for example, working within law firms and government departments in placement electives.

Law School Electives Information

Students who are enrolled in LW34 (straight law undergraduate entry) are required to undertake two contextual electives in the first year of their degree (one in each semester). Contextual electives may also be undertaken by any student as an ordinary elective within their degree. The contextual electives are:
• LWB142 Law Society and Justice
• LWB144 Law and Global Perspectives
• LWB149 Indigenous Legal Issues
• LWB150 Lawyering and Dispute Resolution.

Students who are enrolled in any of the law double degrees commence their law electives in the second semester of their second year.

Students who are enrolled in LW35 (Graduate Entry) commence their law electives in first semester of their second year.

Law students other than Graduate Entry students can undertake 4 non-law units as electives within their law degree. Students may be particularly interested in elective options within the School of Justice which relate to human rights and criminal justice.

Course Overview

There is an ever-increasing number of criminal acts resulting from the development and use of technology (such as the Internet and mobile devices), therefore, students with a corporate systems management background have the appropriate skills and knowledge required to work on criminology and policing for these areas. Corporate systems management students also gain information systems knowledge which allows them to more effectively manage, secure and control systems and processing in justice departments.

Corporate systems management teaches students how to analyse business needs and devise IT-enabled business systems that deliver the necessary information to the key people via the most appropriate technologies. The justice component comprises a primary major study area in either criminology or policing, which covers skills in criminology, policing, ethics, crime prevention, justice policy and investigations.

Career Outcomes

Graduates find work in justice areas including corrective services, police, Crime and Misconduct Commission, Department of Justice and Attorney-General, Federal and Family Courts and the Australian Taxation Office.

Professional Recognition

This course is accredited by the Australian Computer Society (ACS). ACS accreditation is internationally recognised by the Seoul Accord.

Cooperative Education Program

The Faculty's Cooperative Education Program gives you the opportunity of 10-12 months paid industry placement during your course where you can integrate real experience with what you're learning in your degree. Companies that QUT's Coop Ed students have worked with include Energex, Boeing, CITEC, CSC Mining, Environmental Protection Agency, Dialog, UNiTAB, RACQ and many Queensland Government departments. The Coop Ed Program is available to Australian citizens and permanent residents only.

Domestic Assumed knowledge

Before you start this course we assume you have sound knowledge in these areas

- English

We assume that you have knowledge equivalent to four semesters at high school level (Years 11 and 12) with sound achievement (4, SA). Accountancy, Finance, Economics and Marketing majors also requires 4 SA in Maths A, B or C.

International Subject prerequisites

- English

You must have achieved this study at a level comparable to Australian Year 12 or in recognised post-secondary studies. Accountancy, Finance, Economics and Marketing majors also requires 4 SA in Maths A, B or C.

Minimum english requirements

Students must meet the English proficiency requirements.

IELTS (International English Language Testing System)
speaking	6.0
writing	6.0
reading	6.0
listening	6.0
overall	6.5

Course design

Students are required to complete 528 credit points, comprised of 192 credit points for the Bachelor of Business program and 336 credit points for the Bachelor of Laws program.

Business students will complete 96 credit points (16 units) consisting of eight Business School Core Units and an eight unit major. As the content of BSB111 Business Law and Ethics overlaps with the Bachelor of Laws, it has been replaced by MGB223 Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Students must choose a major from:

- Accountancy
- Advertising
- Economics
- Finance
- Human Resource Management
- International Business
- Management
- Marketing
- Public Relations

For professional recognition, the Accountancy structure differs from the normal structure. Accountancy students will complete seven Business School Core Units and complete a nine unit major.

Professional recognition

The QUT Bachelor of Laws course is an approved degree for the purposes of the Legal Practitioners Admission Rules. Accordingly, it enables graduates to satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practise as a solicitor and/or barrister in all Australian states and territories. The QUT LLB degree qualification is also recognised for admission purposes in West and East Malaysia, Fiji and Papua New Guinea.

Business component: Students may be eligible for membership to a number of professional bodies depending on choice of major and unit selection. Details on professional recognition can be found under the individual majors of the Bachelor of Business (BS05).

Advanced standing

You may wish to apply for advanced standing (also known as credit or exemption) for former completed studies and other assessable learning outcomes. See more at Advanced Standing

Deferment

Domestic students can defer their offer in this course for one year. In exceptional circumstances up to 12 months of additional deferment may be granted.

Find out more on deferment.

Law School Electives Information

Students who are enrolled in LW34 (straight law undergraduate entry) are required to undertake two contextual electives in the first year of their degree (one in each semester). Contextual electives may also be undertaken by any student as an ordinary elective within their degree. The contextual electives are:

- LWB142 Law Society and Justice
- LWB144 Law and Global Perspectives
- LWB149 Indigenous Legal Issues
- LWB150 Lawyering and Dispute Resolution.

Students who are enrolled in any of the law double degrees commence their law electives in the second semester of their second year.

Students who are enrolled in LW35 (Graduate Entry) commence their law electives in first semester of their second year.

Law students other than Graduate Entry students can undertake 4 non-law units as electives within their law degree. Students may be particularly interested in elective options within the School of Justice which relate to human rights and criminal justice.

