

Disaster Planning and Preparedness

Professional Development Programs

Thursday 26 April – Friday 27 April 2018

Overview

Effective response by the health system to major incidents and disasters requires individuals who can help such organisations plan and prepare for disasters.

Disaster Planning and Preparedness is provided as two, one-day seminars which examine the way in which communities and organisations develop and implement policy for disaster management, undertake risk analysis, plan and prepare for major events including pandemics. This program is shared by students enrolled in postgraduate programs at QUT.
