QUEENSLAND UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY

QUT is a leading Australian university with a strong professional emphasis in its course profile and a rapidly developing research reputation. Established as a university in 1989, its predecessor institutions were among Queensland's earliest tertiary education providers. Today, with an annual budget of $580 million, QUT enrolls nearly 40,000 students across more than 300 degree programs.

QUT's courses are in high demand, and graduates enjoy excellent job and career outcomes. Academic programs from bachelor degree to PhD are offered in: built environment and engineering, business, creative industries, education, health, science and technology, and law. Some 22 per cent of total enrolments are at postgraduate level, and 14 per cent of our students come from overseas.

QUT is recognised nationally and internationally for the relevance of its teaching and research to industry, the professions and the broader community. The university's "real world" positioning is also underpinned by close relationships with employers and professional bodies, which provide students with a unique balance of theory and practical skills. QUT makes extensive and innovative use of technology to enhance student learning, and QUT academics led national awards for university teaching in 2008. QUT is also committed to improving educational outcomes for Indigenous Australians and supporting low-income students with scholarships and bursaries. The university has also developed a progressive recruitment and development strategy for early and mid-career academics.

Over the past decade, QUT has greatly expanded its research and international profile. It leads four national research centres (in dementia, construction innovation, engineering asset management and interactive design) and is a participant in several others. It has established Queensland's first Confucius Institute and hosts the Australian-Canadian Prostate Cancer Research Alliance, the ARC Centre of Excellence for Creative Industries and Innovation, the Syngenta Centre for Sugarcane Biofuel Development and the Microsoft eResearch Centre.

In 2008, QUT announced ambitious plans to establish a new Science and Technology Precinct, with the aim to create an internationally significant hub for the integration of science, technology, engineering and mathematics disciplines. QUT's commercialisation company, bluebox, develops and manages commercial relationships between QUT and industry.

Four major institutes draw together researchers from across the university to work together, and with external partners, to provide high-impact solutions to some of the major challenges of our time. The Institute of Health and Biomedical Innovation involves 700 researchers from different disciplines to bridge the gap between science and better health. Other research institutes are in the areas of information security, sustainability and creative industries.

Based in Brisbane, QUT has three campuses: at Gardens Point and Kelvin Grove in the inner city, and at Caboolture north of the city. At Kelvin Grove, a modern urban village development is integrating the campus with the community. QUT's Creative Industries Precinct, the Institute of Health and Biomedical Innovation, community teaching clinics, sporting facilities and student accommodation are all part of the Kelvin Grove Urban Village, along with residential and retail development.

QUT is a member of the Australian Technology Network of universities, along with RMIT, UTS, UniSA and Curtin. www.qut.edu.au

COUNCIL

Composition, membership, powers and responsibilities of QUT Council are governed by the QUT Act 1998 (see MOPP Appendix 1). Procedures for regulating the University's committee system, including conduct of business by Council, are detailed in Council Procedure 1 — Committees (see MOPP Appendix 2).

QUT Council comprises senior members of the professions for which QUT prepares graduates; appointees from higher education, government, commerce and industry; elected staff, students and members of Alumni; and the University's chief executive officer. Council is responsible for the good governance of the University.

Council is empowered to establish committees and to delegate power to committees or officers of the University. While Council is ultimately responsible for the management and operation of QUT, it has delegated authority to the chief executive officer, the Vice-Chancellor, and to various senior administrators of QUT for much of the day-to-day management of the University (see MOPP Appendix 3). Council has also established a number of committees, some of which have been authorised to make decisions in respect of prescribed policy and procedural matters.

QUT University Medals

The University may award medals known as Queensland University of Technology medals to graduands of certain courses who have achieved an exceptionally high level of performance in their studies.

For the award of a medal, a graduand should have normally achieved a minimum grade point average of 6.5 across all units and thesis where such is required. Medals are awarded by the Registrar, on behalf of University Academic Board, on the recommendation of the relevant faculty academic board. The medal should be testimony that the recipient not only shows exceptional academic promise at the time of the award, but also exhibits an exceptional and consistent record of achievement throughout the whole of the degree.