Important Information for Business Students

QUT Business School rules and procedures are outlined in the Business Undergraduate Guidelines booklet. Other useful information can be found on the Student Services website.

Graduate Destination Streams

The Faculty of Law has identified graduate destination streams for students undertaking a law or law double degree. This means that, as students learn more throughout their degree, they can choose their elective units in the areas of law in which they become interested. Students are not restricted to choose electives from a single stream; the streams are only to provide guidance to students in making their elective choices.

• Legal Practice
• General Legal Practice (work as a lawyer across a wide range of different legal areas)
• Specialist Legal Practice (work as a lawyer specialising in a particular area of the law, such as property law, family law or corporate law)
• Advocacy and Dispute Resolution (acting for clients in court or resolving disputes through negotiation and mediation processes)
• Public Sector (work as a lawyer in a government department)
• Private Enterprise (for those students not wanting to practise as a lawyer, but perhaps work within business management, human resources, information technology etc)

As students progress towards the end of their degrees there are more opportunities to participate in subjects where they engage in ‘real world learning’ , for example, working within law firms and government departments in placement electives.

IMPORTANT NOTE

As of 2013, this course will only be available for continuing Bachelor of Applied Science/Bachelor of Business students and those students who are commencing in 2013 with advanced standing of 96 credit points of 1st year Bachelor of Applied Science units.
New students - please refer to Bachelor of Science/Bachelor of Business. Please contact sef.enquiry@qut.edu.au for any enquiries.

Professional Recognition

Graduates will satisfy the requirements for membership in the relevant professional body for their science major. See Studyfinder for details on the Bachelor of Applied Science majors.

At the end of your Law degree you will have completed the necessary units for admission to legal practice in Australia. To become a practising lawyer you will need to complete further practical legal training (e.g. Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice) and then apply for admission.

Course Design

The course is designed to cover all major areas of the law as well as allowing students to choose any of the following science majors that are offered in the Bachelor of Applied Science (SC01) course: biochemistry, biotechnology, chemistry, ecology, environmental science, forensic science, geoscience, microbiology and physics.

To complete the double degree in a shorter period of time, the co-major will be taken from the law program therefore it is not possible for students to choose any of the co-majors listed under the Bachelor of Applied Science course.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of this course, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Journalism (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Laws, there are a number of further study options open to you. The Bachelor of Laws meets the entry requirements for Practical Legal Training courses (for example, the QUT Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice). In addition, successful completion of the law degree will allow you to pursue postgraduate opportunities through research- and coursework-based higher degrees in law.

Overview

A double degree in justice and psychology offers you greater flexibility in your career. Combining skills in these two complementary areas, you will be able to apply psychological principles to the field of justice.

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) provides the first step towards a career as a registered psychologist and an excellent foundation for careers in a wide range of related areas. The course provides a broad foundation in the science of psychology and its application, developing your ability to understand and apply psychological principles to personal, social, and organisational issues, as well as high-level communication and social research skills that are valuable in a wide range of professions.

In addition to core studies in social, developmental, biological, cognitive, and abnormal psychology, research methods and psychological assessment, you can choose electives from specialist areas in alcohol and drugs, family therapy and counselling, psychology and gender, and traffic psychology. Final-year students have the opportunity to apply their knowledge and skills in a volunteer community placement.

The Bachelor of Justice equips graduates for a wide variety of employment in the criminal justice, government (state and federal), law enforcement and policing and intelligence fields. Past graduates have developed successful careers in the State or Federal police services, created social and justice policies for governments, contributed to the work of advocacy centres (eg. women, youth and children's advocacy), become criminologists, and advanced into Defence, Customs and the Australian Crime Commission.

Other popular career choices include corrections and human rights and anti-discrimination areas. Students are prepared for the workplace, not only by exploring the most recent theory and practice of social justice, but by including relevant general skills like problem-solving, analytical ability and applied computer skills that are relevant to the workplace.

Location

Psychology units are offered at Kelvin Grove campus and Justice units are offered at Gardens Point campus.

Career outcomes

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) provides the first step towards a career as a registered psychologist and an excellent foundation for careers in a wide range of related areas. Psychology graduates have skills that equip them for many professional areas. The analytical, research and interpersonal skills acquired have a high degree of application in areas such as education, human resources, market research, organisational development, policing, health and human services and counselling.
Further study is required if you wish to become a registered psychologist. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in Psychology, followed by at least two years of further study, which may comprise the completion of an appropriate APAC-accredited Masters degree and/or supervised work experience a wide variety of employment in criminal justice and related security fields. Past graduates have developed successful careers in state and federal law enforcement, correctional services, private security, defence services and customs, and worked on social and justice policies for government and non-government organisations. Others have become criminologists, contributed to women's youth and children's advocacy, or worked in the areas of human rights and antidiscrimination.

You will be prepared for the workplace by exploring the most recent theory and practice of social justice, and gain problem-solving, analytical and applied computer skills that are relevant to the workplace.

Professional recognition

The Bachelor of Behavioural Science component of the program comprises a 3-year undergraduate psychology sequence accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC), completed across 4 years of study. On completion of this double degree, students have the option to apply for a 4th year program in psychology, in order to gain provisional registration as a psychologist.

