Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM

ACTION PLAN 2022

Christopher Barner-Kowollik,
Deputy Vice-Chancellor and
Vice President (Research)
Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Committee
March 2022
QUT acknowledges the Turrbal and Yugara, as the First Nations owners of the lands where QUT now stands. We pay respect to their Elders, lores, customs and creation spirits. We recognise that these lands have always been places of teaching, research and learning. QUT acknowledges the important role Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people play within the QUT community.

1. Foreword

QUT strives to create an environment that is fully inclusive of all people and respects the individuality of all staff and students to ensure an equal, equitable and diverse teaching and research environment. This is not only a matter of justice, as important as that is: it is also good sense. Diversity is a precious asset for any organisation that values participation, seeks new knowledge and openly questions the status quo.

The Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Action Plan reflects QUT’s long-term commitment to equal opportunity for women, with formal policies, programs and targets in place for close to 30 years. The new Action Plan is a bespoke strategy that aligns with QUT’s gender equity and diversity aspirations. It builds on the valuable research explored in the 2013 report Gender equity, research and related issues at QUT and on QUT’s participation in the SAGE Athena SWAN program.

QUT is committed to fostering opportunities for all staff and students from diverse backgrounds in relation to their personal, cultural, social and professional identities. This includes Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, neurodiverse people, people with disability, people with health conditions, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, and people of diverse genders, sexualities, religious affiliations or socioeconomic circumstances. We are not a complete community until all individuals are included and afforded opportunity, regardless of their backgrounds, characteristics, beliefs and circumstances.

Accordingly, this Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Action Plan will connect with other QUT action plans to develop and build a universal framework that embraces and protects diversity across the university, meeting the needs of all staff and student cohorts across all disciplines, addressing all forms of structural and persistent discrimination.

The Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Action Plan outlines the activities that QUT is undertaking to support gender equity and diversity in staff recruitment, progress and retention in STEMM faculties and research centres, and opportunities to improve the visibility and celebrate the achievements of our richly diverse research community.

Professor Margaret Sheil  AO
Vice-Chancellor and President

Professor Christopher Barner-Kowollik
Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice President (Research)
The Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Action Plan outlines actions QUT is undertaking to support gender equity and diversity in staff recruitment, progress and retention in STEMM faculties, research centres and disciplines.

For the purposes of this plan, gender is primarily understood as a key factor in the discrimination experienced predominately by women, trans and gender-diverse people, because of the historical and structural inequalities they have experienced and continue to experience. Similarly, QUT recognises that gender is one aspect of people’s identities and it intersects with other aspects including, for example, sexuality, race, disability, neurodiversity, age and religion. Gender discrimination frequently aggravates and is aggravated by discrimination on other grounds, such as racism, ableism and homophobia, and for this plan to be successful measures favouring gender equity must also address these intersectional dynamics. While this plan does take account of these issues, its primary focus is on gender equity.

Gender equality is one of QUT’s top-level institutional key performance indicators. Corporate performance on Gender equality (KPI 9) is measured through representation of women in senior positions and headcount of female staff in Senior Staff Group levels, Academic level D and Academic level E (excluding casuals).

This plan includes QUT-wide and STEMM-specific actions, encompasses current and new initiatives, and covers four priority areas as listed below. For each action, key results and outcomes, responsibilities, timelines, linking actions and related documents are outlined. The QUT Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Committee will oversee implementation of the Action Plan.

The Gender Equity and Diversity in STEMM Action Plan is supported by QUT’s Gender Equity related schemes, programs and initiatives in line with the MOPP A/8.8 gender equity and the Blueprint, as well as Faculty Action Plans and Divisional Enabling Plans. Associated plans for LGBTIQA+ inclusion, Disability and Inclusion Action Plan, Sexual Assault and Sexual Harassment Action, Indigenous Australians Employment Strategy and Indigenous Australian Research Strategy, can be accessed on QUT’s Digital Workplace.

Notes:

1) The STEMM scope at QUT includes all Faculty of Engineering; all Faculty of Health; all Faculty of Science; STEMM-related disciplines in the Faculty of Creative Industries, Education and Social Justice and the Faculty of Business and Law; and STEMM-related research centres. The staff in scope include academic staff and professional staff who support research.

2) Diversity, in the context of this document, is defined as diverse backgrounds in relation to personal, cultural, social and professional identities. This includes Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, neurodiverse people, people with disability, people with health conditions, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, and people of diverse genders, sexualities, religious affiliations or socioeconomic circumstances.