Eligibility to be considered for the award of a University Medal is limited to:

- graduands of 'end-on' honours degrees where performance in the related bachelor degree is also taken into account
- graduands of degrees with honours, including components of double degree programs where awards with honours are made
- graduands of bachelor degrees of at least three years normal duration where no honours award is available, including relevant components of double degree programs where no honours award is available.

In completing one of the above degrees, graduands must have been enrolled at QUT for at least two years of full-time study or equivalent. The two years of study at QUT must be directly relevant to the course for which the medal is awarded.

For graduands of double degrees, University medals are awarded as appropriate for each of the component degrees.

As the University medal is awarded only for exceptional achievement, University Academic Board has indicated as a guide to faculties that the proportion of graduands who may receive medals in any year should normally be not more than one per 200 bachelor-level graduands (or part thereof) per faculty.

The award is a silver medallion, suitably embossed and inscribed, together with a certificate attesting the award. The medallion is 5.5 centimetres square with rounded corners. The QUT logo is embossed one side and the reverse carries an inscription citing the year of the award and the name of the awardee. Further details may be placed on the certificate

QUT Alumni

QUT graduates become members of the University's Alumni. Membership of QUT Alumni is free.

QUT Alumni's mission is to enrich the lives of alumni and engage alumni in QUT's future for mutual benefit. This is achieved through friendly communication and cooperation among the University's graduates, students, faculty staff and close associates.

The Alumni Office at QUT provides services and programs for graduates to enhance professional development, promote lifelong learning, and create opportunities for keeping in touch with other graduates and continuing involvement with the University. As a current student of QUT, you can benefit from the news, programs and services organised by QUT Alumni for the University community.

The Alumni website provides useful information about QUT Alumni and its sponsored activities. Visit the site to find out about:

Giving to QUT

QUT is proud of the strong support it receives from the community, including the alumni.

Alumni, individuals, corporations, foundations and government give generously, both financially and through other in kind means, to the University's teaching, research and community outreach activities.

Alumni may wish to donate their time to QUT. Examples of donating time are: being a guest speaker at an event; participating in the Governance of QUT; or sharing experience and expertise as a career mentor to QUT students.

Financial donations from alumni ensures support for students through scholarships and prizes, an improved learning environment and world-leading research that solves real world problems. An example of donating to QUT is by supporting the Learning Potential Fund. The fund provides scholarships and bursaries to support QUT's disadvantaged students.

Donations to QUT are fully tax deductible. Bequests for general or specific purposes may also be made to the University.

For further information visit the giving website or contact QUT Development on 07 3138 1838.

The QUT Student Guild

The QUT Student Guild fosters the welfare of all QUT students and protects their rights. It advocates for students who experience difficulties during their time at QUT and represents all students on various University committees. Being a member of the Student Guild is like having an insurance policy; it is there to help you when things go wrong. Many QUT students have graduated only because the Guild has advocated for them when they have experienced academic difficulties.

The QUT Student Guild is owned and operated by and for students. The Student Guild is governed by Guild Council which consists of the Executive (President, General Secretary, Academic Rights Director, International Director, Women Director, Welfare Director, Recreation Director, Indigenous Director and Queer Services Directors, campus representatives, and specialist representatives (for part-time and external students, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students, and postgraduate students).

Members of the Guild Council are elected at the annual general election and all students are eligible to stand for positions at the election. Students are also able to nominate and vote for campus coordinator positions to help organise activities and services on campuses.

The Student Guild sends representatives to express students' views to many University committees, including the University Academic Board.

The QUT Student Guild is an organisation which offers support, advocacy and representation to all students at QUT on issues ranging from academic appeals to lobbying the state and federal governments on higher education issues. Quite often, access and equity to education can be affected by government policy. The Student Guild will often call on its members to attend rallies to stop regressive changes to the education system. The Student Guild fully supports a free public education system where everyone has equal access.

The QUT Student Guild also operates several commercial services across all campuses. These consist of the Guild Fitness Centres, Guild Bars, Guild News and Post Office, Academic Gown Hire and the Guild Second Hand Textbook Shop.

The Guild has a presence on the Web which can be accessed at www.guildonline.net. All of the Guild's services are listed there along with an events page where students can find out what is happening on their campus as well as up-to-date accommodation and part-time employment listings.