At any point during your study, you can become a student member of the Australian Psychological Society. Such membership should not be confused with registration as a psychologist. To become a psychologist, you must be registered with the Psychology Board of Australia. This currently involves completing a fourth year of study in Psychology (eg Bachelor of Psychology (Honours) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology, followed by at least two years of further study, which may comprise the completion of an appropriate APAC-accredited Masters degree and/or supervised work experience.

The Bachelor of Justice is highly regarded by the Australian Federal Police, Queensland Police Service and all law enforcement agencies, with many justice graduates gaining employment in these services.

Course structure

In order to complete the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) component, you must complete a total of 192 credit points consisting of:
Psychology core units (12 units = 144 credit points)
Psychology elective units (4 units = 48 credit points)

In order to complete the Bachelor of Justice component, you must complete a total of 192 credit points from the following:
Justice core units (8 units = 96 credit points)
Study Area A (8 units = 96 credit points)

Students must complete a total of 384 credit points.

Pathways to further study

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) (including completion of PYB350), you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Behavioural Science (Psychology) (Honours) or Postgraduate Diploma in Psychology, provided you have achieved the required GPA.

On successful completion of the Bachelor of Justice, you will be eligible to apply for entry into the Bachelor of Justice (Honours), provided you have achieved the required GPA.

Advanced standing based on previous study

QUT's standard advanced standing arrangements apply.
For core psychology units advanced standing is restricted to equivalent units completed in an APAC-accredited psychology program.

Course structure

The Master of Research Management and Commercialisation is particularly suited to current or aspiring research management leaders, administrators and active researchers in corporations, universities and the public sector. The Masters builds on the content of the Graduate Certificate and allows you to develop a deeper understanding of the context and strategic issues involved in research management and commercialisation. You can tailor the course to your needs by applying these ideas and concepts to issues of relevance to you and, where possible, undertaking assessment through workplace-based projects.

Students enrolled in the masters-level course can choose to exit with an award of Graduate Diploma in Research and Development Management following the completion of eight approved units.

Overview

This course is offered in collaboration with WIPO Worldwide Academy and is designed to build on the skills and knowledge of professionals working in fields related to and allied with intellectual property law by providing;

• a deep and thorough knowledge of IP law, policy and practice relevant to IP professionals as applicable in the global environment, particularly in the Asia/Pacific region;
• competent research, written and oral skills underpinned by strong practical knowledge of IP law;
• the ability to apply relevant IP law, policy and principles in diverse national and international contexts.

A diversity of teaching methods will be used from intensive classroom delivery and interaction to online contact. However, course content principally will be delivered through face-to-face lectures, tutorials, seminars and workshops. Particularly for WIPO taught units, students will be supported through email and chat room contact with lecturers and tutors. Each unit will be supported by a web site enabling students to access study materials and other information relating to the unit at any time of day or night.

Application Closing Date

The final closing date for applications for this course for 2011 is 21 January 2011 (no late applications will be accepted).

Award

1.1 The following rules apply to the degree of Master Justice to be obtained by research and thesis awarded by the Queensland University of Technology, and are made with the authority of the Academic Board of this University.
1.2 For the purposes of these Rules the Course Coordinator acts as the delegate of the Dean, Faculty of Law, and the Faculty of Law Research Committee acts as the delegate of the Law Academic Board.

Admissions and Enrolment

3.1 An application for admission shall be made on the prescribed form:
(i) The Postgraduate Research application form (PR Form) (if the applicant holds citizenship or permanent residency in Australia or New Zealand); or
(ii) The Foreign Research application form (FR Form) (if the applicant is an international candidate).
3.2 Admission of a person as a candidate for the degree shall be at the discretion of the Course Coordinator on the recommendation of the Law Faculty Research Committee.
3.3 A person applying for admission as a candidate for the degree shall apply in accordance with the requirements of the Registrar and shall pay all prescribed fees.
3.4 A person admitted as a candidate may enrol as either a full-time student or a part-time student. International students studying in Australia on student visas may only enrol in full-time programs.

Progress Reports

4.1 The Principal Supervisor and candidate are required to report on a six monthly basis (by 30 April and 30 September) on the prescribed form on the candidate's progress and research plans. Reports shall be signed by both the candidate and by the Principal Supervisor and submitted through the Law Faculty Research Committee to the Office of Research for consideration by the Research Degrees Committee.
4.2 Where the candidate's progress is deemed satisfactory, the Research Degrees Committee shall approve continuation of candidature.
4.3 Where progress is deemed unsatisfactory, the Research Degrees Committee, on advice from the Faculty Research Committee, will normally place the candidature under review for a period of up to three months from the date that the candidate is advised in writing of the decision. The Research Degrees Committee will inform the candidate of the required remedial action to be followed taking account of the advice provided by the Principal Supervisor and the Faculty.
4.4 A report on the action taken to resolve the deficiencies in the program must be made to the Faculty Research Committee and the Research Degrees Committee may then approve continuation of candidature if these deficiencies have been redressed and progress is again satisfactory.

