About our banner

In Oslo, Norway on 26 July 2011 around 100,000 people marched to mourn the slaughter of 77 victims murdered by Anders Breivik several days earlier.

“Most people at the event carried a single red or white rose.... The crowd raised their flowers together to Crown Prince Haakon, who said that “tonight the streets are filled with love.”

Prime Minister Jens Stoltenberg also addressed crowds in Oslo saying: “By taking part, you are saying a resounding ‘yes’ to democracy.” He said this was a “march for democracy, a march for tolerance, a march for unity”, adding: “Evil can kill a person but never conquer a people.”

This sentiment is what our banner, of single roses held high, symbolises.
