

Trainee Solicitors Program (TSP) and Supplementary Training

Set yourself up for success and excel in QUTeX Trainee Solicitors Program for admission to the Supreme Court of Queensland as a legal practitioner. Complete your 90 hours of approved training or fill gaps in your workplace training with supplementary training.

Trainee solicitors in a supervised work experience program are required to complete an additional 90 hours of training to satisfy the legal practitioner admissions rules. QUTeX Trainee Solicitor Program (TSP) provides trainees with this required 90 hours of approved training. This online course offers the flexibility to enrol, pay, and complete the training at any time over 12 months. Trainees can choose between one core area or two elective areas of practice.

Evolve with QUTeX

Approved by the Legal Practitioners Admissions Board, QUTeX Trainee Solicitor Program (TSP) provides high-quality online training by utilising the university's extensive experience in training Queensland legal practitioners. The Supreme Court of Queensland requires trainees to complete approved training and workplace training to cover all areas of practice outlined in the Admission Rules. QUTeX offers trainees both approved training and supplementary training; supplementary training is for those who need to complete areas of practice listed in the Admission Rules that their workplace doesn't cover. Besides Criminal Law, which has a one-day attendance component, all other units are online with each unit requiring completion within six months of commencement. Participants will be provided a suggested timetable to assist with time management.

Core concepts

The 90-hour Trainee Solicitor Program (TSP) includes a compulsory ethics component and either one 12 credit point core unit or two 6 credit point elective units. To meet the Queensland admission requirements, you must complete two areas of study, either in workplace training or as part of approved or supplementary training. Trainees undertaking supplementary training may choose from the list below to supplement their workplace competencies required under the Admission Rules.

Elective units (6 credit point units)

- Administrative Law
- Family Law
- Criminal Law
(one-day attendance component)
- Banking and Finance
- Employment and Industrial law
- Planning and Environment Law
- Wills and Estates
- Consumer Law

Core units (12 credit point units)

- Litigation
- Property
- Commercial

Who should participate?

The Supreme Court of Queensland requires that law graduates completing Supervised Workplace Experience programs in law firms, (formerly known as 'articles of clerkship'), must also complete 90 hours of approved training as a prerequisite to be admitted as a legal practitioner.

(See rule 9 of the Supreme Court (Admission) Rules 2004).