4.5 If progress is still unsatisfactory after the Review Period, the Research Degrees Committee, on advice from the Faculty Research Committee, shall ask the candidate to show cause why the enrolment of the candidate should not be terminated.
4.6 If a candidate fails to submit an annual report through their Principal Supervisor to Research Degrees Committee by the due date without applying, in writing, for an extension on the prescribed form two weeks prior to the due date, the Research Degrees Committee may ask the candidate to show cause why the enrolment of the candidate should not be terminated.
4.7 Upon failure of the candidate to show cause the candidate's enrolment will be terminated.

Thesis Requirements

5.1 Students undertake applied research on an approved topic, which involves both an appropriate theoretical perspective and a specific orientation to professional practice and application. The thesis submitted for the degree shall be not less than 50,000 words and should constitute a substantial contribution to knowledge and understanding in criminal justice (eg criminology, law enforcement, strategic intelligence). It shall include a title page, table of contents and bibliography, and shall otherwise comply with the University's requirements for presenting theses.
5.2 The candidate shall submit a detailed research outline to the Course Coordinator within two months of admission to candidature. The research outline should include the following:
* The proposed title of the thesis;
* The objectives of the program of research and investigation;
* An outline of the proposed research;
* The Research methods and plan;
* The relation of the study to previous work in the same field by the candidate and others;
* A preliminary literature review;
* A substantial bibliography;
* A timeline for the completion of the research
* A copy of the Research Ethics Review Checklist
* The proposed supervisor(s) and their credentials
* An intellectual property agreement if required
* Memo of Understanding for any external supervisor
5.3 The Law Faculty Research Committee may, upon the recommendation of the Course Coordinator vary the title of the thesis topic.
5.4 A candidate enrolled for the degree shall, at least once per semester during the period of candidature, consult with the Principal Supervisor and, where appropriate, any Associate Supervisor appointed by the Law Faculty Research Committee on the advice of the Course Coordinator.
5.5 A candidate shall submit three copies of the thesis in the form prescribed by the University for the submission of theses to the Course Coordinator not later than the end of November or May, as the case may be, in the year in which the candidate is required to complete the degree. On submission of the thesis, the candidate shall furnish a written statement to the effect that the thesis is that candidate's work alone, except where due acknowledgment is made in the text, and does not include material which has been previously submitted or accepted for a degree or diploma.
5.6 The Principal Supervisor shall recommend to the Faculty Research Committee the names of two examiners for the thesis, at least one of whom must be external to the University and neither of whom are the candidate's supervisor.
5.7 The Law Faculty Research Committee, through the Office of Research, shall refer the thesis to two examiners. Each examiner shall report, normally within two months of receipt of the thesis, whether in the examiner's opinion, the thesis is of the standard required for the award of the degree. Each examiner shall also recommend that the thesis:
(i) be accepted
(ii) not be accepted, or
(iii) be accepted subject to amendments to be made to the satisfaction of the Principal Supervisor.
5.8 After both examiners' reports are received the Office of Research will forward them to the Course Coordinator, the Principal Supervisor and the candidate with an appropriate covering letter. (Until such time as the examination process is complete the identity of the examiners will be withheld from the candidate.)

Examiners in Agreement
Where both examiners recommend that the thesis be accepted (recommendations (i) or (iii)), the Course Coordinator will consult with the Principal Supervisor to discuss any corrections or revisions that the candidate may be required to make and where revisions are required.

Where corrections or revisions are to be made to the satisfaction of the Principal Supervisor, the Principal Supervisor must certify to the Research Degrees Committee that they recommend acceptance of the thesis in fulfilment of the conditions for the award of the MJust (Research) degree.

Examiners not in Agreement
Where the recommendations of the examiners are not in agreement as to whether the thesis should be accepted for the award of MJust (Research) or as to whether the thesis may be revised, the Law Faculty Research Committee will refer the thesis to a third examiner.

Upon receipt of the third examiner's report, a majority decision shall be adopted. Where the majority decision is that the thesis be accepted or that the thesis be rejected, this shall be the decision of the examiners as the case may be. Where the recommendation of three examiners clearly differ and no clear majority exists, the Course Coordinator or nominee shall liaise with the Principal Supervisor to determine the further course of action.

Appeals
A candidate whose thesis has failed may lodge an appeal against the outcome of the examination process. The grounds for appeal may be on matters of process only, ie procedural irregularities in the conduct of the examination or documented evidence of examiner bias as evidenced by comments in the examiners reports.

An appeal must be lodged within sixty (60) days of the date of written advice from the Office of Research on the outcome of the examination. This appeal must include the specific grounds on which the appeal is based. Appeals must be submitted in writing to the Office of the Pro-Vice-Chancellor (Research and Advancement). The University Director, Postgraduate Research Studies, will determine whether a potential conflict of interest exists in relation to his/her consideration of the appeal. In cases where a conflict of interest exists, the University Director, Postgraduate Research Studies, will appoint a member of academic staff, with expertise in research candidate supervision to consider the appeal.

The University Director, Postgraduate Research Studies, or appointee will decide whether a case exists and may seek the advice of the Faculty or school as appropriate. The appeal may be allowed or dismissed. If an appeal is allowed, the University Director, Postgraduate Research Studies, or appointee cannot recommend that the degree be awarded but shall recommend that the thesis be re-examined.

