Health Care Law and Ethics (LWN164)

Introduction to Health Care Law and Ethics

Presented by experts in Health Law and Ethics, this short course will be delivered over two block periods, each block consisting of two days.

Overview

Idea for health professionals and practitioners from a wide range of fields, the course will provide an introduction to the intersections between ethics and law in the healthcare setting.

Areas of focus include:

- An introduction to ethical theories and health law
- Macro level issues such as the right to health
- Micro level issues such as patient safety.

Developments and emerging issues in healthcare ethics and law will also be explored.

Aim

Participants in this short course will develop an understanding of health law; health ethics; and the relationships between the two.

Objectives

By the end of the course participants will be able to:

- Demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge and understanding of the links between law and ethics in healthcare;
- Demonstrate a critical appreciation of the dynamic nature of law and ethics in healthcare, in terms of its continuing development and the impact of various legal, ethical, moral, economic, political, philosophical, social, and cultural factors on developments in this area;
- Clearly express and defend positions on a range of issues at the intersection of health care ethics and law in a manner that is both respectful and constructive and acknowledges contrasting perspectives;
- Research, synthesise, critically analyse, and evaluate complex legal and ethical issues in a healthcare context.