The University Director, Postgraduate Research Studies, or appointee will make a determination on the appeal as soon as practicable and will advise appellants, in writing, of the result of the appeal.

5.9 Following final acceptance of the thesis one bound copy and one electronic copy of the thesis must be submitted to the Office of Research for inclusion in the QUT Faculty of Law Library. These copies shall be in the prescribed form as set out in the University Requirements for Presenting Theses and be provided at the candidate's expense. An additional copy shall be bound at the Faculty's expense for inclusion in the Faculty Office collection. Any corrections resulting from the examiners' assessment shall be made prior to binding, and by retyping if they would otherwise be obtrusive.

Credit for Research Work Done Elsewhere

6.1 The Course Coordinator may grant credit toward the Master of Justice degree by Research for work done at another institution of similar standing. Such credit shall not be granted unless the candidate provides to the Course Coordinator:

(i) evidence that the candidate has cancelled or terminated enrolment at the other institution, and
(ii) a written undertaking that the candidate will not seek credit in any form or manner for work done at the other institution or any other institutions except to complete the degree at QUT.

Time for Completion Requirements

7.1 Except in special circumstances and with the approval of the Course Coordinator:

(i) a full-time candidate shall complete all the requirements for the degree not earlier than the end of the second semester and not later than the end of the sixth semester of candidature;
(ii) a part-time candidate shall complete all the requirements for the degree not earlier than the end of the fourth semester and not later than the end of the eight semester of the candidature. International students studying on student visas must be enrolled on a full-time basis.

7.2 The Course Coordinator may, upon the application of the candidate, extend any time limited by the rules by such further period as may be consistent with general University rules. Extensions of time for international students will only be made in exceptional circumstances. International students should consult the Course Coordinator and the Office of International Students if an extension of time is required.

Award of Degree

8.1 A candidate who has fulfilled the requirements of these rules and who has otherwise complied with the provisions of all statutes and other rules applicable may be admitted to the degree of Master of Justice (Research) by the University Academic Board on the recommendation of the Law Academic Board and the University Research Degrees Committee.

Location and Duration

The expected duration of the Doctor of Philosophy is three to four years full-time, or six to eight years part-time. Full-time study is normally conducted on-campus at QUT. Part-time and external study options may be available depending on the project, infrastructure requirements and funding arrangements. Although QUT offers this flexibility, candidates must meet minimum attendance requirements and the university must be satisfied that adequate supervision and resources are available.

International student visas require on-campus study to be completed full-time.

Course Structure

QUT adopts a project management approach. PhD candidates work closely with their supervisory team to meet collegially reviewed milestones leading to timely submission of a thesis for examination. QUT is proud of its record of timely completions and low attrition rates realised by this approach.

During candidature the supervisor and other key stakeholders will provide advice and direction to the candidate to encourage their participation in university scholarly activities such as research seminars, teaching and publication. The length of the thesis varies according to the topic, but should normally be no longer than 100,000 words, excluding bibliography.

International Student Entry

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy depends on an applicant's demonstrated research aptitude and the availability of supervision, infrastructure and resources needed for the proposed research project.

An applicant would normally hold:
. a relevant first or second class division A honours degree or equivalent, or

2. Period of Time for Completion of Program

2.1 The normal period of candidature is:
* Full-time candidates: two years from date of commencement;
* Part-time candidates: four years from date of commencement;
In exceptional cases the Law Faculty Research Committee may approve submission of the thesis within a shorter period.
2.2 The maximum period of candidature is:
* Full-time candidates: four years from date of commencement;
* Part-time candidates: eight years from date of commencement;
2.3 The candidate may change from full-time to part-time candidature or vice versa by making application on a prescribed form to the Faculty Research Committee through the office of the Assistant Dean, Research. International students studying on student visas are unable to alter their mode of study from full-time to part-time unless they are in their final semester of study.
2.4 A candidate who does not expect to submit his/her thesis by the maximum candidature date must apply for an extension of time on the prescribed form through the Assistant Dean, Research for consideration by the Faculty Research Committee. The application must include the reasons for the delay, written endorsement of the request for extension by the Principal Supervisor and a revised timeline for completion. Applications for extensions will not normally be considered by the Faculty Research Committee unless the reasons for the delays have been documented in previous progress/supervisor reports. Extensions will only be given in exceptional circumstances. Minor breakdown of computer equipment or absence of a Principal Supervisor are not usually considered exceptional.

3. Supervision

3.1 Supervision shall be conducted according to the QUT Code of Good Practice for Postgraduate Research Studies and Supervision (MOPP Appendix 9).
3.2 A Principal Supervisor from QUT and one Associate Supervisor shall be appointed.
3.3 The Principal Supervisor has responsibility for supervising a candidate on a frequent basis and must be a current member of the QUT staff or an emeritus professor of QUT still active in research. The Principal Supervisor shall normally have undertaken successful supervision of research degree candidates, and shall have an established research record in the area of the proposed project.
3.4 The Associate Supervisor may be a member of the QUT staff and must possess appropriate expertise in the research field and would normally be a person who has undertaken successful supervision of research degree candidates.

4. Course Structure

The value of the course is set at 192 credit points, a dissertation of 50,000-60,000 words. Students must complete or have completed LWN048 Advanced Legal Research (or equivalent) as a requirement of this course.

Students commencing the Bachelor of Business must complete 24 units of equal weighting totalling 288 credit points, comprised of:
(a) eight Business School Core units
(b) one block of eight Major Core units
(c) choice of one block of:
• six Second Major units and two option (elective) units or • eight option (elective) units or
• two Minors (four units each) (university or Business School or extension) or
• one Minor (four units)(university or Business School or extension) and four option (elective) units.

Enrolment and advanced standing

You may wish to apply for advanced standing (also known as credit or exemption) for former completed studies and other assessable learning outcomes. See more on Advanced Standing.

Caboolture campus students: The Business School Core units and the Management and Marketing majors are available at this campus. Students must choose first year Business School Core units at Caboolture campus but may choose units from majors from other Business disciplines at Gardens Point to complete the rest of their degree. When enrolling for the first time, students will be required to select either Management or Marketing as their major. After their first year, students will be able to change their major. Students may choose majors offered at Gardens Point or continue their studies at Caboolture. Students from other campuses may enrol in units at Caboolture. Business core unit availability will vary each semester. Students who wish to complete their degree in full-time mode should consult Studyfinder for specific course progression and enrolment advice. Queries regarding unit availabilities and progression can be directed to Business Student Services on bus@qut.edu.au or the Caboolture Student Centre.

Gardens Point campus students: The first year program and all Business study areas are available at Gardens Point. Students commencing this course at Gardens Point campus must enrol on-line by nominating their primary major and then enrol in units according to that major. You are required to only nominate your first major to satisfy enrolment procedures. The second area of study, i.e. Second Major/Extension/Minor may be nominated at a later date. Students who have been granted advanced standing (academic credit) should nominate their second area of study (i.e. Second Major/Extension/Minor) in order to determine their enrolment program.

Special requirements

• For your course structure and enrolment advice see Course Checklist and follow the instructions.
• A full-time student may only enrol in units contained in the normal course program for semesters 1 and 2 in the first year of study unless in exceptional circumstances and with the approval of the Course Coordinator.

• A part-time student may only select units from those listed for years 1 and 2 in the first two years of study.
• Students must take Business School Core units at first attempt, in the semester outlined in the structure of their chosen major.
• A student must enrol in more than one unit in any semester, unless they have the approval of the Course Coordinator.

International students

International students must maintain a full-time study load to meet student visa requirements. International students are only permitted to enrol in units at Gardens Point campus. International students should consult the International Student Office on Level 2, B Block for advice.

Your degree at a glance

Year 1

Sign up for Accounting Connexions to learn the ropes of university life from an experienced student. Academically, you will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, covering all areas of business from finance and economics through to marketing and electronic business. Generic skills in all areas will enhance your understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. Start your accountancy major in second semester with a focus on financial reporting and disclosure.

Year 2

You will learn how to interpret financial information and reports and gain skills in using this information for business decision making. Practical experience in using software such as MYOB and Accounting Information Systems Cycles will complement your theoretical knowledge in corporate reporting and product costing. You can start to build your professional networks and find out more about the corporate world that awaits you at boardroom seminars. You'll also start to shape your career with the selection of a second study area.

Year 3

You will draw on the knowledge gained through your major to solve real-world accounting problems such as preparing a tax return or analysing the financial statements of a client business. You'll also investigate how auditors report on the financial statements of companies, individuals and trusts. For the best chance of a top job to launch your career, attend graduate recruitment events on campus or take a work placement with one of our industry partners.

Professional recognition

Graduates meet the academic component of requirements for membership of CPA Australia, the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Australia, the Institute of Public Accountants, and enrolment in their respective professional programs. Graduates are also eligible for exemptions in the qualifying program for membership of the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants.

In addition we have also been accredited with RG146. Therefore students who complete the Superannuation and Wealth Management Minor in conjunction with an Accountancy Major will meet the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) RG146 competency and skill requirements for Tier 1 financial advisers.

Real world focus

Our Johnston Rorke Boardroom Seminar Series gives some second-year students a feel for corporate life, with the opportunity to talk to partners of the firm about real client cases.

In third year some students will have the opportunity to undertake an organised work experience placement with an accounting firm or in an organisation in the media, community, banking or government sector. Demonstrating your ability to apply your knowledge in a real workplace is another way you can stand out from the crowd to future employers.

You can even get a taste of what life is like as a researcher during your studies, with paid research work opportunities within the School, working with academic supervisors on real-world research projects, or as part of a Summer Semester Research scholarship. You might discover your potential for research work or an academic career.

Career preparation program

Accounting Connexions helps you settle into university life by matching first-year students with established accountancy students. You'll get to know how university works, where the library and computer labs are, and meet other students.

Other majors

See also separate entries for the following majors in this course: Advertising, Economics, Finance, Human Resource Management, International Business, Management, Marketing, and Public Relations.

Your degree at a glance

Year 1

You will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, covering all areas of business from finance, accounting and economics through to international and electronic business. With generic skills in all areas, you'll have an understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. Your advertising major starts in second semester with the question of why consumers choose the products they buy. You'll also learn how advertising agencies relate to both the media, suppliers and the companies that hire them.

Year 2

You will build your skills in creating advertising, including practical writing and concept development workshops. You'll learn to solve advertising problems by analysing the consumer and the product, and how to create cost effective media schedules. You can start to build your professional portfolio and gain the attention of national and international agencies by entering competitions specifically for advertising students. You'll also have the opportunity to personalise your degree with the selection of your second study area.

Year 3

You will round out your major by formulating an advertising campaign from a real-world client's brief. Working as a team, you'll research your client's advertising problem and identify strategies to solve it. You'll then develop creative ideas, match them to innovative media solutions and deliver a boardroom pitch to the client. Your client could be a Queensland icon such as Queensland Day, the Ekka or the Brisbane Lions, a charity such as Muscular Dystrophy, or a national consumer goods or pharmaceutical company.

Professional recognition

Graduates may be eligible for membership of a number of professional bodies depending on choice of major and units.

Advertising first and second major – Students will meet requirements for membership to the Advertising Federation of Australia, the Australian Association of National Advertisers, Media Federation of Australia and the Australian Direct Marketing Association.

Our reputation

QUT was the first university to offer a degree level program in advertising - a decade before anyone else in Australia. This course remains a unique advertising degree taught within a business school, giving QUT advertising graduates a strategic and commercial edge.

Industry links

The advertising industry is a network, and one which QUT is strongly connected to. Our School of Advertising, Marketing and Public Relations interacts with the industry, sponsoring events and drawing from the industry a talented pool of guest lecturers.

Our lecturers have worked in the industry, and bring real-world experience and in-depth theoretical underpinnings to the classroom.

AMPed, the student association for QUT advertising, marketing and public relations students, is another link to the real world. Through AMPed you can access industry professionals, and find out about events run by professional bodies. It's also a great way to meet your peers, and create your own career networks.

Deferment

Domestic students can defer their offer in this course for one year. In exceptional circumstances up to 12 months of additional deferment may be granted.

Find out more on deferment.

Practical teaching

As an integral part of this course, you'll work in a team to formulate an advertising campaign from a real-world client's brief. You'll research your client's advertising problem and identify strategies to solve it. You'll then develop creative ideas, match them to innovative media solutions and deliver a boardroom pitch to the client. Your client could be a Queensland icon such as Queensland Day or the Ekka, a charity such as Muscular Dystrophy, or a national consumer goods or pharmaceutical company.

Your degree at a glance

Year 1

You will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, from finance and accounting through to marketing and international business. With generic skills in all areas, you will have an understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. Your economics major begins in second semester, when you'll cover consumer behaviour, business cycles and policy, and the significance of the international economy. You will build skills in interpreting financial and economic data and reports, and use this information for business decision making.

Year 2

Delving further into your major, you will learn more about production, the economics of market structures, the workings of the national economy, and the roles of fiscal and monetary policy. You will contemplate the interplay between government, private firms and consumers, and analyse the increasing globalisation of world trade and investment. You will also shape your future career options through the consideration of a second study area.

Year 3

Projects and research assignments will build your practical skills. You will apply economic theories learned so far to topics of current interest, such as the federal budget, Australia's ageing population or global warming. You will learn how to locate the data for your analysis, decide on the relevant economic theories and models, and distil this into possible solutions. This analysis will help you advise the best way forward, and give you a practical introduction to the real-world applications of economic theory.

Professional Recognition

Graduates may be eligible for membership of a number of professional bodies depending on choice of major and units.

Study area

Economics major – You will meet the academic requirements for professional membership to the Economic Society of Australia.

Second study area

Finance second major – Students will meet the educational requirements for Associate Membership of the Financial Services Institute of Australasia (FINSIA).

All second majors – Students will meet the academic requirements for enrolment in the Graduate Diploma of Applied Corporate Governance at Chartered Secretaries Australia (CSA). On completion of the Graduate Diploma of Applied Corporate Governance, students will meet the academic requirement for professional membership of Chartered Secretaries Australia and also membership of the international association, Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators (ICSA) of which CSA is the Australian division. Membership of ICSA entitles members to use the post nominals of ACIS or Fellow of Chartered Institute of Secretaries (FCIS). Ordinary Membership of the Economics Society of Australia only requires students have an interest in the area of Economics. Academic requirements for Professional Membership of the Economics Society of Australia (Qld) requires that students have held an Ordinary Membership of the Economics Society of Australia for one year and have completed a Bachelor of Business majoring in Economics.

Industry links

Our lecturers have a wide range of real-world experience in finance, government policy making and in industry, so their teaching reflects current thinking and is based on practical situations and outcomes. These links also provide access to guest lecturers, who add their own experiences and challenges to your learning and thinking.

Year 1

You will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, covering all areas of business from accounting and economics through to marketing and international business. You will gain generic skills in all areas and an understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. You will begin your major with skills in interpreting economic data for business decision making. Business cycles, foreign exchange markets, terms of trade and the significance of the international economy will also be covered.

Year 2

You will build a deeper understanding of the fundamental concepts of finance – the time value of money and the effect of interest rates, diversification and its role in forming an investment portfolio, and the relationship between risk and return. The types of financial markets and instruments traded, such as shares, bonds and futures, will also be introduced. You will also choose a second study area, such as accounting, economics, or further finance studies, which will help to shape your career.

Year 3

Project work and research assignments will hone your practical skills and prepare you for the workplace. You will develop valuation skills relevant to shares and derivatives. You can also act as a corporate treasurer for a semester, using data facilities in the Securities Dealing Room to gain experience in raising funds and managing the risk and cost of borrowing these funds in the face of unfolding economic scenarios.

Professional recognition

By choosing appropriate units in this course, you will meet the Australian financial professional training standard RG146 Tier 1 compliance, as administered by the Australian Securities and Investments Commission. Graduates of the finance major meet the academic requirements for Associate Membership of the Financial Services Institute of Australasia.

Second study area

Economics second major – Students will meet the educational requirements for Associate Membership of the Financial Services Institute of Australasia. Ordinary Membership of the Economics Society of Australia only requires that students have an interest in the area of Economics. Professional Membership of the Economics Society of Australia (Qld) requires students have held an Ordinary Membership of the Economics Society of Australia for one year and have completed a Bachelor of Business majoring in Economics.

All second majors – Students will meet the educational requirements for Associate Membership of the Financial Services Institute of Australasia.

Students will also meet the academic requirements for enrolment in the Graduate Diploma in Applied Corporate Governance at the Chartered Secretaries Australia. On completion of the Graduate Diploma in Applied Corporate Governance, students will meet the academic requirement for Professional Membership of the Chartered Secretaries Australia.

Financial Services extension – Completion of some units in this extension will enable students to partially meet ASIC RG146 Tier 1 compliance. Refer to ASIC for more details.

Funds Management extension – Completion of some units in this extension will enable students to partially meet ASIC RG146 Tier 1 compliance. Refer to ASIC for more details.

Securities Dealing Room

QUT pioneered the use of real financial data in Queensland universities. Our Securities Dealing Room gives you access to data from Bloomberg, providers of financial data to many of the world's financial institutions. This comprehensive set of data on companies, commodities and economics will be useful in your final year project work, and allow you to apply the theory you learn to conduct real-world financial analysis.

Industry links

Our finance lecturers have a wealth of real-world experience, including consulting with Queensland Treasury, Brisbane City Council, QR, Queensland Transport and Ergon Energy, and guest lecturing with industry bodies such as the Financial Services Institute of Australasia (FINSIA) and CPA Australia.

Practical teaching

Final year project work and research assignment will hone your practical skills and prepare you for the workplace. You will act as a corporate treasurer for a semester, using data facilities in the Securities Dealing Room to gain experience in raising funds and managing the risk and cost of borrowing these funds in the face of unfolding economic scenarios.

Year 1

You will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, covering all areas of business from finance, accounting and economics through to marketing and electronic business. With generic skills in all areas, you will have an understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. Your focus on human resources begins with a broad introduction to many of the human resource management functions and how these functions complement the strategic direction of businesses and help organisations maintain competitive advantage.

Year 2

You will build your foundation knowledge of business and human resource management, through developing a deeper understanding of individuals and groups. You will also investigate how the structure and organisation of human resources impact on organisations and their activities. You will develop skills in the implementation of human resource activities through practical work examples and case studies. You will also have the opportunity to personalise your degree with the selection of a second study area.

Year 3

In your final year you will extend and integrate your knowledge of business and human resource management using critical thinking and decision making skills to analyse, diagnose and provide recommendations for implementing organisational change, work force planning, and human resource development. You will explore and critique real-world cases and projects, applying your theoretical knowledge to develop practical strategic policy suggestions for organisations.

Your degree at a glance

Year 1

You will build a base of broad business knowledge through the core units, covering all areas of business from finance, accounting and economics through to marketing and management. You will develop generic skills in all areas, and gain an understanding of how businesses operate within the commercial and legal environment. You will begin your studies in international business with specific emphasis on international marketing and market entry strategies.

Year 2

You will tackle import and export management, and investigate the challenges involved in producing goods to distribute overseas. You will begin to personalise your degree with an understanding of the history, culture and business environments of countries in either Asia or Europe as your international region of expertise. Your choice of second business study area will further direct your future career options.

Year 3

You will be encouraged to immerse yourself in another culture through further regional studies, or through international exchanges. Take the opportunity to gain practical skills in cross-cultural communication and negotiation, logistics, and contemporary business strategies for Asia or Europe. Gain an overview of strategic issues facing global firms, including the different company structures that provide an advantage over competitors in the global marketplace.

Languages option

The course structure for both full-time and part-time International Business students varies depending on whether languages are selected as an option. Alternative course structures are included: one outlines the course structure if no languages are taken, the other outlines the structure for those who wish to undertake a language specialisation. If languages are taken as a specialisation, language units should commence in the first semester of the first year to maintain continuity from earlier pre-QUT language studies. All language units must normally be taken in the same language. International students must take a language that is not their native tongue.

Professional recognition

Students are eligible for membership of the Australian Institute of Export, the Logistics Association of Australia and the Chartered Institute of Purchasing depending on units chosen.

Other majors

See also separate entries for other majors in this course: Accountancy, Advertising, Economics, Finance, Human Resource Management, Management, Marketing, and Public Relations.
